UNCLE SAM PROTECTS WARDS

Has Sixteen Omaha Saloon Keepers Arrested for Selling to Indians.

ALL CAUGHT WITH THE GOODS

Such is the Claim of the Special Agents Who Have Been Working on the Cases for a Week.

Sixteen Omaha saloon men have been before United States Commissioner Anderson during the last two days to answer for selling liquor to Indians. In each instance the accused saloonists have been bound over to the federal grand jury in $500.

Those arrested thus far are Oscar W. Johnson, Clarence Mason, J. J. Stelco, John Grodak, A. DeChristensen, George Cackley, Elmer Welmer, J. F. C. Rumor, Charles Jackson, Ed Cummins, Morris Friedman, John Harrell, Tom Brennan, Joe Christensen and Charles Tibke.

The offenses charged against the saloonists have been committed during the last week, and are the result of a little detective work on the part of Special Agent T. E. Brenns of the Department for the Suppression of the Liquor Traffic Among Indians. The government has recently appropriated $30,000 for this work, which is in charge of ten special officers, at the head of which is William E. Johnson, chief special officer, with headquarters at Salt Lake. Chief Johnson has a large number of assistants and the work is being vigorously prosecuted all through the Indian country.

Special Agent at Work

Special Agent Brenns, formerly deputy marshal for the Indian territory, has been in this work in the Indian country for a number of years and succeeded in breaking up the sale of liquor to Indians in the Indian territory and Oklahoma during the territorial days.

He has but recently completed a raid on the saloon men in Sioux City and secured seventy-four arrests and convictions there for the sale of liquor to Indians. He was assisted in the work here by A. H. Neal, superintendent of the Winnebago and Omaha Indians.

The Sioux City saloonists had through the operation of a "tin crow" train running between Sioux City and Washburn, Neb., which was run especially for the boot hunting Indians, succeeded in doing a thriving business. It was at the instance and suggestion of Superintendent Neal that the crusade against the Sioux City saloons was instituted. A decoy Indian was engaged and the rest of the work was easy.

The Indians then discovering that their liquor supplies at Sioux City were being curtailed transferred their patronage to Omaha. Liquor was easily obtained in Omaha by the Indians, particularly during the recent session of the federal courts, where a number of Indians were brought here as witnesses in the various cases. It developed that the Indians were coaxed into some of the hotels catering to that particular patronage, and were there piled with liquor, and the result was that many of them found themselves locked up in jail and penniless.

Tries to Break Up Practice

Superintendent Neal determined to break up the practice and called Special Agent Brenns to his aid with a decoy Indian named Lamoreaux of the Shoshoni tribe. Lamoreaux, through the other Indians, got track of the saloons that were in the habit of selling liquor to Indians in Omaha.

The two white officials visited the saloons last Monday and Tuesday mornings, and while there Lamoreaux would drop in and buy a bottle of liquor, the officials being witnesses of the transaction, and then Lamoreaux would put his private mark on the label of the bottle of booze and then one of the officials would incidentally drop outside when Lamoreaux would hand him the bottle, which would be sampled by the officer and labeled with a government label, with the history of the transaction.

In justice to a number of saloons it should be stated that they declined to sell liquor to the Indian, and in other instances when the saloonist, after a second thought, would call the Indian back and demand the return of the booze, repaying the Indian his money.

Lamoreaux looks like a Mexican at first sight, and being dressed in civilian clothes made a good decoy.

Special Agent Brenns said: "The purpose of this raid against the saloonists is not a persecution, but it is for the purpose of breaking up the sale of liquor to Indians. We have succeeded in doing so in Sioux City and will do so here. In the Sioux City case the fines ran all the way from $20 to $50 under the Iowa state laws. The matter of indiscriminate sales of liquor to Indians was taken up at the recent meeting of the competency commission, to examine into the competency of the Omaha Indians to care for themselves, and this commission strongly recommended that drastic measures should be taken to suppress the traffic."

"You have even a more drastic law here in Nebraska relating to the sale of liquor to Indians, which fixes a penalty of $200 to $1,000 and from two to five years imprisonment.

Republicans to Attend Banquet in Full Force

Acceptances for Dinner Affair May 9 Are Pouring In—Governor Eberhart to Speak.

Acceptances to be present and participate in the debate will be a feature of the republican club banquet at the Hotel Rome, Monday evening, May 9, have been received from about every republican in Nebraska who is an open or prospective candidate for state and national office.

