Damage.

Primary wheat esceipts are running much in excess of a Yeaf ago at all markets. It is evident that million at all points have been well supplied and stocks are increasing rapidly. Damage reports from the winter wheat fields are becoming numerous. Receipts of corn are still liberal and fallroads are mandling the grain products with the utmost speed. Cash corn prices are weakening under heavy offerings.

Wheat suffered a loss today, values cashing off steadily under seeing pressure. Liverpool cables were lower and the demand for cash wheat somewhat slack. A lower market is predicted if receipts continue. OMAHA, Jan. 31, 1910.

Extreme Lassitude is After Effect of Last Week's Excitement.

EARLY MARKET FIRM AND QUIET

Steel and Union Pacific Abruptly Drop Two Points in Last Half of the Session.

NEW YORK, Jan. II.—Extreme lassitude settled upon the stock market today seemingly as the after-effects of last week's violent excitement. In spite of the lethargy, prices suffered little, the late selling came after considerable gains had occurred.

The professional tactics were seen in selling came after considerable gains had occurred.

The professional factics were seen in the profession of apprehension that the American tobacco case decision would be handed down by the supreme court. The small likelihood of such action was well known to those who had taken the trouble to inform themselves, as well as the intended adjournment of the court for a three weeks recess. This recess was a factor, in fact, in holding the early stock market firm. There is a widespread opinion in the financial world, nevertheless, that no effective stock market revival is to be looked until this important case is finally disposed of. It is believed the main current of the market will not set in again until the court has defined what may be regarded as permissable restraint within the meaning of the Sherman antituse law.

short time after the opening units thing had been sold.

More or less improvement was apparent in the prices paid for all kinds of stock, but the inquiry for sheep was especially brisk and the advance more positive than that on lambs. The better grades of live mutton commanded figures that looked to be easily 10c higher than last week's close. One string of ewes changed hands at $5.50 and some toppy wethers sold at $5.50.

Lamb prices appeared to be quotably strong; in fact, there were hardly enough lambs on sale to afford a very broad idea of the actual trend of values. The best kind here sold at $5.50, but something strictly prime in this line would probably sell up as high as $2.50.
