PRINTERS DEDICATE LIBRARY

Addition to the Home at Colorado Springs Formally Opened.

PLANT VALUED AT A MILLION

President Lynch Outlines the History of the Home and Tells of Benefactions of Printers' Union.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Feb. 18.

At the Union Printers' home yesterday the library addition to that institution was formally dedicated. The Union Printers' home is the only institution of its kind in the world conducted by a trade union for the benefit of its indigent and sick members. The value of the property is estimated at $1,000,000, and the addition that was dedicated yesterday cost $30,000. It houses the home's magnificent collection of books—12,000 volumes. Among the speakers were Mayor Avery of this city, a representative of the local Typographical union, a representative of Denver Typographical union and President James M. Lynch of the International Typographical union. The exercises were attended by a large number of people. President Lynch made the principal address, and, among other things, said:

We meet today to participate in the dedication ceremonies incident to the latest addition to the institution known as the Union Printers' home, the library addition. The history of the library addition is typical of the history of the entire institution. An insignificant collection of books of a few hundred volumes has grown to more than 10,000 volumes. A room, commodious and up-to-date was needed to house the collection. The requirements of the home, purely domestic in its nature, demanded additional room and modern utensils. The great need was made known to our membership. Immediately the money necessary, voluntarily contributed, began to pour in until the amount in hand was sufficient to warrant the board of trustees in undertaking the actual work of construction. Today we are dedicating the new addition that, aside from this beautiful library room, which we are assembled, has given to the home an enlarged dining room, additional store rooms, new kitchen, serving rooms, bakery, cold storage plant, etc. And all of this, including the home itself, has been constructed and is maintained by the union printers of this continent, who have their own private responsibilities, cares and duties, but who, notwithstanding, find a way to contribute something each month toward the solace, comfort and happiness of their brothers in distress. Since this institution received its first resident, these wage-earners have contributed nearly $1,000,000 to its support. The physical value of the property is estimated at $1,000,000. But the benefactions of the International

Other Work of Organization.

We are proud of our trade. We desire to maintain that trade in all its tradition and perfection. To that end we have established and maintain a technical school for the benefit of journeymen and apprentices so that they may perfect themselves in their chosen calling, may know of the latest developments in their trade and latest improvements, and may turn that increased knowledge not only to their own account in the way of additional remuneration for their labor, but that the art of printing may itself be advanced, and that the product of the press in America may be superior to that of any other country. In this way we perform a public and a patriotic function.

Foremost in the battle against the spread of the great white plague, the van of the movement for its elimination, leading in the ranks of that band of courageous spirits which is determined to eliminate tuberculosis, is the International Typographical union. It is a part of the National Anti-Tuberculosis association. It maintained an exhibit at the international congress held in Washington, and also at the Seattle exposition. It distributed over a year hundreds of thousands of leaflets, not only to its members, but to the public generally, containing advice as to the best means of combatting, avoiding and curing tuberculosis. It has carried on a crusade for better living conditions. Its members are advised that while they should be conservative in presenting demands for increased wages and decreased working time, they should be emphatically radical in their demand for decently arranged, sanitary workrooms.

Briefly, I have sketched for you the progress of the Union Printers' home. Let me now ask you to consider in connection with what we do, the assaults and the vilification indulged in by the enemies of the trade union, who seek to prejudice the public by false or distorted statements, or manufactured evidence. All of the great international unions with which I am acquainted, and an experience of twenty years gives me some right to speak, have beneficial features. On the other hand, have you ever heard of a home in which a nonunion workman may of right spend his declining years, other than the poorhouse? Have you ever heard of a sanatorium erected for the especial use and treatment of the nonunion workman who may be afflicted with tuberculosis or other disease? Have you ever heard of a pension fund for nonunion workmen which is as a right because he conceived and maintained it?

Maupin May Go to Grand Jury

State Labor Commissioner is Weighing Evidence in Child Labor and Female Law Violations.

State Labor Commissioner Maupin spent the day in Omaha conferring with Mrs. Draper Smith and Attendance Officer Gephson. Evidence in two specific cases of law violation was submitted. Violation of the child labor law is involved in one case and of the female labor law in the other.

Since the grand jury is at present in session, it is the understanding that if the commissioner considers the evidence sufficient to insure indictment, he will present the cases to County Attorney English for action.

SHELDON NOT A CANDIDATE

Declares He Will Not Take Initiative in Coming Campaign.

OUTLINES HIS LIQUOR BELIEFS

Sends Letter to "Sheldon Shouters" in Which He Discloses His Ideas for Regulation of Traffic.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Feb. 18.—(Special Telegram)—In a letter to Major John T. Dierks, president of the "Sheldon Shouters," a political organization of the University of Nebraska, former Governor George L. Sheldon last night made public his views on the regulation of the liquor traffic. He said further that he was not a candidate for office and would not be one of his own initiative.

In his letter ex-Governor Sheldon said: "In the coming campaign the liquor question will be the controlling issue. It was a factor in determining the last election. It will determine the next election. No candidate, no party carrying the dark lantern, can hope to succeed. The searchlight will be turned on."

"It is the duty of those who propose measures for the public welfare to consider what is best for the common good rather than their personal desires or preferences. Considering the liquor question from this standpoint, I have reached the following conclusions and hold them to be the best solution of this perplexing question:

"1. The enactment by the legislature of a law providing for state-wide prohibition, reserving the right, however, to any municipality to suspend the application of such law therein by a three-fifths vote, and when so suspended, to remain so for two years, when the question of continued suspension may be petitioned by again submitted.

"2. Provide a lawful method by which any individual of legal age may have liquor consigned to him, when, and when only, such liquor is for his, or his family's own use.

"3. Provision for medicinal use so that its dispensation for that purpose cannot be abused.

"4. The state to prohibit common carriers from consigning liquors, the ultimate use of which is for any person within a dry municipality, except as provided in 2 and 3 above.

"5. The designation by law of certain wet cities and wet towns, not exceeding two in each congressional district within the state, from which, and from which only, liquor may be consigned for use as contemplated in 2 and 3 above. In no event shall any dry city or town be so designated.

"6. A federal law prohibiting common carriers shipping or consigning liquor to any point within the state, except to such designated places as contemplated in 5 above.

"7. The federal government should not only cease its practice of issuing licenses in dry territory, but should also assist the state in prosecuting offenders.

"8. Such other co-operation on the part of the national government as may be necessary to give the state complete control of the shipment and dispensation of liquor among its citizens."

Mr. Sheldon said in answer to the question whether he would be a candidate for governor or senator:

"I am not a candidate for either office. I have, of course a personal preference. I am not at present in close touch with political doings in the state, but it appears to me that it is neither advisable for me nor for the party that I should announce myself for either of the offices mentioned in your benevolent resolutions. I have been tried and once denied. It is therefore for members of the party and not for me to decide. If it is left to me, I shall say no. In no event will I become a candidate on my own initiative."

IT'S THE TALK OF OMAHA!

The last day of this sale was advertised for Tuesday, February 15th, but on that day many people telephoned us that, owing to the cold and windy weather they were unable to get downtown to take advantage of the prices at this sale.
