CHRISTMAS

Advent of the Savior Sung in Glad

Hosannas. ONE CHOIR FOR THIS ANTHEM

and Protestant Churches Have Elaborate Programs Commemorating Birth of the Christ.

Catholic and Protestant churches have elaborate programs for the celebration of the Christman festival this year. Some have already been presented, others will be tonight and others on Christmas day, while some will be held for Sunday. At least one church will have its Christmas feast Tuesday night. Many cantatas and dramatic stories of the Yuletide, expressing the Christian's joy in the advent of his Savior, are to be presented.

Miss Elizabeth Hamling, who has been pursuing her vocal studies in Chleago during the last two years, will sing at the North Presbyterian church Sunday morning. An elaborate program of Christmas music has been arranged for both morning and evening services, as follows; MORNING.

O Day When Christ Was Born.

By Rebecca Farson McKay. Somewhere the winds were softly bearing to Him The mystic music of the waking world, The song of birds in warmer woodlands winging, And carol of the daffodils unfurled.

Upon the breezes came the far-off token Of ocean's deep and ponderous anthem-song; And through the azure distances unbroken, And o'er the dim and distant heights along There came the silent tribute of creation-

The calm acclaim of starry hosts above,

The rhythmic-wonder song of adoration To Him Who came in lowliness and love. Above and o'er Him angel harps were ringing, And seraph voices heralded His birth; While shepherds near and Magi-men were bringing Glad gifts to Him who bringeth "Peace on Earth."

O let us join the glorious Christmas Chorus That thrilleth yet along the hills of Shem; Give praise to Him who liveth in and o'er us-The Premised One-the Babe of Bethlehem!
