TRADERS PREDICT LOWER PRICES Only Present Salvation Will Be Gate Larger Export and Cash Demands for Wheat-Corn Market Also Wenk.

Wheat still shows weakening signs, and traders are favoring the down side temporarily. They predict lower prices unless the export and cash demands pick up and become more active.

It is a question as to whether increased receipts at this time will more than check the present cash situation, which has been very strong during the past month.

The corn market is not showing the strength it should, but seiling of late has been heavy; realiging profits on the late buiges has checked the advance in futures, but the cash is still strong and active.

Wheat proved weak on general selling and unexpected weakness in Liverpool cables, Cash wheat was firm and sold at a slight advance, but the demand was of less urgent character and looks like prices might decline.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The drooping tone of the stock market persisted today. Some of the severest declines were effected NEW YORK, Jan, 11.—The drooping tone of the stock market persisted today. Some of the severest declines were effected on comparatively light sales.

In the Wabash-Pittsburg, Wheeling & Lake Eric group the collapse in prices demonstrated a feeling of keen disappointment with the reported terms of reorganisation and combination of the two properties by exchange of present securities for new, coupled with cash assessments. It was said much of the important selling today and for several days past was traceable to sources identical with the buying orders responsible for the 11½-point jump in Rock Island on the Monday after Christman. The evidence of retirement from the market of large commitments in this connection is of additional sentimental effect on the tone by reason of the large snare attributed to the same interests in the senseral market campaign for some time past. The New York call loan market is still reluctant to yield to the effects of the usual factors of relaxation after the turn of the year. Deferred requirements of syndicates in underwriting securities or in financing the needs of corporations are given as explanation for the unseasonable behavior of the money market.

The introduction in congress of the bill intended to embody President Taff's recommendations for changes in intersiate commerce law gave material for cogitation on the part of security holders.
