

MANLEY DISCOVERS AARONS

Classes Himself with Seale, Huff and Old Johnny Goding.

FINDS GREATEST BOWLING STAR

Aarons Rolls 'Em So True that the Rest of the Experts Look Like So Many Stiff Pins in an Alley.

It was Frank Seale who first saw the probability of Frank Chance becoming a great first baseman and captain. George Huff found Tris Speaker and many other stars. Johnny Goding found the hard-hitting George Stone, Fitcher Hagen and the coming star Stindler, but it fell to Bob Manley to discover Phil Aarons, the bowling sensation of the season.

The Brandeis Store's bowling team happened to be a man short Wednesday night and Phil was asked by Captain Bob to fill the vacancy. Talk about springing a surprise on the boys! It Tom Haley, Louis Franz, Bill Richter or any other of the famous bill rollers of the country had secretly dropped in on the boys, the surprise could not have been greater.

Aarons, playing his part of the game, absolutely refused to shoot in the first round after rolling a 10. The taking off his pair of delicate new gray shade of pomps, his cream tie, coat and vest and adjusting a pair of No. 10 bowling shoes, his battle with the pins began. Strikes and spares all the way through, and of course, his side won the game with ease.

One of the largest bowling parties seen of the alleys in a long time shot at Francisco's Wednesday night. The party consisted of Mrs. O. Hibner, Misses Nettie Barnes, Sadie Hallenback, Ella Whittehouse, Jennie Chase, Elizabeth Lints, Deborah Baithner and Mable Dunn, Mr. O. Hibner, W. M. Ord, W. E. Neiman, L. H. Linn, M. W. Johnson and J. F. Stevenson.

COPPER MINES LANDED UPON

Anaconda Smelter Subjected to Injunction by Government. PLANT'S FUMES INJURE FORESTS Sulphurous Gases Destroy Nature's Gardens, and Beside, Company's Methods are Unnecessary, Recites Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Satisfied that the present methods of operating its smelters by the Anaconda Copper Mining company are not only destructive in widespread degree to the surrounding natural forests, but unnecessary, Attorney General Wickersham today caused a bill in equity to be filed at Helena, Mont., against the company.

At the Department of Justice the statement was made that the suit was not filed until every possible friendly method had been exhausted.

Amendments to secure accession of the same time before the close of President Roosevelt's administration, and the mining companies were then notified that suits would be brought unless definite action was taken by the smelters to stop the wholesale destruction of the forests, resulting from the distribution of sulphurous fumes over a wide area of the country.

Company Forces Ruin. In each of these cases it was claimed that adverse action would mean the closing of the mines and smelters and the discharge of thousands of men. Injunctions, however, were granted in both instances, but neither mines nor smelters were closed. Instead, the companies spent the money necessary to convert the harmful fumes into a valuable product and many additional men were given work.

On behalf of the Montana smelters the contention was made that they could not convert the fumes into acid as had been done in California, but a full investigation of this claim by leading experts today satisfied the government of the entire feasibility of converting the fumes at Anaconda into acid and that there are large phosphate deposits near there, which may be used in connection with such acid in the manufacture of fertilizers.

CONTRACTORS FILE ANSWER

Present Their Side of the Court House Labor Controversy in Court. "Covert is not acting in good faith when he makes petition for an injunction restraining Caldwell & Dineen from proceeding with the structural iron work on the court house in a manner which he alleges is defective," say Hall & Stout, attorneys, in an answer for the contractors.

The answer was filed Wednesday afternoon with the clerk of the district court and the defendants aver that they are not violating in any way the provisions of the contract.

"Covert is not a tax-payer of Douglas county," reads the answer, "but in fact is acting in behalf of a small number of men who are here in Omaha, most of whom are non-residents and non-taxpayers and who pretend to be members of a union of structural iron workers or to be affiliated with some union elsewhere. This small body of men, it is alleged, is acting together with Percy Covert for the purpose of annoying the contractors in their business in and about the court house, because they do not employ men designated by the plaintiff and those who act with him. Also because the defendants do not observe certain rules laid down by the plaintiff and those associated with him for the purpose of compelling all persons who put up structural iron to employ the plaintiff and those associated with him."

"Percy Covert and those associated with him, as Covert as the defendants can ascertain further states, are not entitled to be members of the Structural Iron Workers' union or some similar name and number about twelve, so the defendants claim and believe."

The contractors assert that the action is not brought for the benefit of the taxpayers of Douglas county or for any other purpose, but for the purpose of controlling labor on buildings using structural iron.
