MUST WAIT FOR JURY FEES

Judge Estelle Rules Board's Order Exceeded Authority.

QUESTION IS YET UNSETTLED

Decision is Reached to Payment on Service is Limited in Scope Only to Suit Brought by the Court.

Payment of fees immediately on service of jurors and witnesses in district court suits has come to a sudden stop. Judge Estelle has ruled in the suit of A. M. Gallagher and Robert Smith, clerk of the district court, that the Board of County Commissioners in its resolution exceeded its powers.

The question of paying jurors will remain well up in the air as a result of the decision, because Judge Estelle declared that on the general question he did not rule at all, but only that the partition resolution as passed exceeded the authority of the board. The resolution provided that a week after the clerk had reported to the board his account of payments made a warrant should be drawn in his favor out of the general fund. This would bind the board, the court held, under a warrant drawn in the event of the fund being exhausted beyond the statutory amount, and in forestalling a claim by the board against itself. Sufficient provision is lacking, the court also holds, for auditing claims when made.

But the court grants judgment to Mr. Smith against the county for $2,000, the amount he had paid out and which has been held up by Gallagher's suit. The costs in the case are assessed to the county.

What will happen now is a matter of conjecture. The county board may be asked to draw up a new resolution which will come within the terms of the court's requirements.

For the next two or three days there will be no jury fees or witness fees because the February term is passing through its last week and no trials are going on. Unless the county board see some other means is devised there will be a recession in the court house to the fee-shaving practices which formerly obtained.

Child, Matches, House Burns

Dwelling Belonging to George Johnson Destroyed by Small Boy's Camp Fire Built on Floor.

The combination of the small boy and the matches still works. A two-story frame dwelling at 215 North Twenty-eighth avenue, belonging to George Johnson, was burned to the ground Friday morning. The fire department ascribes the origin of the fire to a child's campfire built on a floor of the vacant house.

New Cemetery Will Open on Memorial Day

West Lawn Burial Ground Project, Involving Expenditure of $100,000 Nears Completion.

Omaha is to have a new $100,000 cemetery. Work has been in progress for the last six months on the project and it is expected that the cemetery will be opened on Memorial day.

It will be known as West Lawn. One hundred and sixty acres have been purchased, extending from Fifty-fourth to Sixtieth street on the south side of Lincoln boulevard. The tract is what was known as the Paulson farm and lies just three and one-half miles southwest of the city and although outside of the city limits it is convenient to the Hancock park, West Farnam and Dundee residence districts. It is also not far from South Omaha.

N. P. Dodge, Jr., is president of the association and it has been through his efforts that the cemetery will be ready with the exception of the chapel, for the opening on Decoration day.

At the present time only fifty-five acres of the tract will be used as a burial place, but as the necessity demands the whole 166 acres will be utilized.

Three weeks ago the grading of the streets in the new cemetery was started and Saturday night this end of the work will be completed. A crew consisting of sixteen teams and many workmen has been at work and more than three miles of roads have been built.

Over 5,000 trees and shrubs have been planted since the beginning of work on the plot and this work will be completed this week. These trees comprise many species of pine and fir intermingled with hard and soft maples, a good supply of white birch and other decorative trees. The shrubs are mostly roses of many kinds and flowering shrubs.

The entrance and chapel are to be made special features of the improvements. Thomas E. Kimball is drawing the plans. The chapel plans call for a beautiful structure constructed of concrete and original in design.

The cemetery will be enclosed on the park and lawn plan, restricting monuments, headstones and other ornamentation, common to old-fashioned graveyards. The superintendent will be E. H. Murphy, from Altoona, Pa., who is already on the ground and is superintending the work of planting the trees and developing the grounds.

About $40,000 has been expended in improvements up to this time and this added to what will be expended in the next two years and the cost of the land will make the total outlay close to $100,000.

W. P. Dodge, Jr., is president and treasurer and C. L. Matthews is secretary of the association. The board of directors has not been named, but will be before the opening of the property.

The plan is to put 3 per cent of the income from the sale of lots into a perpetual care fund, so that when all the lots are sold the fund will provide income for the perpetual upkeep of the property. Until all the lots are sold, this fund cannot be touched, so that from the start it will draw compound interest and at the time when the cemetery becomes filled a substantial sum will be on hand to care for the grounds.

TELEPHONE WAR IS BREWING

Indications of Price Slashing Contest in South Omaha.

INDEPENDENT MAKES START

New Exchange Will Give Service at Lower Rates—Bell Company Preparing to Meet Proposed Cut.

There is liable to be a merry telephone war on in South Omaha in the near future. The Independent Telephone company is going to spend something like $170,000 on the installation of its system in the packing city, and when completed will lower the rates now made by the Bell company for service, according to Receiver Abbott.

