B. B. Zitting is Relative—Efforts to find B. B. Zitting, the crank who is writing letters to Governor Shalenger, have not yet proved successful. It has been discovered by deputy sheriffs that Zitting worked for a year or two until last July for a farmer near Benson, named Hans Ott. Since then he has not been seen in the neighborhood of Benson, except one day two weeks ago, when he appeared afraid of arrest. That he has no connection with the man whose mail box he used seems to be well established.

OFFICER AUGHE'S TROUBLE FOR WORTHLESS SPARKLER

Long Janet After Negro Favored and Diamond Recovered Found at Small Value.

A long chase, some gun play and a fall over a stone pile were the experiences last night of Officer Aughe in pursuit of a negro whom he came upon peddling a ring that flashed a diamond. It was at the corner of Twelfth street and Capitol avenue that the officer spied the cull'd gentleman, and as soon as he saw the cop came in sight he moved away. The ring had changed hands for the second time and the man with whom the negro sought to make a deal transferred it to Aughe. Once he saw the sparkle of the stone he thought it would be well to have an explanation. But the negro was disinclined to show and quicken his steps. It soon became a race round several blocks until the pursued found refuge in the Northwestern freight yard at Fourteenth street. Once Aughe thought he had the man at his mercy. His hand was out to grab his coat tails, but the stone pile intervened.

Though he had the ring, he missed his man, lost much vitality and had several inches of skin shaved off his hands, which required the attention of the police surgeon. But even then the ring had changed hands for the third time and the man with whom the negro sought to make a deal transferred it to Aughe. Once he saw the sparkle of the stone he thought it would be well to have an explanation. But the negro was disinclined to show and quicken his steps. It soon became a race round several blocks until the pursued found refuge in the Northwestern freight yard at Fourteenth street. Once Aughe thought he had the man at his mercy. PAINTERS ACCEPT A SPLIT

Demand of Fifty Cents an Hour Met by Offer of Forty-Seven and one-half, Which is Accepted.

A split in actual composition has produced whatever fears there were of a strike here has been removed. At a special meeting of local No. 109 of the painters, decorators and paperhangers' union of America last night in Labor temple, it was decided to accept the master's offer of 47 1/2 cents an hour, the increase from the 45 cents an hour. The present rate of wage is 45 cents an hour. The employees Monday made the offer of 50 cents. It was to vote upon this proposition that the meeting was called for last night.

INDIGESTION AND STOMACH DISORDER

Little Diapain will make you feel fine in five minutes.

Thousands of orders for the little Diapain are being sent to the manufacturer, and you can see the results plainly printed in each issue of the Bee. AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Extra Judges and Clerks of Election Will be Necessary.

WEST SIDE AROUSED AT OUTLOOK

Increased Sentiment Exists There Over Democratic Program—March Records in Live Stock Are Discouraging.

The city attorney, A. L. Waters, issued an opinion yesterday that two more judges and clerks were necessary in each precinct of the city under the Australian ballot, as it relates to cities, has been the subject of much discussion of late, and the democrats are making much complaint on account of the fact that two judges are to be added. It is not known whether the democratic councilmen will meet to order that the extra men may be regularly appointed or not. A special meeting of the council is called at 9 a. m. this morning to allow the bills and salaries at the close of the month. There are a few matters of public concern to be attended to as well. Nothing is said of the proposition to appoint judges. The probabilities are that the council will come to some understanding at least, if not, the boards as they now stand must swear in the extra members on election morning.

West Side Up in Arms.

The republicans held a meeting last night at Forty-first and F streets, under the auspices of the West Side Improvement club, and found there an intense sentiment against the levy of an occupation tax at this time upon the street railway company. The residents believed thoroughly that the question should remain unchanged from the present very satisfactory arrangement. The street railway tax shall be levied for five years, so as to give the company time to complete this extension and a number of others in the city. The promise of prompt extension of car service is counted quite as much as a boon as an occupation tax would be. The street railway tax is based on much argument before the arrival of the candidates, and the assurances of the candidates that nothing would be done to prevent the car line was received with great enthusiasm. It was declared that the democrats favor the occupation tax, but the republicans are not to the people as for a leverage on the corporation, and it was predicted that time would show the bad faith of the democratic candidates in this particular.

All of the candidates were present at this meeting although they arrived a little late owing to an important meeting at headquarters. The need of street car service in that section was brought home to them more forcibly than ever because most of them had to walk.

Two meetings are scheduled for tonight. One is to be at the Highland school in the rooms of the Highland state members. Twenty-seventh and Monroe street. The other is to be at Lundin's hall at Twentieth and Missouri avenues.

Some little disappointment has been expressed by the residents in some districts of the city that the candidates have not yet visited them. It is to be remembered by those who are anxious to meet the candidates that the city is pretty large and it takes time to get around to all. A great effort will be made to treat all sections alike in this respect.

Prompt Denial by Trouton.

The latest card of the pseudo democratic organ in South Omaha, charging that J. C. Trouton is a candidate for the office of chief of police, which was sprung with the hope of engendering strife in the republican ranks, has been promptly put to rest by a flat statement of the man most concerned. It is as follows:

SOUTH OMAHA, March 31.—To the Editor of The Bee: In reply to the Omaha Daily News, I would say I am not a candidate for the office of chief of police, and have not been. I was not offered that position and would not accept the same. But will say that I am the P. J. Trouton, first last and all the time. Respectfully,

JOHN C. TROUTON.

