Mr. Pinchot takes up in what he calls "a spirit of constructive criticism" the nine bills relating to the conservation of natural resources introduced into congress on January 18 on behalf of the secretary of the interior, one of which has been reported from the senate public lands committee, while the other eight are still in the hands of the comittee Mr. Pinchot calls upon the members of the tion association. This bill, Mr. Pinchot thinks, should have the "unqualified support of the members of the association." Of the other eight bills, he believes that me merely require amendment, while
