Reform from Within. Lord Rosebery declared that the time out waiting for the government to call out its proposals to hamstring the and so emasculate the House of Lords it would become no better than a painted chamber in which no self-respecting per son would care to ait. He said that it was wished to establish the elective principle. but it must not be through popular elections, but by elections by associations, cor porations and counsels.

Lord Rosebery poured scorn upon the muggestion of a single chamber, which he declared was a proposal to dig the grave of the empire. In America, he said, the veto of the senate was stronger than was ever the veto of a sovereign. He trembled at the scorn of the United States when contemplating Great Britain, one-eyed, onelegged, in search for a constitution.
