bound him. Around his neck was a cord. It was about the size of a sash cord. It was tied with a large knot at the back of his neck, but it was not choking the man. I noticed that particularly. His arms were tied down to his side by some more of this rope. I cut all the ropes as quickly as I could.

"Were his legs tied, too?" the officer was asked. "Yes, come to think of it they were. I never paid much attention to these details at the time. It was my business to catch the man who had done the work, not to get the offenders, so I never looked at the little things very close. But there was a rope around his legs, about the knees, as I remember now, so he couldn't kick.

"As soon as I had cut the ropes that bound the man I went back in the hall to Mr. Cudahy. He was standing in the doorway. All this time he had been talking excitedly and jabbering. But I didn't pay any attention to all the wild talk.

"I did it myself," Cudahy said. "You needn't call a doctor, Doctor Ayres (I think that was the name he mentioned, but I really didn't pay much attention) will be here in a minute. He'll only be a few minutes after I had arrived at the home, the doctor came in to look at the wounds. Cudahy himself, had no wounds, he said.

"The doctor told me to call the nearest ambulance, so I called up O'Donnell's and had them to hurry their ambulance over. Then I took Cudahy to the station. He had done the work and it was my business to get him down to the station.

"I didn't see any knife that she cutting was done with. I didn't save any of the rope. I let Cudahy call up his lawyers. Then I took Cudahy to the station. She talked a lot and I was talking all the time about the home being ruined."

"Underwood was not able to give a close description of the wounds that had been inflicted upon Lilla, although he bent over the man to cut the bonds which held him helpless while his face was mutilated.

"He was all bloody. That's the most important thing. His face was just a mass of blood."

As Underwood remembered the wounds, three long gashes laid open one side of Lilla's face. A long gash crossed the forehead above the eyes. The arms were also slightly mutilated and there was one deep cut in the left leg below the knee. That cut went in clear to the bone.

Indians Secure Whisky; Barkeep Faces Jail Term

Dispenser at One of Washington's Big Hotels Arrested—First Case of Kind There.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, March 8.—(Special Telegram.)—Simon Hollowell, an Omaha Indian, who came here with a delegation from this tribe to bring about an agreement between the Omahas and the government, is charged with having bought liquor for some of his friends, to whom the average saloonman would not sell under any circumstances, and acting as purchasing agent for his friends, he placed Thomas F. Sullivan, bartender of a well known hotel behind the bars, starting a jail sentence in his face. Hollowell, it is said, knowing his blanket Indian friends could not openly buy whisky, volunteered to obtain refreshments. Two Indians of the Chippewas, who imbibed, blew out the gas in their rooms, causing their death. Their bodies have been embalmed and sent to Minnesota.

"Barkeep" Sullivan has been arrested because he violated the law in selling liquor to an Indian and before United States Commissioner Taylor today he was held for action by the grand jury.

This case is the first of the kind to come before the authorities in Washington under the Mcklejohn act. Eighteen Indian graves, nine from the Cheyenne and an equal number from the Standing Rock reservation, are in Washington to discuss with the department and members of congress, certain details in bills which provide for opening to white settlement the remainder of their reservations.

Today the Indians were at the capitol and called upon Senators Gamble and Crawford and paid their respects to Representative Burke and Martin. They also called upon the commissioner of Indian affairs, and tomorrow will have a formal hearing before the senate committee on Indian affairs.

Representative Woods today introduced a bill carrying an appropriation of $5,000 to purchase a site for a public building at Algonia, Ia.

Representative Smith today presented a bill appropriating $75,000 for the erection of a public building at Red Oak, Ia. The government has already acquired the ownership of a site at Red Oak.

B. L. Brown and J. G. Golden, S. D., who have been in Washington for several days, left for New York today. H. Herpolsbomer of Lincoln is in Washington on route to New York. He called upon Senator Burkett at the capitol today.

The secretary of the interior has authorized the reclamation service to execute a contract on the Mesquite Golden & Baird, who have been in Washington for several days, left for New York today. The contract price is $147.

