The knockout was not a clean one, the upporcut which Langford delivered with his left hand merely accelerating Flynn's fall after he had missed a right swing at Langford's jaw and lost his balance. Flynn fell prone on the mat with his arms extended and dislocated his jaw. Referee Charles Ryton counted the fireman out before Flynn's seconds were able to realize what had happened, and the badly punished fighter, staggering to his feet, made feeble efforts to fight again, though the opponent he saw through his half-shut eyes was imaginary. His chances of winning were dimmed in the first round when Langford, breaking away from the first clinch, delivered a right swing to the fireman's left check. The blow opened a gash and started the blood flowing.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., March 18.—
(Special.)—The directors of the Mink Base Ball league met in this city yesterday and held an all-day session. L. J. Galibreath, director, of Atchison, Kan., resigned, stating that the support of that town was not sufficient to guarantee two week day games. The meeting was called to order by president T. A. Wilson of Clarinda, Ia. and after the resignation of the Atchison director was accepted, Falls City and Auhurn were elected members of the league, and G. C. Davis of Falls City and Lafe Higgins of Auburn were elected as directors. Before the first round was ended Langford again found Flynn's face with his right and on the almost continuous clinches he frequently brought both gloves to Flynn's face and neck.

In the first seven tounds he had prevented the colored fighter from setting himself for a final knockout by closing in whenever he found his arms free and butting his head up against his opponent's chin. CORPORATION TAX IN COURT

Arguments Are Being Heard on Both

VALIDITY OF LAW ATTACKED

Maxwell Evarts Declares Provision is Arbitrary and Oppressive Because it Takes Property With-

WASHINGTON, March 18.-For four hours yesterday the supreme court of the United States listened to conflicting arguments on the constitutionality of the corporation tax provisions of the Payne Aidrich tariff not. After another day's argument the court will take the statute under its consideration with a view to arriving at a decision.

Constitutional lawyers from various sections of the country took part in the argument. They were connected with the 150 cases in which the validity of the tax is attacked and which had been consolithe hearing. In each of these suits stockholders or policyholders had brought actio: to prevent corporations from paying the tax. Without exception the lower courts held the tax constitutional and dismissed the suits.

The Home Life Insurance company and the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad company had counsel present to insist that these corporations themselves be required to pay the tax.

Maxwell Evarts of New York opened the argument. He declared the tax unconstitutional, because, as he argued, it interfered with the powers of the state by taxing a franchise; that it was arbitrary and oppressive because its publicity clause took private property for public use without compensation. He was followed by Charles H. Williams and Richard R. Rogers of New York and E. O. Brown of Chicago, who argued the unconstitutionality of the law as applied to various individual Fifteen Cases Now Up.

Fifteen cases involving the validity of the tax have been brought to the court for final judgment. All were advanced for an early hearing and were consolidated. In all the suits, except one, stockholders brought the action in the lower federal courts in various parts of the country to enjoin the corporation in which they held stock from paying the tax in conformity with the law. In the other case policy holders of the New York Life Insurance company brought suit.

In each proceeding the lower court upheld the validity of the law and ordered the suits dismissed. Appeals were then taken to the United States supreme court Mr. Evarts devoted much of his time to arguing the point that the law invaded the overeignty of a state.

He said the tax was arbitrary and oppressive and in violation of the fifth amendment of the constitution. His third attack was on the publicity feature of the law, which, he said, had nothing to do

"When the return is made and the tax ascertained thereby and possibly the tax paid," said Mr. Evarts, "the return is made a public record, open to inspection By what power of congress is that done Perhaps it is a part of a general scheme of regulation of corporations. But, I ask where is the power?"

Justice Lurion wanted to know what ection of the constitution he claimed was violated thereby. Mr. Evarts said it was volved, according to its annual report made that section which prohibited the taking public here today. The total amount of of private property for public purposes without compensation.

Solicitor General Bowers began his argument in defense of the law about half an hour before the court adjourned. His time was devoted to an endeavor to prove that the tax was levied on the carrying on or doing business, "and was merely meas ured by and was not on the net income. He argued that legislators never would have selected net income as a measure, if the tax was to be on property, as he said some of the opposition had contended. "Net income and even gross income, said he, "has no usual relation to the amount of property employed in the business, whether different sorts of business or the same business at different times be considered. There is nothing that causes more worry and discomfort than a chronic, festering ulcer. As it lingers, slowly eating into the tissues and surrounding fiesh, and by its tendency to grow worse in every way, it suggests the possi-bility of being cancerous in its nature. Efforts to heal the ulcer by means of salves, washes, lotions, etc., always result in failure, bocause such treatment can have no possible effect on the blood where the impurities and morbid matters form, and are carried thorugh the circulation to the place, to keep it open, irritated and diseased. The impurities in the blood must be removed before the healing process can begin. S. S. S. goes to the fountain-head of the trouble, and drives out the germ-producing poisons and morbid impurities which keep the ulcer open. Then as this rich, purified blood is carried to the diseased place the healing commences, the inflammation gradually leaves, the discharge ceases, new tissue and healthy fiesh are formed, and soon the sore is permanently cured because the source has been destroyed. S. S. S. does not make a surface cure, but by supplying the blood with healthful, tissue-building properties it begins at the bottom and causes the fiesh at the diseased spot to firmly and permanently knit together, and the place is left sound and well.
