Dances Organize an Aid Society—Some of the prominent Dances of Omaha have organized a Danish Aid society, with these officers: President, Colonel Sphus S. Noble; vice, president, J. Jensen Dyer; secretary, Chris Boyer; treasurer, Waldemar Michelsen. The purpose is to aid in every way possible any Dane who may be in need, and also to help in the deportation of any Danes who may be proven undesirable citizens.
Koppy Sam Gets Ninety Days—Sam Majors, well known in the Third ward as "Koppy Sam," and who was arrested Saturday for trying to perform a magic trick at a saloon at Twelfth street and Capitol avenue, with bullets from a big six-shooter and who made a Swedish gentleman in front of the saloon dance until his teeth chattered by directing the course of several bullets in the air, was given ninety days in police court to meditate upon his evil ways.

Eagles Get Order to Show Cause—An order to show cause why a restraining order should not issue in the suit of the Eagles against the mayor, chief of police and other authorities, was granted by Judge Sutton Monday. Judge Sutton declined to grant a restraining order at once and made the order to show cause returnable Saturday, when the matter of the liquor sales will be debated before Judge Day, on whose docket the case is. Judge Day was out of the city Monday.
City Owns 20 Street Sprinklers—We have been receiving numerous telephone calls and some newspaper demands to get the street sprinklers out," said Street Commissioner Flynn. "I think myself they ought to be out, and an sorry we have any such machines. The city doesn't own them, but they are owned by private subscription. The park board has some sprinklers for the boulevards, and maybe the kickers can get the board to run them over the dusty places."

Summer Rates to the East Expected—It is expected that announcement will soon be made of the special summer rates for eastern tours. The railroads are concentrating about the matter of reducing the rates to eastern points during the summer months, and in addition there will be a number of special excursion rates, owing to important meetings and conventions, which are to be held in eastern cities. Arrangements are being made to give the announcement as early as possible, in order to give those who are contemplating a trip plenty of time to make all necessary arrangements.
Joseph Schmidt's Body in Vault—The funeral services for Joseph Schmidt were held Monday at 3 p. m. at St. Mary Magdalene church. The body was laid to rest in a vault in Forest Lawn cemetery. Mr. Schmidt died Friday at his home, 2811 Fort Omaha street. He had been in ill health for some time and had never recovered from the shock of the death of his wife, four weeks ago. Mr. Schmidt had lived in Omaha forty-three years, and was 53 years old at the time of his death. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt had been married forty-three years and came to this city, direct from Germany in 1877. Three daughters are living in Omaha, surviving heirs. They are Mrs. O. C. Anderson, Miss Helena A. Schmidt and Miss Ursula Schmidt.

JOKER IN HIGHER MEAT RATE

Albright Station Not Included in the Printed Tariff.
CAN STILL SHIP AT OLD RATE
Omission of Albright Will Give the Roads Thirty Days' Leeway, as It Takes That Long to Change.

Packers of South Omaha have found a little joker in the tariffs the railroads placed in effect Sunday, raising the dressed meat rates from South Omaha to Chicago. In filling these tariffs with the Interstate Commerce commission the railroads raised the rate on dressed meat from Omaha and South Omaha to Chicago, but forgot to include the village of Albright and by means of this the railroads will be able to ship dressed meat at the old rate for thirty days, as that much notice is required before a rate may be raised.

Albright is on the switching tracks of the Union Stock yards company and the packers have arranged to send their meat to that station and to turn it over to the Rock Island, which is in a fair way to get all the dressed meat business it wants for the next thirty days.
When the Commercial club, the Live Stock exchange and other interested parties protested to the railroads against the raise, they did not receive much satisfaction. The above joker was found, and, as a consequence, the packers decided not to do anything further about the rates, but to take advantage of the oversight for the thirty days and then see what the situation was at the end of that time.

It is hoped that the Alton and Wabash will recede from their positions of giving Kansas City an advantage over Omaha by that time and, if not, the interested parties will then try to show their hands and see what can be done to remove the discrimination against this city.

Chinks Cut Up
Brave Soldier Boy
No Likee to Be Called Figs, Golden Eagle Celestials Make War with Glassware.

"Fronto, you slant-eyed chink. Come on with the grub, you scoundrel!"
Charles E. Townes, a soldier on furlough from his regiment at Jefferson barracks, was getting weary of waiting on the waiter at the Golden Eagle restaurant for his breakfast.

Now, if there was anything that would make the meat chink heart throbs with red, red rage it would be to be called a pig.
Lee Wing and Joe Gay came to the front to defend the honor of their forefathers with all the glassware in reach.

