

Junior Suits, Coats, Dresses

We specialize clever models in spring wearing apparel for junior girls and little misses.

CHIC SUITS in graceful models—semi-fitted coats with tailored notched collars and silk top collar, skirts full pleated—in fine serge, new diagonals and fancy striped panamas—sizes 12, 13, 14 and 15 years, at $15. $17.50. $22.50
NEW SPRING COATS for juniors, in 3/4 and 5/8 lengths, in diagonals and fancy chevrons, serges and handsome mixtures. Ages 8 to 16 years, at $3.95. $5.00. $7.50. $10
JUNIOR DRESSES—Most complete display ever attempted in the west—in white and colored wash dresses at prices less than the home making would cost. Ages 8 to 15 years, at $1.00. $1.50. $1.95. $2.95. $3.50. $5
Write for illustrated catalogue.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S OWN STORE
BENSON AND THORNE CO.
1518-1520 Farnam Street.

BITER GETS BIT THAT TIME

Saloon Keeper Puts Place in Bartender's Name, Who Claims Ownership.
Proprietor Does That, but Falls to Duck His Employee, Who Swears He Bought Place for One Thousand Dollars.
The best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft a-gley and leave us naught but grief and pain for promised joy.
When John Achatz discovered that the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners was hatching up a little plot to revoke his saloon license, or, at least, to refuse to renew it, Mr. Achatz sat down, took several pills on his pipe and proceeded to hatch out a little plot of his own.
"I'll put in Fred's name," quoth he.
"Fred" is Fred Lutz, who was bartender for Achatz in the saloon which is located on North Sixteenth street.
Lutz was willing, the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners granted a new license and all was lovely.
But in order to give the affair an air of genuineness Achatz made out a bill of sale to Lutz and this he gave, Achatz says, simply perforce—without consideration in return. Mr. Lutz, he it is remembered, was paid out $1,000 to Achatz and thus really bought the establishment.
Lutz is rather stubborn on this point and has proceeded to behave in the saloon as if it really his. He has taken in the receipts and others acted in a manner calculated to upset the peace of mind of Achatz.
That worthy could finally stand it no longer. He consulted a lawyer and procured a writ of replevin in county court. Constable Paul Stein served it.
Now the case has come up for trial before Judge Leslie to enforce or abrogate the replevin.
Did the Sale Take Place?
The question before the court is whether a sale really did take place and the ethics of Mr. Achatz's little scheme are not involved in this proceeding. If no consideration passed, Lutz did not acquire title, and the fixtures and good will belong to Achatz.
Lutz, taking the stand in his own behalf, swore he paid out $1,000 cash.
"Where did you get it?" asked J. M. Macfarland, counsel for Achatz.
"I saved it up," replied the former bartender.
"What was your salary?"
"Well, for a while I got $12 a week, and later I got a raise to $13."
"And you saved $1,000 out of $12 a week?" inquired the attorney, sarcastically.
Lutz replied in the affirmative.
"Did you keep it in a bank?"
Lutz never had a bank account.
"Oh, then you carried all this money around on your person?"
"Part of the time," affirmed the witness.
Constable Paul Stein was another witness. A writ of replevin may be served only on personal property, but Stein, according to his statement on the stand, served the writ on real estate, too.
"Do you often replevin real estate?" he was asked.
"Oh, sometimes," answered Stein nonchalantly.
Judge Leslie will decide the case in a day or two.

