CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Bids for Automobile for City Uses Are Opened and Referred.

STORM SEWERS IN HEART OF CITY

New Sewers to Be Installed Before Repairing is Done in the Business District This Year.

The city council put in most of its time Tuesday evening opening bids and listening to a series of reports from Councilman Schroeder relative to failure of the city to provide for the construction of a sewer from Hahnson park to the downtown district.

Bids for furnishing an automobile to the city for the use of the mayor, council and city engineer were received as follows, for a seven-passenger car: R. R. Kimball, Stoddard-Dayton, $2,250; H. E. Frederickson, Stoddard-Dayton, $2,400; Guy L. Smith, Franklin, $2,200; Apperson Sales Agency, $2,000; J. J. Dentist & Company, Stoddard-Dayton, $2,250; Testin, $2,300; Bulk Auto company, $2,143; W. L. Hoffman Auto company, Interstate, $1,900, with extras, $2,061. The bids all went to a special committee consisting of Sheldon, Brucker and Hummel.

Bids for overhauling the plumbing in the city hall were received from J. A. Fitzpatrick for $200 and from C. H. Kessler for $150.

Garbage Removal Bids. Bids for the removal of garbage were received from James Whalen, for districts Nos. 2 and 3, and from the Omaha Rendering and Feed company for the eight districts into which the city has been divided by ordinance. The bids for garbage range from 10 to 15 cents a can, according to size, and from $1 to $1.50 a cubic yard for refuse. The rendering company stipulated that unless it can have districts Nos. 1 and 2 with all others, it does not want any.

The ordinance under which bids were asked provides that the health commissioner shall report on the lowest and best bidder, but by motion the council ignored this provision and sent the bids to the committee of the whole.

More Storm Sewers. City Engineer Craig reported that it is necessary to build adequate storm water sewers in the downtown business district before all the streets are repaired the coming summer. The council therefore passed a resolution providing for advertising for the construction of storm sewers on the following streets: Ninth, from Jones to Howard; Howard, from Ninth to Sixteenth; Tenth, from Howard to Dodge; Harney, from Tenth to Tenth. The estimated cost is about $150,000.

When this resolution passed, Councilman Schroeder made a determined effort to bring in his pet project, the Hahnson park sewer. He catenated the city engineer and took issue with the latter's statement that it would be impossible to get what the seventh ward councilmen wanted until the sewers which will have to carry the Hahnson park water are enlarged. "These sewers burst every spring as it is," said Mr. Craig. "No one will quarrel with the need for the sewer advertised by Mr. Schroeder, but until the other sewers that must carry the water are enlarged it would be folly to build it."

Councilman Schroeder attempted to interrupt the roll call on a resolution he had offered for the construction of his sewer, and when called to order spoke hotly of "a clique" that he ought to get in with. Called to order, he still persisted, but President Burmaster ruled him off the floor until his name was called. The finish came when his resolution was voted down, 3 to 2, being supported by himself, Johnson and Kugel.

New City Officer. A resolution was passed creating the office of health officer, to be filled by a slaughter house inspector, at a salary of $15 a month, to be expiring by the next year and confirmed by the council. This will be advertised for three weeks in the official paper, The Bee, and then the companion ordinance, providing rules and regulations for ante-mortem and post-mortem inspection.

SECOND ARREST IN HUNT CASE

Tom Mimms, to Whom Slayer Says He Gave Gun, Denies It.

HIMSELF JUST OUT OF HOSPITAL

Negro Sliced by Ice-man Arrested in Connection with Killing of Joe Knowlton by Joe Hunt to Avenge His Wrongs.

Tom Mimms, a negro fireman employed at the Henshaw, is in jail because he refuses to tell the police what he did with the gun with which Joe Hunt shot and killed Joe Knowlton in his home at 2623 Patrick avenue. Witnesses say that Mimms has the gun.

"I don't know nothing about it," is the negro's sullen reply to all questions. Mimms just got out of the hospital, where he was treated for injuries inflicted when he got into an argument with the ice man at the Henshaw. The ice man got the better of the debate by the use of a butcher knife and cleaver, which disfigured Mimms considerably.