PICK CONVENTION CITY TODAY

"Omaha depends largely on your support," said the mayor. "We are undertaking to build here a large metropolitan city and we need your co-operation. Omaha is the center of the great country on earth, and when this country once develops this section will take care of 100,000 people. This is the gateway to a big territory which intells into the hearts of all the freedom and power of progress and energy, so that Omaha is destined to be one of the great metropolitan cities of the nation. We are anxious to join hands with you men, for your co-operation means success to you and to us."

Other Addresses of Welcome. Ward M. Burgess of the M. E. Smith Dry Goods company and vice president of the Omaha national bank welcomed the visitors in behalf of the Omaha Commercial club and the commercial interests of Omaha.

"The Commercial club is a hard working organization in every sense of the word. It represents all lines of business, including professional men, retailers, jobbers, manufacturers, grain interests and the packing interests of South Omaha. We would like to have this convention meet in Omaha as an annual affair and the Commercial club stands ready to do anything in its power to help you. Your organization will result in great good to the state.

"You are invited to use the Commercial club and everything will be at your disposal. If anyone gives you a check for anything you get, just sign the name of Joe Kelly and it is paid."

In his annual report Secretary Avery showed that the organization had a paid-up membership of 300 members and he said that before the close of the convention he expected to increase it to 500. He reported the affairs of the federation in good condition and predicted brighter prospects for the coming year.

OLD FLAG RECALLS WAR FEUD BETWEEN BROTHERS

Rev. John Collins, Who Tried to Have His Brother Hung as Rebel, Makes Presentation.

PORTLAND, Me., March 8.—An old flag that recalls many of the differences caused by the civil war has been presented to the Maine Historical society by Rev. John Collins, who served in a Maine regiment in the great struggle.

The flag is an emblem of the state of Mississippi. It was formerly the property of Captain William Collins of the confederate army and brother of the donor. Connected with the flag is a story of a feud between the two brothers who held opposing political opinions.

William Collins was one of the men participating in the Catala bank raid in 1864 and when he fell into the hands of the federal authorities his brother tried hard to have him hanged as a rebel. William escaped, however, and made his way back to Mississippi, where he died some years later.

THREATS OF BIG LABOR WAR

Philadelphia Employers Are Seeking to Crush Labor Unions.

SYMPATHETIC STRIKE THE CAUSE

Labor Leaders Still Insist 125,000 Men Are Out, but Police Censures Shows Less Than 20,000.

BULLETIN.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Up to this afternoon there were no important developments in the Philadelphia strike situation. There was no violence reported from any part of the city.

W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, announced today he has received a telegram from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who in Chicago telling him that all the organizers of all the trades represented in the federation had been ordered to come here to organize nonunion workers for the sympathetic strike.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—All Philadelphia hopes that the city-wide movement begun yesterday by the United Business Men's association to bring to a quick end the great labor conflict that has kept the city of "brotherly love" in a turmoil for more than two weeks will meet with more success than the effort made last week by the same body of men.

This organization asked the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company and Mayor Heyburn to arbitrate the differences existing between the company and the men, but was given no satisfaction. Now this association, which includes practically every business man of any standing in Philadelphia, will enlarge its movement by taking in other organizations that stand for the progress of Philadelphia and will make a united attack on the warring elements in the interest of peace and general welfare of the city.

Business, especially in the central part of the city, has suffered to an extent not known in years. Although it is three days since the general strike order of all union workers in sympathy with the fight of the trolley men's union against the transit company has been lifted, it is still impossible accurately to state the strength of the movement. Widely divergent claims continue to be made by both sides. Union leaders say that 125,000 union workers are on strike, and they have been joined by at least 20,000 men and women who heretofore were unorganized.

Police Figures Are Low.

The police authorities on the other hand state that a careful compilation of the reports of a thorough canvass shows less than 30,000 on strike. The police back up their statement by a detailed list of the many concerns affected. Independent investigators who have also made canvasses say that while the police figures are fairly accurate for the establishments represented, many occupations have been overlooked in the report.