Senator C. H. Aldrich of David City, candidate for governor, writes that he will attend without fail and anticipates a good deal of pleasure from the affair.

"Wait" George of Custer county, a delegate to the last national convention and also a member of the Taft notification committee, will head a delegation from the Sixth district, and Frank Currie of Gordon will likewise attend. Mr. George is a candidate for state treasurer and Mr. Currie is seeking the seat now held by Moses Kinkaid.

Former Governor Sheldon is expected to come from Mississippi on special invitation. The Swedish-American Republican club of Nebraska will be well represented at the banquet, to honor Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, who is making a great record as the successor of the late Governor John A. Johnson.

"This is not an invitation affair, nor is it to be a formal function in any sense," said an officer of the club. "Those republicans who desire to attend must take the precaution to get their tickets during the coming week. There will be men in evening dress, but the chap in the business suit will be just as welcome, and can have the same chance for a front seat. We expect the banquet to begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and Rome Miller's promise that it will be quickly served makes it sure that all attending will be able to catch the cars for home in good time. Outside of the speech of Governor Eberhart the twelve or fifteen prominent men to be heard will be confined to five or ten minutes each. A great deal can be said by an earnest man in ten minutes."

Henry lives at 216 South Twenty-eighth street.

CONNOR CASE IGNITES ANEW

Lawyers for Executors File Startling Affidavits Concerning Trial.

STORIES OF JURY ROOM TOLD

Statements of Members of Panel Declare They Decided "Church Had Enough Property"—Merits Not Considered.

Charges of improper conduct by people interested in the Connor will case and charges of improper conduct by members of the jury are made in seven affidavits filed by Smyth, Smith & Schall in district court in support of a motion for a new trial of the case.

These affidavits set forth in detail the alleged improper conduct and will create some stir in district court circles, adding vigor to the feeling which this celebrated will case has engendered in the past.

Patrick Duffy, one of the proponents and an executor under the Connor will of May 15, 1906, is the first affiant. His affidavit has to do with the behavior of the relatives during the hearing and he sets up that the relative, whom he names, occupied a row of chairs on the north side of the court room in view of the jury, and that as the testimony of witnesses was delivered from the stand the contestants and their friends from time to time showed their approval or disapproval of what was said by smiles, laughter, grins and frowns.

The affidavit by Mr. Duffy then turns to Mrs. Mary Lamb and her children and says "that during a portion of the argument to the jury Mrs. Lamb took a position in the northeast corner of the room in view of that while C. J. Eberhart was away, that during a large part of the arguments, and especially where her testimony was under fire she held her two younger children on her lap, one on each knee and each having an arm around her neck."

Patrick Gleason makes affidavit to the effect that while C. J. Eberhart was away, the jury was addressing the jury an old lady got up and walked out toward the door of the court room, saying so that the jury could hear, "He is a liar," this referring to Mr. Smyth.

Several Affidavits.

Mr. Smyth makes affidavit to the same effect and then says that the opposing attorneys, J. J. Sullivan and James P. English, represented to the jury that the attorneys on the other side appeared for the Catholic church. This affiant denies this, saying that his firm was retained by the executors under the will.

Hot shot is fired in the affidavit of another member of the same law firm, W. A. Schall, declaring that the children of Mrs. Lamb were practically every recess of the court played with the jurors.

Then Mr. Schall goes on to say that he "observed the attitude, movements and demeanor of the contestants and their friends and sympathizers, which were well calculated to appeal to the prejudices of the jury and were the result, as this affiant believes, of a well thought out and prearranged plan and scheme to appeal to the sympathies of the jury."

Three affidavits by members of the jury have been secured and filed with the other affidavits. A Meyer swears that when the jury had retired one man asked how they should vote and that some one suggested that they vote for Sullivan or for Smyth "because Sullivan represented the heirs and Smyth the church."

Hedrick Diensbier, a second juror, swears that the foreman attempted to read only that part of the instructions which set forth the theory of the heirs and that the jury voted on the case without discussing it. Simon Hieronymous, the one member of the jury who held out for the proponents for three ballots, says the merits of the case were not discussed "and that what was said was to the effect that the church had property enough, and therefore the heirs should have it; that no one of the jurors at any time said or urged that in his judgment the will had been destroyed by Mrs. Connor."

The motion for a new trial was due to be argued Saturday, but this may be delayed to give the attorneys on the other side time for a counter showing.