MISSIONARY MOVEMENT IS ON

(Continued from First Page.)
Mission Lands. George Heber Jones, Kansas; The Epiphany, W. S. Lewis, Pooch, China, etc.
SATURDAY.
9:30 A. M.—A conference on stewardship. "Prayer Our Most Effective Method," W. B. Anderson, Indiana; "The Principles of Stewardship," C. W. Allen, Cincinnati; "The Practice of Stewardship," S. S. Hough, Dayton; "The Gospel of the Convention Undertaker," report of the cooperating committee; "A Call to Stewardship," Charles B. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.; 10:30 to 11 P. M.—Conferences by communication.
9:30 P. M.—Mass meeting for women, Young Women's Christian association auditorium. Speakers, President John H. Merrill, Central Turkey college, Mr. George Sherwood Eddy, India.
7:30 P. M.—"A Call to a Great Advance," United Brethren, 230 P. M.—Harford Memorial church, corner Lathrop and Nineteenth streets.
SUNDAY.
10:30 A. M.—Speakers in churches.
10:30 P. M.—Mass meeting, Auditorium.
World's Campaign of the Gospel, C. Stuntz; "Missions as an Investment," George Sherwood Eddy.
Denominational conferences:
Baptist, 9 P. M.—Young Men's Christian association auditorium, Seventeenth and Harney streets.
Congregational, 12:30 P. M.—Young Men's Christian association office, Twentieth and Harney streets.
Christian, 11:15 P. M.—First Christian church, Twenty-first and Harney streets.
Episcopal, 8:30 P. M.—Trinity cathedral, Eighteenth and Capitol avenue.
Lutheran, 1:30 P. M.—Konia, Memorial, Twenty-sixth and Farnam streets.
Methodist, 3 P. M.—First Methodist church, Seventeenth and Douglas streets.
Presbyterian, 4 P. M.—First Presbyterian church, Seventeenth and Douglas streets.
Reformed, 3 P. M.—Reformed church, South Twenty-third and Central boulevard.
United Brethren, 2:30 P. M.—Harford Memorial church, corner Lathrop and Nineteenth streets.
United Brethren, 2:30 P. M.—Central United Brethren church, Twenty-fourth and Dodge streets.
At the Speakers' Table.
At the speakers' table these men were seated: Harley G. Moorhead, T. F. Sturges, Mr. Smith, Rev. P. T. Rouse, Mr. Keeler, B. C. Wade, C. A. Goss, J. H. Franklin, Dr. C. E. Brandt, Rev. R. B. McBride, George Sherwood Eddy, Clement Chase, A. C. Peck, Bishop Neulson, Mr. Clancy, Rev. E. R. Curry, J. P. Prall, Luther Kuhns, Mr. Hillis, Mr. Pitt, H. H. Westerfield and H. F. Kieser.
During the banquet Oleon's orchestra gave this program:
March, "Under the Banner of Victory."
Overture, "Light Cavalry."
(a) "Nevin's Rosary," (b) "Spring Song" by Mendelssohn.
Concert waltz, "Summer Night" by Waldteufel.
Selection from "Prince of Tonight."
"Largo" by Handel.
Medley of Irish airs.
The Lost Chord by Sullivan.
Medley of national airs, concluding with "Star Spangled Banner."
Persistent Advertising is the road to Big Returns.

Thousands of ladies have already seen that gorgeous embroidery exhibit of Miss Gaffney's. Have you?
Pieces worth hundreds of dollars each—all embroidered on a sewing machine, too. You are invited to attend. (Open Fri. and Sat. Evenings.)
NEBRASKA CYCLE CO.
15th and Harney Streets
GEO. E. RICKEL, Mgr.
15th and Harney Streets

OIL POURED BY YOAKUM

Afflicted Ones Seek Health at Hands of California Healer.

MANY WOMEN IN COMPANY

Chris Otosen Will Be Candidate for Railroad Commissioner—Employs at Mitchellville Made Deputies.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, Ia., March 17.—(Special.)—Several hundred persons attended the state convention of faith healers in Des Moines today and a score or more of persons crowded about "Brother" Yoakum from California who conducted a "clinic" to show what is possible. He carried a small bottle of colorless oil and with his finger rubbed a small quantity on the head of each one coming for relief, then declared the healing a success and went on to others. The majority of those attending were women and at the meetings during the afternoon and evening showed many signs of hysteria.
It was decided that Yoakum should be employed for a week to remain and demonstrate the power of healing by faith.
Chris Otosen Candidate.
It was announced here today that Chris Otosen of Humboldt is to be a candidate for state railroad commissioner.
Employs As Deputies.
While all was quiet at the State Industrial School for Girls at Mitchellville, two of the employees were deputized as officers and placed as guards at the institution and from this time on, rigid rules will be observed. Senator Ware of the State Board of Control is personally in charge.
Investigating Express Rates.
All members of the State Railroad commission appeared at the hearing yesterday on express rates and the hearing was opened. About a dozen specific matters are involved as to express rates, but in fact the investigation opens up the whole question of the reasonableness of the express rates in Iowa. One matter brought to the attention of the board today was that a package could be sent from Burlington to Billings, Mont., for less than it can be sent from Burlington to Waterloo. Many similar cases of discrimination are referred to.

