

BOOSTER TO INVADE NORTH

Commercial Club to Make Trade Excursion in May.

ROUSING COMMITTEE MEETING

Enthusiastic Preparation of Plans Taken Up—Itinerary of Nearly 3,000 Miles Contemplated for Ten Days' Trip.

An extensive trade excursion in May to northern Nebraska and South Dakota is now assured by the Commercial club.

Among those present who participated in the deliberations were C. E. Bedwell, W. E. Rhoades, J. H. Wright, A. W. Carpenter, F. B. Coe, F. J. Hoel, O. W. Dunn, E. A. Hatfield, G. H. Pratt, D. B. Fuller, J. H. Taylor and J. M. Guild, commissioner of the club.

This bunch of hustlers got down to business in a hurry as there were included in the list a few veteran trade boosters who have been long active in assisting in the trade expansion of Omaha, the market town.

It was immediately determined to have a trip during the latter part of May, one of not less than a week's duration as it was thought best to cover enough territory, both old and new, to justify elaborate preparation and carefully laid plans to make them worth while.

A committee with Dan B. Fuller as chairman was named to frame up a tentative itinerary to include about 2,500 miles on the Milwaukee and Northwestern in South Dakota and Nebraska. The other members of this working crew are F. J. Hoel, J. H. Wright, Jr., E. A. Hatfield and W. E. Tagg.

That no time might be lost a meeting of the committee was called for last evening at the Commercial club, where in conjunction with George F. West of the Northwestern and W. E. Book of the Milwaukee they worked until midnight.

Secretary Stryker of the Live Stock exchange and J. M. Guild, commissioner of the Commercial club, met with the committee. A committee appointed at noon and meeting till midnight is a sample of the way the Commercial club committees are now working.

A course of action is outlined and immediately carried out. Before the committee had completed its labors it found enough territory to occupy the time for a ten days' trip to round it up in good shape. The tentative itinerary includes one Sunday spent at Hot Springs, S. D., for a rest.

While the schedule on its face is quite strenuous, it has been prepared with the idea of making it less arduous than some of its predecessors. Longer stops and less towns per day are some of the chief considerations of the schedule makers.

A draft of the committee's findings will be worked out and presented to the trade excursion committee early next week.

Visiting Nurses Will Create a Sick Baby Camp

Association Promotes Out-of-Door Resort for Little Ones in the Summer.

An out-of-door camp for sick babies will be added to Omaha's philanthropic provision this summer. The Visiting Nurse association is behind the project which it hopes to make a reality by the time warm weather comes.

It is planned to secure some shady, grassy plot within easy access of the car lines and not too far out, where to install an open air nursery where the babies of working women and other tots who might not otherwise be able to have the pure out door air necessary, may be brought and cared for by trained nurses during the day.

A kitchen will be equipped where the right kind of food may be prepared and provision may also be made for housing temporarily delicate little ones whose homes do not afford the care their health requires.

This department probably will be launched with ten beds. Several locations are being considered by the nurses, but nothing definite has been decided upon as yet.

Last summer the nurses found that babies that required care their homes could not provide and the association deems a summer out door camp necessary.

The first step toward providing such a camp will be to raise the necessary funds, and Wednesday evening, March 15, Mrs. Edith Wagner, pianist, assisted by other professional talent, will give a musicale in the Auditorium of the Young Women's Christian association to this end.

The musicale will take the place of the Visiting Nurses' annual "Birthday Party," for several years one of the largest, fashionable public functions given in the city.

No admission fee will be charged, but all will be invited to come in for a few numbers and to leave in baskets at the door any contribution they can make to the fresh air fund.

The Visiting Nurse association and its patrons include Omaha's wealthiest women.

FOUR G. A. R. MEN AFTER COMMANDER IN THE STATE Likely to Put Up Lively Fight at the Encampment in Fairbury

The indications are that there will be a lively contest for department commander of the Nebraska Grand Army of the Republics at the Fairbury encampment. The candidates have finally settled down to four. They are John Diener of Syracuse, J. H. Hoagland of North Platte, Freeman Meryman of Kearney and Nathan K. VanHusen of Omaha.

FIREMAN AND TRAMP DOG ENGAGED IN BITTER WAR

Walt Bernhardt Gains Animosity of Vagrant Cur, Who Lies in Wait to Do Him Violence.

"Jip" is a tramp dog, an outcast and a rascal. He has taken up his abode in the vicinity of fire station No. 12 and declared war on Walt Bernhardt, a husky fire fighter. Between them is waged a deadly feud of brick bats and slinking nips and barks.

The dog has long been credited with being man's best friend. Were the grave scientists to pry into "Jip's" anatomy they would on this score probably find him suffering from an inverted and polarized ego. His bump of affection has been grounded and crossed on his streak of aggressiveness.

"Jip" first showed his fighting proclivities when he assaulted Bernhardt when that worthy man of uniform tried to shoo the pup away from the heels of a fire hose. Since then, with one eye open and a sore spot in his ribs, the malicious little dog has been lying about at safe distances, to sally forth on occasion offers, to collect loose portions of the fireman's clothes. A pile of ruddy red chunks of brick, the fireman's munitions of war, is heaped close to the engine house door. The fight has been declared a draw by the other firemen, but neither Jip nor Bernhardt are ready to quit yet. Bernhardt says he is going to conquer and tame the pup.
