MORTON LEAVES THE ARMY

Head of Department of Missouri Relinquishes Post at Noon.

MANY PAY RESPECTS TO OFFICER

Ak-Sar-Ben Governors Make Formal Call—Telegrams Express Regret at Necessity for Departure.

Brigadier General Charles Morton, United States army, relinquished command of the Department of the Missouri at noon Friday by virtue of his retirement.

The last official act of General Morton was the issuance of the following general order No. 14:

Headquarters Department of the Missouri, OMAHA, Neb., March 18, 1910.
General Order No. 14.

1. First Lieutenant Otto E. Michaelis, Sixteenth Infantry, and Second Lieutenant Troup Miller, Seventh Cavalry are relieved as aides-de-camp to the undersigned, effective this date.

2. The undersigned having reached the age of 64 years this date in accordance with law, hereby relinquishes the command of the Department of the Missouri.

CHARLES MORTON,
Brigadier General.

Regret Expressed by Many.

The occasion of General Morton's retirement was memorialized by the visit of many civic and military bodies of the city of Omaha to express their regret over his retirement from the service. The first of these bodies was the board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben, represented by President Pickens as spokesman, C. E. Courtney, H. J. Penfold, Everett Buckingham, Joseph Barker, Charles Beaton and C. E. Black.

"General Morton," said Mr. Pickens, "we have called to pay our respects to you as commander of this department for the last time. We wish to convey to you in our own behalf and in behalf of the citizens of Omaha, our appreciation for all that you have done for us in the two and one-half years that you have been in command here. We find it impossible adequately to express our sincere regrets that you must leave us, but we shall always cherish you in our hearts with the kindest memories. We hope that congress may yet see its way adequately to recognize your splendid military record and advance you even on the retired list to that grade you have so signally earned, that of major general."

General Morton replied briefly, expressing his sincere appreciation for the good words thus spoken, and stated that he would always warmly cherish the friendships formed in Omaha, and that he regretted sincerely that he would have later to leave Omaha where he had formed so many pleasant associations and friends.

The board of governors then presented General Morton with a handsome bouquet of flowers.

During the morning, General Morton received a formal telegram from the War department at Washington, announcing that he had been ordered placed on the retired list, and that he would at noon be relieved of the command of the department.

Army Friends Send Telegrams.

Other telegrams received by General Morton were as follows:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF TEXAS, SAN ANTONIO, March 18, 1910.—General Charles Morton, Omaha, Neb.: The morning paper called my attention to the fact that the date of your retirement from active service is near at hand.

With congratulations upon the successful close of your career, I must recall the many acts of kindness you have done for us, younger men, your loyalty to the old Third and its history.

May you remain with us many years.

GEORGE H. MOHRAN,
Adjutant General.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 17, 1910.—General Charles Morton, Care Army Headquarters, Omaha, Neb.: I regret that through the operation of the law your long, faithful and highly honorable career in the United States army terminates at noon today. No officer of the army has served more earnestly and bravely than you, and I hope the days that are spared you will be as fruitful of good work and deeds as those that have passed. With love from me in very best wishes to you and Mrs. Morton. Am sorry I cannot be with you today.

THOMAS SMOKE.

Says Goodbye to Staff.

Precisely at 12 o'clock, the entire official staff of the Department of the Missouri, in full uniform, visited General Morton in his office, where the general awaited them in the full uniform of a brigadier general, to pay him their respects and bid him a formal good-bye as their commander.

General Morton shook hands with each of the officers and said:

"I regret, exceedingly, that the pleasant relations that have existed so long between us as an official family have to be terminated. If there has ever been any friction in our official family, it has never reached my ears. It is a further pleasure to be able to say that the War department has given this department the credit of being one of the best managed in the country, and it is through this harmony of interest and the capabilities of the staff of the department that this commendation from the higher authority is due. In the severance of our official relations, I hope that our friendly and personal relations shall ever continue. I wish every one of you the utmost success in your army careers, and in saying good-bye, it is with a feeling that I cannot find words to express."

Commercial Club Delegates.

Two delegations of the Omaha Commercial club visited army headquarters at 12:30 to pay their respects to General Morton and presented him with bouquets of flowers, at the same time expressing their regrets over his retirement and appreciation for his services to Omaha.

Hardly had the Commercial club delegation retired, when about thirty members of Grand post, No. 130, Grand Army of the Republic, filed into army headquarters to join in the expressions of esteem for General Morton, and their regret over his retirement. Commander S. B. Jones expressed the post's tribute, and General Morton's responding could scarcely repress his emotion.

Nebraska commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion was represented by about twenty members who also presented to General Morton their profound regrets over his retirement, at the same time presenting him with an address of appreciation through General J. H. Culver. These expressions were accompanied by a bouquet of flowers, to which was attached the colors and emblem of the Loyal Legion. General Morton, in a broken voice, tried to give expression to his deep appreciation of these tokens.

After the Loyal Legion had retired, General Morton was called out into the main hall of the army building, where the order of the Elks, numbering nearly 100, had assembled in open ranks to receive him.

Rev. T. J. Mackay was the spokesman for the Elks and in an eloquent address told him that the order of Elks was one from which no man could be retired. A mammoth bouquet of American Beauty roses was presented to General Morton by Robert Cowell on behalf of the Elks and the general spoke a few words, conveying his appreciation. At the conclusion of his talk the Elks gave him three rousing cheers and wound up with the Elks' anthem, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

While the Elks were still in the hallway, the Sixteenth Infantry band appeared, escorting the officers of the Sixteenth Infantry from Fort Crook, headed by Colonel Gardner, who called to bid their respects to General Morton. With this demonstration the remarkable function closed.

Partners in Misery.

The short man sighed.

"My wife is painfully funny," he said. "She makes me put on slippers as soon as I enter the house for fear I'll scratch the polished floor."

The tall man nodded sympathetically.

"My wife is funnier than that," he said. "When I'm buttoning her best waist, she makes me wash my hands after every button!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