In connection with the municipal prospective candidates for the position of police and fire departments, J. Fred Lind of the South Omaha department, on his own responsibility, makes application for consideration by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners. He is a republican fireman and has been in line of promotion for some time.

Jewish Ceremony Observed.

Harry Lapidus, twenty-fifth and M, president of the congregation of Israel, invited a number of prominent people of the city of Omaha to attend the ceremonies of the eighth day of Hanukkah, which was observed at the home of the infant son, Earl Lapidus. The ceremonies were under the direction of Rabbi G. Zuckheim, the newly appointed rabbi of the South Omaha congregation. After the rites were performed a sumptuous dinner was served. The number of guests who had responded to the invitation. Among the guests was Mayor J. C. Dahman of Omaha, Judge A. L. Sutton, F. A. Broadhead, N. E. Carter, Judge Jacob Levy, J. D. Ringler, Senator J. M. Tanner, Chief John Bricker and a number of others. After the dinner Rabbi Zuckheim explained a little further to the large number of guests the significance of the ceremonies and the object as viewed from the point of view of the Jewish people. Mr. Dahman made a short address in which he made mention of the splendid advances of civilization of the last century in America, which had made possible that degree of tolerance through which the Jew and the Gentile came to understand each other and the Jew gave instruction in a peculiar faith without a ripple of offense, but the same brotherly feeling prevailing as in the exclusive concourse of men of either faith in the past.

Whip Hoses While Tied.

CEDAR FALLS, Ia., March 31.—(Special Telegram.)—The 2-year-old son of Ward Thrown was almost scalped today when thrown from a buggy. The child got into a standing whip, which he held until they broke loose and dashed down the street. In the accident the scalp was torn until the skull was exposed.

March Records in Stock.

The month of March has been one of records so far as the prices of all live stock is concerned and it has shown splendidly in the matter of receipts of cattle as well. More cattle were received at South Omaha during the month than have been received in any previous March in the history of the yards. The increase has been above 18,000 head and the actual receipts for the month were 35,799 cattle, 1,881 hogs and 48,406 sheep. The lightest run of hogs since 1908 was recorded.

An illustration of the high prices of hogs was the sale of six two head of hogs Thursday, which were shipped to this market by Kent & Burke of Hutchinson, Neb. These hogs averaged 200 pounds each. They also topped the market at $19.50 and they netted to the shippers $12.50. The commission men declared that it probably would be a long day before that much money would exchange hands on one carload of hogs again.

TRIBUTE TO ART LOCKWOOD

Good Words Uttered by Aberdeen Americans in Honor of Newsmen of Vineland.

The Aberdeen Daily American of Aberdeen, S. D., has this to say of Arthur R. Lockwood of Omaha, whose death occurred recently:

LOCKWOOD COMES NO MORE. The news that Art Lockwood is dead has brought sadness into every newspaper office and printshop in the northern part of South Dakota, where he has been known and esteemed as the representative of the Carpenter Paper company.

Art was a tall, heavy-headed, square and faithful in every relation with all who knew him. His passing has taken from the round of duties one of the most pleasant breaks in the routine since he may carry on.

Taken ill at his home in Omaha on March 12, he underwent an operation four days later for appendicitis and three days after that he was dead. Perfect health, strong constitution and a prospect of future happiness and useful life were unavailable to stay the hand of death. He had lately gone into the road to a place in the office and a career of wide activity in the business opened before him, only to be sent off by this sudden blow.

The sympathy of the entire newspaper fraternity that he visited is extended to the bride of a year in the hope that the bond that unites her to the heart of her friend and husband may soothe the ache with the consolation that there is a common sorrow.

Music. An organ recital by Martin W. Bush, assisted by Fred G. Ellis, baritone, was given at the First Congregational church last evening and the program, together with the manner in which it was carried out, should have been heard by a much larger audience. But 'twas ever thus. After a series of good musical affairs, have been given, admission free, on Sunday afternoons, the "admission-free" recitals afterwards is usually treated just as was this.

Mr. Bush and Mr. Ellis have been exceedingly generous hosts this winter to the people of Omaha, and they have furnished many programs of much musical worth. It would be interesting to hear their ideas just now on the "Free Sunday Recital," and see if it would harmonize with the experiences of J. E. Butler, Will T. Taber, Homer Moore and others of fraternal memory.

The program last night was one which can safely be sent to any of the musical journals with the heading "Omaha," and Omaha will lose nothing by its comparison with other musical centers.

Mr. Bush has always lived up to the high standard of organ music, and with the possible exception of the "Barcarolle" from "Hoffman's Tales" not the Doctor as it was fully up to the best grade. Somehow the same Offenbach does not look well with such company as Bach, Widor and Gullmner.

Probably there was not many in the audience who knew just what Mr. Bush was presenting in the Gullmner Sonata in D minor. It is one of the most majestic numbers in organ repertoire, and the young gentleman displayed a technique, a power, and a handling of the many difficulties therein with a skill and ability which were unquestioned. The only suggestion for a sympathetic critic to offer would be that