The difficulty arising at a close estimate of the number of idle workers is due to the fact that the walkout covers the entire 140 square miles of territory embraced in the city of Philadelphia. Except in certain sections like Kensington, Manayunk, the big textile centers manufacturing plants are pretty well scattered and much time is consumed in covering them. Another difficulty is the reluctance of some employers who for business reasons do not wish to give an accurate statement of the number of men idle.

Aside from actual figures it is apparent that the textile and buildings trades are the most seriously affected. Practically all the big building operations in town are tied up. There appeared to be more cars in service today than at any time since the railway strike started.

Labor leaders intend to seize the present opportunity to organize further the work of the city. Philadelphia has always been known among labor people as a "non-union town" and plans are being laid to strengthen the cause of unionism here. In response to a telegram Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor at Washington, has assured the union leaders that he will arrange to have general organizers take up the work in Philadelphia at once.

The sympathetic strike has threatened a new contest, a fight for the "open shop" by employers who have had working agreements with unions. When the strike was called many unions were working under hard won trade agreements and some of them hesitated about going out in sympathy with the trolley men because it endangered the life of these trade contracts.

That there is trouble ahead, for some of the individual unions and employers was indicated in the action taken by the Mason Builders' association. This body has adopted a resolution protesting against the Journeymen bricklayers in stopping work and violating an existing agreement. The resolution further states that if the men do not return to work at once the employers will proceed with their work with such bricklayers as they may be able to hire.

Mayor Rebyrn is much gratified by the appearance in the newspapers today of an advertisement of the following endorsement signed by forty-four prominent men: "We, the undersigned citizens of Philadelphia, having at heart the honor and fame of the city as a law abiding community, do hereby approve and endorse the efforts of Mayor Rebyrn and the city authorities to maintain order and suppress lawlessness and the destruction of property. We hope and trust that all the power at their command will be invoked and used for this purpose if necessary."

ABERDEEN, S. D., March 8.—(Special.)—The explosion of the starch powder which occurred in the plant of the American Malt Products company, at Roby, Ind., last night, probably killed two men, injured twenty-eight others, two probably fatally, wrecked a three-story building and broke windows in South Chicago and in Hammond, Ind., three and five miles away. Fire followed the explosion, but the flames were confined to the wrecked building.

Seven men are missing. Five of these have been seen since the explosion, but later disappeared, and the bodies of two are believed to lie under the debris of the building.

DR. HYDE OUT ON BIG BOND

Accused Physician Furnishes Bail Amounting to $100,000.

TRIAL IS SET FOR NEXT MONTH

Bond is Twice the Size of That Demanded on Previous Charge of Murder—Mrs. Hyde Protests His Innocence.

KANSAS CITY, March 8.—Dr. E. C. Hyde, charged with murder and attempted murder in the Swope case, was released from the county jail today after furnishing bond in the sum of $100,000.

His attorney agreed to have the physician in court on April 11, the date set yesterday for his trial upon the charges contained in the recently returned indictments of murdering Colonel Thomas H. Swope, Colonel Moss, Huntton and Christmas Swope and of having poisoned eight members of the household of Mrs. Logan O. Swope.

The bond was divided as follows: In the case of Thomas H. Swope, $30,000; Christmas Swope, $30,000; Huntton, $30,000; eight cases of attempted murder, $2,000 each.

The bond is twice the size of that accepted from Dr. Hyde when he was arrested last month on the charge of murder preferred by John C. Paxton.

Dr. Hyde left the court room in company with his attorneys and immediately went to a telephone and called up his wife. Then he hurried home.

Mrs. Hyde has been too ill to visit her husband in jail and last night when told that he must remain locked up till today she had said: "I can endure anything for Clark's sake, for I know that he is innocent."

Before the matter of bond had been settled Mrs. Hyde said: "I would be willing to go to jail with him if it would do any good."

Mrs. Logan O. Swope resumed the giving of her deposition today in the civil suit that developed from the Swope investigation.