Mimms was next door to the Hunt home when the fatal shooting occurred. Hunt entered this house after the shooting by which he avenged his wrongs and says that he tossed the gun on a bed and that it was picked up by Mimms. The police want the gun to introduce in evidence at the inquest to be held by Coroner Crosby Friday.

Dillard Simpson, head waiter at the Henshaw, says that he saw Mimms take the revolver. Hunt was seen in his cell at the city jail by a number of friends, who dropped in to say a good word for him to the police. According to the colored people with whom he has worked at the Henshaw, Hunt, the slayer, was in good repute.

Looks for Man with Slit in Him

E. V. Robbins Asks Police if They've Seen Fellow He Carved with Knife.

"Got a man with a slit in him?"

The strange question was hurled at Desk Sergeant Havel by a man giving his name as E. V. Robbins and residence 708 South Seventeenth street, who rushed into the police station early in the day.

In his hand the man displayed a knife the blade of which was stained with blood. This was his story: "Two men assaulted me with a club early—about 4:30—Tuesday morning under the Eleventh street viaduct and would have killed me had I not thrust my knife into one of them. They fled and I left as hastily as possible. I just wanted to see if a man had turned up here with a piece cut out of him, for I must have given him a pretty good cut, this blade is so bloody."

Up to date no man with a slit in him has appeared, but the police credit Robbins' story.

SIXTH CAVALRY NEARS STATION

Passes Through Omaha Enroute to Fort Des Moines in Three Sections.

Rock Island train bearing the first squadron of the Sixth United States cavalry passed through Omaha about 8:30 a. m. yesterday, enroute from San Francisco to Fort Des Moines. The headquarters and band were with the first section. The second section with the second squadron of the regiment arrived in Omaha about 3 o'clock and the third section with the third squadron is due about 5 o'clock this evening. Stop was made in Council Bluffs only long enough for the change of engines and no stop was made in Omaha.

The command embraces about 800 men altogether, with Colonel Alexander Rogers in command, and is due at Fort Des Moines some time during the night.

Announcements of the Theaters. On account of a demand indicating an audience much larger than the Orpheum will accommodate for the Saturday matinee, the management requests as many of the women and children as can conveniently arrange to attend the matinee today or on Friday. The cause of the unusually big rush is "Jack the Giant Killer."

The big bundle, the seven million, shows up just as "Monty" has walked into his million. He thinks he's going some with the original pile, and Mr. "Grant," a lawyer, who has a plentiful supply of alfalfa on his map, knocks him silly when he puts him up to the seven million package. At the Boyd all this week and Saturday matinee.

At the Krug this week "School days, school days, dear old golden rule days," is a line in a song that has been sung all over this country, not only by "kids," but by "grown ups." Gus Edwards conceived the words and music. It met with immediate success. Since then this little song has developed into a three-act musical comedy and it has been repeating its previous success in an even greater degree.

The aerobatic act of Bowen, Lina and Moll as displayed twice each day at the Gayety as a portion of the excellent entertainment supplied by Robie's Knickerbocker is pronounced by connoisseurs of vaudeville as the epitome of effort on the horizontal bars. The ease and grace of these three performers is little short of marvellous and the way they cast one another around would lead one to believe that they are more at home in the air than on terra firma.

Among the most delightful comedies seen in many years is Henry B. Harte's production of "The Lion and the Mouse" at the Krug next week, is one of the wealthiest men on the stage, and one of the very few who follow the footlights merely through inclination. At 67 he has the imperative call of a million mark, and yet finds the blandishments of stage life superior to those accorded him as an active and wealthy member of New York society. A considerable part of his income is derived through real estate in which he is interested. While he spends in obeying the imperative call of the footlights Mrs. Byron, a former actress, is frankly enjoying the opulence with which he has surrounded her in a beautiful Gotham home.

BEFORE THE PEOPLE'S BAR

Here's a Man with Nerve Enough to Filch Thirty Pounds of Butter.

"NOT VERY GUILTY," SHE CRIES And Leola De Paris Shambles Off for Ninety Days—Jack Milton Vents Wrath on Crippled Wife.

Charged with intending to make himself the ultimate consumer of thirty pounds of creamery butter worth, by the way, only 60 cents a pound, taken from a Waterloo Creamery company wagon, John Davis in the city jail awaits trial for petit larceny.

