FUNERAL OF MRS. E. B. HAYNES

Good Woman Laid to Rest After a Long Life—Rev. C. W. Savidge Pays Tribute at Bier.

Beginning with an address touching on the life and character of the deceased, simple ceremonies marked the funeral of the late Mrs. E. B. Haynes Sunday afternoon. The funeral took place from the home of J. B. Haynes, a son of Mrs. Haynes, at 832 Georgia street, to Forest Lawn cemetery.

Rev. Charles W. Savidge of the People's church had charge of the services. Rev. Mr. Savidge had known Mrs. Haynes for twenty-eight years. He recounted, in his address, incidents in her life depicting her character and the good she had accomplished. Mrs. McMullen, a member of the Kountze Memorial church choir, rendered a solo in conclusion of the ceremony at the house. There were brief services at the cemetery also.

The pallbearers were Charles H. Pickens, Edward North, Court Carrier, Alfred W. Logan, Thomas F. Godfrey and Henry Johnson.

Among the many floral offerings which clothed the bier were an immense shield from the young men employed at the Omaha Electric Light and Power company, with which concern a son of Mrs. Haynes is connected, and a shield of flowers from associates of George B. Haynes, in the general passenger office of the Chicago & Milwaukee railroad at Chicago.

The death of Mrs. Haynes occurred at the home of her son, George B. Haynes, at Chicago, last Friday. The body was brought to Omaha, accompanied by three of her sons, who came from their homes in the east.

RABBI COHN ON EVOLUTIONISM

In Lecture Before Philosophical Society He Pays Tribute to Work of Herbert Spencer.

Rabbi Frederick Cohn delivered an address on "Evolutionism" before the Philosophical society in Baright hall Sunday afternoon. His address was largely a tribute to Herbert Spencer, whom he characterized as the original expounder of the doctrine of evolution.

"Herbert Spencer was the greatest ethical teacher of his generation," said Rabbi Cohn. "He was neither an atheist nor a materialist. His was the ethics of reason, while our ethical ideas are those of biblical origin. Spencer did not believe in the secularization of morals, but he did believe in the great need of modern society for moral ethics. Spencer was a bachelor, but it is said of him that he did wish to marry George Eliot, the greatest of English authoresses. I would have liked to have had that union come about. It would have been the union of the two mightiest intellects and ethical scientists of the age."

Rabbi Cohn then proceeded to give an analytical review of the scientific mind of Spencer. The address was of a highly scientific character and went deeply into the doctrine of evolution as expounded by all its great teachers, including Charles Darwin, and was listened to with the deepest interest.

CHRIST DESIRED ONE FOLD

Bishop Scannell Pleads for Unity in Service of God.

JESUS CAME TO FREE MEN

Emphasizes Great Fight of Catholic Church Through the Ages to Preserve the Integrity of Its Doctrines.

Bishop Scannell preached Sunday morning at St. Cecelia's procathedral. He took for his text the following words from the gospel of St. John: "And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd."

"As we read the new testament," said the bishop, "we cannot help but see the one thing most desired by God was unity among His followers. Christ spoke of a desire for one church and not two or three, or four or five. This wish is clearly expressed in words which I have just quoted to you from St. John.

"The word 'must' does not mean that God will be compelled by any exterior force, but rather conveys the idea that He wishes that there be one fold and one shepherd. God wished for a moral unity among His followers, which can be found when the objects of the intellect and the will are in agreement among those who profess the Christian religion.

"Christ came to earth to free mankind from slavery; from moral and intellectual slavery. Man's intellect is not free if He believes in error, and his will is not free if he desires evil.

"In order that all mankind be united, it is necessary for man to know the truth. If all men knew the truth, they would all be united. Disagreement and division is a sign that truth is not present.

"The unity in the Catholic church is remarkable and all societies envy it. It comes through prayer and God's will and those outside of the church, who desire such union and are unable to get it in their own societies, say that there must be something wrong about it. They seek to point out some violence or evil, but in this they fail. Look back for 2,000 years and you will see that the Catholic church has ever been struggling to preserve its unity. Even some of the church's own children have tried to destroy the unity which exists in the society and thought that they could improve upon the truths handed down by Christ, but it was necessary for the church to exclude these wilful members to preserve its truth. Most troubles are caused by sin, rebellion and pride, as was the case with the fallen angels who said, I will not obey?

"In our relations with those outside of the church we should remember that they have not the gift of faith. The truth of the Catholic church is not plain to them, and we should always be kind, charitable and patient with them, but we must not concede a single iota of doctrine, for truth is indivisible. Be charitable and patient and assist God in bringing all of the sheep into one fold, where they will serve one master."

TEACHER SHOULD KNOW CHILD

Marion Lawrance Speaks on "Teacher as Soul Winner."

The subject of the address of Marion Lawrance at the evening service in the First Christian church was "The Sunday School Teacher as a Soul Winner." "The teacher should be right with God himself," he said. "He should have a vision of his work; he should have a knowledge of his Bible; he should have a knowledge of the child. Then he should expect results and work as if it all depended upon himself, but trusting as if it all depended upon God."

