MORGAN IN NITRATE FIEL

New York Banker is Organizing Big English Syndicate.

BLOW AT ALLEGED BUTTER TRUST

Effort Will Be Made at Present Session to Reduce the Tax on Colored Oleomargarine -"What is a Quart?"

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 - (Special.)-Press dispatches from Valparaiso, Peru, an ounce that there is a report current there that J. Pierpont Morgan is organizing at English syndicate with a capital of some thing like £50,000,000 sterling to cover the nitrate products of the world. The islands off the Pacific coast of South America have for years furnished practically all the nitrate deposits of the earth, and Peru and Chili have fought several wars over the control of some of these islands.

The recent death of General W. W. Dud ley, former commissioner of pensions, com bined with a report that Banker Morgan is engaged in a plan to control the nitrates of the world, calls to mind the fact that the so-called Landreau claim is still unsettled. Landreau was an American citizen who purchased a concession covering one of the Peruvian islands rich in guano deposits, and, as it is alleged, was deprived of his holdings. So far back as the days of Secretary Blaine this claim was a cause celebre. It has been a subject of negotiation for upwards of three decades, and it is alleged that the Geneva tribunal decided in favor of Landreau a year or two ago. But the claim has never been settled. The original Landreau is dead, his grandson has passed on, and one of his attorneys, General Dudley, was buried here only General Dudley's surviving partner, General Mitchner, is of the opinion that the attempt of the Morgan syndicate to control the nitrate deposits may of the Landreau claims. But "manana" is the motto of the South American countries and unless some vigorous Knexian policy is marked, it may be that several generations will pass away before the Landreau claim is settled, in spite of the fact that J. Plerpont Morgan is trying to control the nitrate deposits of the world.

Now It's What is Quart?" President Taft answered the question 'What is whisky" greatly to the satisfaction of the gentlemen engaged in combining two or three different distillations. Attorney General Bonaparte insisted that whisky was the direct product of the still. with no extraneous substances incorporated. Any product of a rectifying establishment which contained more or less than was produced from the distiller's worm was according to Mr. Bonaparte's ruling a compound and not whisky, but President Taft has decided that what is known as whisky commercial is whisky official from this time on, and now he and his cabinet are confronted with the question, "What is a

The new penal code which went into ef fect January 1 provides that when liquors whether spirituous, vinous or malt, are shipped from one state to another the package in which they are sent must in addition to giving the name of the consignee, show plainly on the labels the character of the contents and the quantities of same. Ordinarily whisky is put up in bottle five to the gallon. Commercially these bottles are known as quarts, but the question arises as to whether or not a shipdesignated as six quarts or whether the labels must show that there are exactly six-fifths of a gallon in the package. Apparently there is no one yet competent to the express companies who are held responsible under heavy penalties for the transport of shipments improperly labeled have declined to render an opinion, the law officers of the government will not answer questions from parties outside the executive departments, and the consequence is that shippers are in a quandary as to where they stand. answer that question. The railroads and Two Soldiers Who Killed Widow of Former Governor of Bank of France Arrested.

> PARIS, Jan. 5.-The imprint of a bloody finger on a military ticket taken up on the train on which Mme. Gouin, widow of Jules Edouard Gouin, a former governor of the Bank of France was traveling December 16, has led to the solving of the nystery of her death. Mme Gouin's body was found under a the compartment which she had occupied as a passenger was almost torn from its hinges, and there was a pool of blood on the floor. Subsequent investigation showed that she had been robbed. Two soldiers, named Graby and Michel, today confessed having murdered the woman. The police followed up the first clue of the finger mark, and they succeeded in locating a former comrade of the two soldiers, who declared that he saw them embark on this train at Melum, which is thirty-seven miles from Paris. When confronted with this witness the two suspects broke down and made a full confession. They had long meditated robbing a passenger, the soldiers said, and took seats in the coach next to that in which Mme.