"Dutch," a vagrant serving a term in the county jail, took his leave from the county jail at the head of a pursuing column of policemen, detectives and deputy sheriffs. He was within four days of completing the term of penance set by Judge Bryce Crawford in police court.

"Dutch" was sent out with a can of garbage. He placed the can on an ash pile close to the jail and waved a goodbye to the jailer. With all the officers in earshot of the alarm in hot pursuit he sped down Dodge street toward the river and vanished in the maze of railway tracks and box cars.

Leola De Paris, her one-time fair face seamed with the marks of life in the under stratum, looked across the bench at Judge Bryce Crawford. She was charged with drunkenness.

"Not drunk, but very guilty, Monsieur," answered the woman. The judge glanced over Morgan Marshall's report stating that madam of the classic name had been found in the fire station at Eleventh and Jackson streets at 2 o'clock in the morning, wearing a man's clothes. She was in the throes of a cocaine spree's reaction and imagined the street filled with pursuers.

"Ninety days," announced the judge. "That may work a cure."

"Flown with insolence and wine," as the late Jack Milton remarked in "L'Allegro," Thomas Troby drifted into his home in a very bad humor. He vented his wrath by harsh words to his crippled wife and by breaking up a lamp and several pieces of the family china.

The attempt to get a square meal for 5 cents cost Max Kimmel $5 in police court. "Give me a cup of coffee," said Kimmel, taking a seat at the lunch counter. He pocketed the little red 5-cent check, moved down a few chairs and ordered a breakfast of sausage, farm style, and buckwheat cakes, all to the value of 25 cents. At the cash register he offered 5 cents and the red check. Stanley Swanson, the manager, detected the attempt and called the police.

JOHN WALSH, ORATOR, GONE Zealous Champion of Industrial Workers of the World Has Quit the Stump.

The halls where John Walsh, national organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, held forth in perfunctory appeals against "predatory wealth" are silent. The rooming and eating house establishment he founded in the name of his organization at Eleventh and Douglas streets is stripped and deserted.

Mr. Walsh is gone. So also are four other succeeding secretaries and treasurers. Complaints have been made to the police that affairs were not being conducted as they should, but no formal action has been taken.

The row, parliamentary and complicated, ensued following the unannounced departure of Mr. Walsh. An election was held, but some way the officers could not find the time to stay. Then followed four more elections, each time the elected officers declaring themselves the owners in fee simple of the effects of the organization.

The final crushing blow came when the little handful of followers, who had not been elected officers yet, got together in a last effort to perpetuate the institution. From their pockets they produced a total of $130. This was expended for meat and bread, which, when cooked and served over the lunch counter, brought in $11.50. Straightway another election was held and the officers demanded the delivery of the funds. They got the money and then came the crash and final appeal to the police.

Wednesday the last of the effects of the Industrial Workers of the World were removed from the building at Eleventh and Douglas streets, and the organization became non est.

The organization began its troubled existence in Omaha in July last. A Shooting Scrape with both parties wounded, demands Bucklen's Arnica Salva. Heals wounds, sores, burns or injuries. 25c. For sale by Beaton Drug Co.

factory, duck sheep-lined coats, a branch factory in Omaha, another branch shirt factory at Council Bluffs and another at Plattsmouth and a branch overall factory at Nebraska City. In December the firm made 210,000 garments, a rate of a complete garment for every three and a half seconds.

Doan's Kidney Pills is a simple vegetable remedy, yet very quick in its healing and strengthening action on the kidneys. It contains nothing of a narcotic, poisonous or habit-forming nature and can be taken by any man, woman or child, of even the most delicate state of health.

OMAHA PROOF. Mrs. Anna Kalmberch, 705 South Seventeenth street, Omaha, Neb., says: "Several years ago I began to suffer from kidney complaint. My back grew weak and painful and on this account I was unable to rest well. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and this weakness was a source of great annoyance. Although I tried several remedies, it was not until I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills that I found relief. I continued their use until I had finished the contents of six or seven boxes and by that time I was well. I still take a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills off and on, however, as I find that they keep my kidneys in good working order."