The affidavit of Mr. Smyth also contains some matter which was set up in the motion for new trial, excerpts from Judge Sullivan's address to the jury, in which Mr. Sullivan is declared to have reflected on the attorneys for the other side and on the church.

Frank Boor Runs Against a Snag

Jewish Peddler Comes to the Rescue of an Aged Man Who is in Trouble.

Frank Boor is in the city jail to maintain on the suddenness of justice, substantial justice. He has some sore spots to engage his attention as well.

Boor was caught in the act of beating up George Gans, an aged man at Eighteenth and Webster streets, when a Jewish peddler coming along in his wagon surprised him. The Jew was outraged at the unfair treatment of the aged man and proceeded to administer punishment in copious measure to Boor. Meanwhile the patrol wagon approached. With a farewell kick the avenger leaped into his wagon and drove off. Boor was picked up from the pavement and at the station was locked up for assault and battery. His victim was attended at the station and sent to his home, 208 Webster street.

After Fund to Advertise Land of Ak-Sar-Ben

Commercial Club Committee Will Endeavor to Land State Fund to Spread Nebraska's Fame.

W. A. Campbell and J. M. Guild of the Omaha Commercial club returned Thursday night from Columbus, where they were in attendance at the meeting of the Nebraska Commercial clubs.

A resolution was passed at the meeting for the appointment of a committee of three to endeavor to get an appropriation of $10,000 per year from the legislature for the exploitation of Nebraska and its resources. The committee has not been named, but it is probable that Will A. Campbell will be the chairman.

The plan suggested was to expend a part of this amount of money in the publication of a book, setting forth the resources of the state, to be sent out to those who make inquiries through the various commercial organizations. Although it was not decided definitely what should compose the contents of this book, it was suggested that a description of each county in the state should be given; its location, resources and general information for those who might be interested.

The state bureau of labor and statistics now has an appropriation of $2,500 with which to carry on such work and it was deemed entirely inadequate by the Nebraska Commercial clubs to furnish the information sought by those who want to know what Nebraska has to offer as a desirable state in which to live.

Other features were also discussed in regard to an advertising campaign which would place Nebraska in a prominent position before the people of surrounding states, especially in the east.

Has the Census Man Got to You?

If Not, the Government Wants You to Tell Supervisor Saunders About It.

Are you counted? If the census enumerator has not taken your life history the nation's books are going to be off by at least one figure on the left hand.

Anyone who believes he has been missed is asked by the census bureau to address Charles Saunders, supervisor for Omaha, at the federal building. He will see to it that a special enumerator is detailed to straighten the matter out. Letters addressed to the supervisor need not be stamped. The government is glad to carry them free that the records may be set right.

One of the greatest troubles the census enumerators have had to contend with is in the boarding and rooming houses. The parties running the rooming and boarding houses claim that they do not know the names or histories of their roomers. They pay their room rent weekly and they have no further interest in them.

The enumerators have had less trouble with the foreign population than was expected. The proclamations of the president in the different languages have been carefully distributed and posted in the localities where needed, and the foreign-born citizens are responding to the census calls readily. Thus far the enumerators have been able to get along without the aid of interpreters except in rare instances.

S.S.S. THE BEST SPRING TONIC

Most persons, even those who are ordinarily strong and healthy, need a tonic and blood purifier in the Spring. Some have no particular ailment, but are weak, debilitated and run-down. Winter life with its decreased amount of outdoor exercise, and the fact that cold weather keeps the pores of the skin closed, prevented the proper amount of waste and refuse matter from being expelled from the system. These impurities entering the circulation have thinned and weakened the blood, and the body therefore does not receive a sufficient amount of blood nourishment. The general bodily weakness, tired feeling, sickle appetite, poor digestion, etc., show how anaemic the blood has become. Frequently skin diseases, pimples, eruptions, etc., break out and this is evidence of the impurity of the circulation. S. S. S. is the best Spring tonic, because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It is the only medicine on which you can rely to supply the system with the needed tonic effects and at the same time purify and enrich your blood. The use of S. S. S. at this time may save you from a long spell of sickness, and it will certainly prepare you for the strain of the long, hot summer. S. S. S. is made entirely from roots, herbs and barks; it is Nature's tonic, pure and healthful. It regulates digestion, tones up the stomach, improves the appetite and promotes strong, vigorous health. This will be your best Spring tonic if you use S. S. S. for your tonic.