Mr. Lawrance spoke to a crowded congregation that joined with great heartiness and fervor, in the hymns the singing being led by Prof. E. O. Excell with Alvin Roper at the piano and Miss West assistant organist of the church at the organ. The anthem, "Praise Ye the Father" (Gounod), was tastefully rendered by the choir. The soloist was Richard Kersey.

Notorious Thief Killed with Club

"Reddy" Gallagher, Ex-Convict, is Felled by Man Whose Home He Was Entering.

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—James, alias "Reddy" Gallagher, a notorious burglar with a long prison record, was killed with a club early today after a desperate struggle, by a householder whose home he had attempted to enter.

Samuel Zeanquenian of 2431 North Twenty-third street was awakened by his wife who said a man was trying to get into a neighboring house. Looking out Zeanquenian saw the man in a yard several doors away. Hastily dressing he went to his cellar and picked up a long, heavy club, used as a lever in a wine press.

By this time the intruder, failing to effect an entrance in the other house, had appeared at Zeanquenian's cellar window. Running into his back yard, Zeanquenian sprang at the stranger and a desperate struggle ensued. The burglar managed to secure possession of the club, but before he could use it Zeanquenian closed in on him and recovered the weapon.

The burglar then ran to the street, followed by Zeanquenian, who, swinging the club, struck the intruder with such force that he was thrown against a lamp post and smashed the lamp.

Uttering a moan of pain, the burglar managed to crawl on his hands and knees about a block from the scene of the encounter. There he was found lying unconscious with a fractured skull and removed to a hospital by the police. He died shortly after being admitted to the institution.

Central office detectives identified the body at the morgue as that of James Gallagher, alias Henry Walter, alias William Walter, alias John Hanagan, a notorious burglar, who, since his first conviction in 1887, has served four terms for burglary and was released early this year after serving two years in the Eastern penitentiary for a bold daylight jewelry robbery. Zeanquenian was held to await the action of the coroner.

JOHN D. PUTS LARGE SUM ON CONTRIBUTION PLATE

Oil Magnate Offers $250,000 Toward New Church—Big Subscription Taken.

NEW YORK, April 11.—In twenty-eight minutes the congregation of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church subscribed $324,100 today to build a new edifice. Of this sum John D. Rockefeller gave half, having promised to duplicate dollar for dollar up to $250,000, when a $500,000 limit will have been reached. As the share of the congregation, aside from Mr. Rockefeller, did not reach $250,000 today, other subscriptions will be taken up later.

The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked said last Sunday that Mr. Rockefeller was not to be allowed to contribute the lion's share, but he made no comment today on the agreement to double the congregation's subscription.

DEADWOOD GAVE WALSH START ON BIG FORTUNE

South Dakota City Chosen by Late Colorado Millionaire as First Western Location.

DEADWOOD, S. D., April 11.—(Special.)—It was in the Black Hills, within ten miles of Deadwood, that the late Thomas F. Walsh of Colorado, the multimillionaire, laid the foundation for his great wealth.

Mr. Walsh came to the Black Hills overland from Cheyenne in 1875, having numerous adventures with Indians on the road, and arrived at Custer City, where afterwards the Indians stampeded the ponies of the party. A few months later Walsh came to Deadwood and then went to the Two Bit district, near here, where he started as a mine carpenter and made his home. He was then a poor man and worked at his trade by the day. Walsh became associated with the late Jimmie O'Connell in some prospects and together they developed, as their small means would allow, the Anchor Hill mine in that section. Two years later Walsh sold out his interest in the property, receiving a few thousand dollars, and returned to Colorado, where he invested in mines that gave him his great wealth.

The old cabin that Walsh used for a home while in Galena is still standing and only a year or so ago the kit of carpenter's tools that he used at his work here was forwarded by friends to him in Colorado. He always expressed great love for the Black Hills and had for many years been in communication by letter with some of the old-timers he knew in the 70s, promising, when he could spare the time, to revisit the scenes of his early life here.

Italians Use Slingshots.

TERRY, S. D., April 11.—(Special.)—Charged with attempting to injure non-union employes of the Golden Reward company by the use of slingshots, Peter Roncaglions and Mike Parmento, two Italian union men here, were arrested and will be given a hearing. Superintendent Schnitzel of the mining company accuses the men of hurling stones with the slingshots at passing non-union men whose heads showed as they walked through a cut.

Letters from Sea's Depths.

DEADWOOD, S. D., April 11.—Letters from beneath the sea have just been received by local residents. The letters were originally mailed by a former Deadwood man, Paul Rewman, who is now doing mining in Alaska, on February 2 and were put aboard the ill-fated steamer Yucatan, which went down in Icy Straits off Alaska on February 18. The letters were rescued from the sunken steamer and sent on to Seattle with other mail.