Victim of Train
May Be Operator
Man Killed by Missouri Pacific is Thought to Be One of the Telegraphers.

The man killed by a Missouri Pacific freight train at Forty-eighth and Jones streets, Sunday morning, still remains unidentified at the coroner's office.
Officials think he might possibly be a telegraph operator who worked for the company two years ago and who was employed as extra help Saturday night at the junction, Forty-eighth and Leavenworth streets. An attempt to identify the body as the telegrapher has been unsuccessful.

Some Things You Want to Know

The Treadwell Mine.
The controversy over labor conditions in the great Treadwell mine on Douglas Island, Alaska, has aroused so much interest that the National Bureau of Labor is preparing to issue a bulletin on the subject. Many labor authorities declare this mine to be one of the most dangerous in existence, while the owners reply that nowhere else are men better cared for. The Treadwell is one of the largest gold mines in the world, and has been producing since the time of Alaska. For many years this wonderful mine has paid its owners a profit of nearly $3,000 a day, and there is enough ore left to keep the monster plant working day and night for probably twenty years to come.

The man who discovered this extraordinary mineral deposit did not realize its value and sold it for $435. Almost every school boy has heard about the "glory hole" of the Treadwell, but few of them know how it came to have that name. French Pete was the discoverer of the mine which has already produced $25,000,000 worth of gold. He had a small merchant in Juneau who had a hard time to make both ends meet. In the fall of 1881 he received a shipment of goods to replenish his stock for the winter. The freight charges amounted to $435, and Pete did not have the money to pay. A prospector by the name of Treadwell, who was coming to the beach and Pete offered him the claim on Douglas Island if he would redeem the goods. Treadwell paid the freight and the mine has been called by his name ever since.

The property which changed hands by this deal contained one of the largest bodies of gold-bearing rock in the world. The ore is located favorably at the water's edge where steamers can tie up alongside the mine. Several city blocks could be dumped into the "glory hole." It is a monster pit where the ore has been lifted out in chunks like building rock is taken from a quarry. Men working in the bottom of it look like crawling flies. The thunder of the blasts, the clouds of smoke and the hollow voices of the men combine to make an effect so uncanny that it would not seem at all surprising if His Satanic Majesty should burst out of the rock at one side or come soaring up through the smoke from the depths.

Douglas Island is twenty miles long and eight miles wide. Although the Treadwell is best known on account of the "glory hole," the fact is that there are over sixty miles of tunnels underground. One of these extends out under the sea for nearly a quarter of a mile. On the surface there are six miles of track, which runs inside the buildings, and from the different structures and along the piers. Numerous dummy engines push and pull long strings of little cars and make more fuss about it than as many moguls.

The Treadwell runs twenty-four hours every day in the year, except the Fourth of July and Christmas. It takes 200 tons of coal every day to keep the many wheels moving, and the roar of its machinery may be heard a mile away. There are 800 massive crushers, called stamps, each composed of five heavy upright bars of steel that are lifted up to fall with terrific force on flat, hard plates. The rock passes under these pounding bars and is smashed into dust. These noisy, powerful machines consume about 450 tons of rock daily. In order to keep the ore rolling into their insatiable mouths, $1,400 worth of powder is used in blasting every day. The amount of gold realized from every twenty-four-hour run is about $10,000 and the expense of operating is about $4,000. The ore is low grade—the lowest in the world to pay such profits. It averages only $2.65 per ton, but there is so much of it, and it is handled in such a wholesale and economical manner, that it runs fast into money.

On account of the Treadwell being so remote from civilization, it is necessary to maintain a most complete plant. There is a fully equipped foundry where any piece of broken machinery can be replaced immediately. A fine assay office makes it unnecessary to send the ore away to have its value established, and a modern hospital is maintained to care for the sick and wounded. So many people work in the mine that it supports a United States postoffice of the third class. The company store has a stock of goods valued at $120,000, the stock of iron and steel kept constantly on hand is worth $50,000, and the supply of powder is worth $40,000.

The company store, butcher shop and cook houses are large departments, because the firm boards its men. It is no small undertaking to feed all the robust miners. The butchers in the company shop cut up three hives every day, besides quantities of fish, pork and mutton. It takes 6,000 pounds of ground in the morning, and four barrels of flour are made into 3,600 biscuits every day. Another daily ration is sixty pounds of coffee and 175 pounds of butter. The usual working force of the Treadwell consists of 1,500 men. There is such a mixture of nationalities that seventeen different languages are spoken in the camp, and