County Stewards Organize

A convention was held Wednesday of the stewards of county farms in Iowa and an organization effected. This is the first time these officials have ever met. They plan to consider matters of mutual interest as to the management of their farms, the care of the dependents and the management of the insane in their care. J. A. Elliott of Benton presided. As. J. U. Sney, secretary, of Lorimer, and E. J. Hagar, treasurer, of Pappy, state central committee.

Land Titles in Question

The joker which the railroad attorneys put into the Iowa law about fifteen years ago, which exempted the Northwestern and other big railroads from paying any fee for filing articles of incorporation, may affect land titles in northwestern Iowa. The Iowa Land company of St. Paul asked to renew its charter without paying the fee. The charter expired, and has not been renewed because of the fee required by law.

Medicine Men in Court

The "cold tablets" controversy between Barnett & Co. and Weeks & Co. goes back to the district court for trial. The supreme court decided that while the plaintiffs were indefinite there was an issue as to who owns the right to send out "cold tablets." A claim of $60,000 for damages is involved in the controversy.

No Hearings Are Granted

The supreme court refused twelve applications for rehearing of cases before that court today. No hearings were granted. The court also refused to hear in the making up of the docket for the March term all cases should be included that were filed prior to December 10 last.

Tjernaeg Case Turned Down

Governor Carroll today refused pardon to Attorney Tjernaeg of Story county, who was convicted of embezzlement. The courts had finished the case, when it was discovered, so it is claimed, that evidence which could not be had, had been introduced, and the man went at each other, hammer and tongs.

Slicer Picks Out His cokey

J. H. Sizer, lumber salesman, resident of King William county, Virginia, miked at the Los Angeles race for $5,000 on a horse race ridden by Whitey Powell, under the alias of Tom Rogers, told his story and picked out his jockey in the court room.
"Rogers was really hurt," said Sizer. He cut his head when he fell off our horse, the losing one. He bled bad there and from the mouth, too. It was the bleeding at the mouth that scared me. I was." Sizer described the location and nature of the wound "Rogers" received.
"It was over his right eye about half way up to the hair," said Sizer.
Powell now bears a scar in this exact location.
"I went out to Seattle in answer to an advertisement and I was at Seattle when they got me into it," said Sizer.
At the conclusion of his testimony the government rested.

DEATH RECORD

Laurent De Give.
COCOIA, Fla., March 17.—Laurent De Give, for many years Belgian consul at Atlanta and one of the most prominent theater owners in the south, died here this morning.

Wrestler Tells Details of Internal Workings of Stores

In the testimony of Tom Gay, there came out the internal operations of the gang, with particular reference to the Council Bluffs, New Orleans and Denver stores. The defense made a sharp examination of Gay in the conventional effort to discredit his evidence. He proved a formidable witness, planned by the government to form a climax in the incriminating evidence. Gay told of the indispensable use of the malle in the steering operations.
"Have you recollection of the receipt of letters from any of the defendants?" asked Sylvester Rush.
"Yes; at Chicago, Little Rock and in Oklahoma, from Box 4, Council Bluffs. They were addressed to me. My number was 100."
"I got a letter signed 'Box 4,' saying: 'The protection here is the best and we are ready to handle all kinds of goods.'"
The use of the word "vamp" as a synonym for malle was explained by Gay,

CONSERVATION OF CAPITAL

James J. Hill Makes Plea for Economy All Along the Line.

WASTE AND RISING WAGES

Railroad Magnate, in Address at St. Paul, Says These Are Big Factors in Price Problem—Too Many Bond Issues.

ST. PAUL, March 17.—The address of James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railway, on "Conservation of Capital," was the feature of the forenoon session of the state conservation congress today. Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railway, presided.
The general subject of the session was "Railway Development in Minnesota." The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on "The Farm Wealth of Minnesota," and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was "Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business."
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on 'The Farm Wealth of Minnesota,' and Prof. A. H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Farmers' institute of South Dakota, whose subject was 'Agriculture—A Science and a Competitive Business.'"
Address of Mr. Hill.
James J. Hill in his address urged the conservation of capital, condemned extravagance, gave the causes of the increase in prices and told how the situation described by him might be remedied.
"The general subject of the session was 'Railway Development in Minnesota.' The other speakers were Fred C. Robinson of the University of Minnesota, who spoke on '