Next Monday morning 300 men will start work laying the conduits in the business district of South Omaha, which when completed will give telephone communication to about 2,500 subscribers.

It is the plan of the Independent company to first build their lines in the business district and then follow with a campaign in the residence district. Communication between the subscribers of Omaha and South Omaha will be available without extra toll charges. The Independent company will make a rate of 12 per month for the business district with a discount of 10 per cent if bills are paid before the tenth of the month, and a charge of $1.25 per month for residence phones with a discount of 25 cents if paid before the tenth of the month.

Going After Business. Receiver Lewis L. Abbott of the Independent company said Friday morning that the company was going right after the business. He said that the firm looked exceptionally good for his concern and that inasmuch as the court had authorized him to spend $70,000 the company was going to give the people of South Omaha something for their money.

When asked if the cut in rates would not precipitate a war with the Bell people, he said it might, but that it did not make any difference, as the Independent company could give a better service to South Omaha at less expense in the subscribers than they are getting now and that it was the intention of the company to do so.

His cars of poles and other material are standing in the railroad yards at South Omaha waiting for the work of construction to begin, and it is expected that material will arrive each day until the work of building the lines is completed. It is thought that the work will be completed in a week or ten days after the start is made.

The district in which the conduits will be laid and in which no poles will be used is from Twenty-third to Twenty-seventh and from P to J streets. This will comprise a section four blocks wide by three blocks long.

The move on the part of the Independent company to install a system in South Omaha and reduce the rates, is said to be responsible for the Bell company's action in filing an application with the State Railway commission for a reduction of rates.

City officials having to do with the finances are smiling with satisfaction over the opening of the campaign to take up outstanding improvement bonds and thus stop the 7 per cent interest. The city finds itself with money enough on hand to easily carry the bulk of these bonds, because of the prompt payment of special taxes.

The warrants for the first day when the warrants were called, about $8,000 worth, were turned in. Today other warrants came in, and as fast as they are paid the city begins to draw the 7 per cent interest instead of the private holders. City Comptroller Lobbeck says the saving to the city in the transaction now under way will be about $2,500.

The warrants are called in under orders of the city council, made on request of Treasurer Faray and Comptroller Lobbeck.

City Council Will Apportion Paving Work

Decision is Reached to Give Jobs Only to Those Contractors Who Are Not Overcrowded.

Those paving contractors who now have more work under contract than they can conveniently finish this year will not be awarded any more contracts at present by the city council. The contractors who have anywhere from $5,000 to $50,000 yards will be given precedence in the letting of contracts now pending before council.

This is practically the line of action mapped out by the sitting committee, consisting of Councilmen Kugel, Johnson and Schroeder and City Engineer Craig. This committee will also keep in view the need of pushing certain paving because of the importance of the streets involved, as against other contemplated paving that can very well wait a year without seriously inconveniencing anybody.

In the matter of work under contract, High Murphy is now in the lead, having approximately three times as much as any other contractor. Charles E. Panning has only about enough under contract to keep his crews busy at a very ordinary gait, and other contractors are in the same fix. So far as possible, will fairness for all, the contracts to be let after this, for completion this season, will go to men who can handle and finish everything in hand.

Goldfish is Station Mascot

Lonesome Piscatorial Traveler is Commended to Care of Matron at Union Depot.

In the women's rest room of the Union station a lonesome goldfish swims in a bowl of water, after a thrilling rescue on the part of Officer Mansfield. Mrs. J. H. Harrington of Denver was carrying the pet to a train, when she lost her equilibrium, slipped and fell upon the station floor. She dropped the little fish and the glass globe crashed into a thousand pieces.

A number of the attendants about the station rushed to the scene, among which was Officer Mansfield. The woman was assisted to her feet and asked if she was hurt. She replied that she was all right, but that her goldfish would die unless it was taken care of. Out of gratitude to the policeman who presented him with the fish and it was picked up tenderly and deposited in a bowl of water. Not having an aquarium in his pocket the officer gave it over to the care of Matron Thornton of the station.

The little fish gets the best of care, is fed regularly and frequently. The red caps about the station take turns dipping worms in order that the little fellow may have the delectable of food, and it has been unanimously agreed that the goldfish is the mascot of the Union station.

Park Board Has Accepted Dredge

Decides to Pay Contractor Balance of the Contract Price for Boat.

After a visit to Carter Lake to see the big dredge in operation, the Park board on Thursday afternoon formally accepted the boat. The balance of the contract price, something over $5,000, was allowed the contractor. The total cost of the dredge as it stands today was well over $20,000, but the board feels that it has made a good investment.

Gibbon Rancher Talks of His Work

Finds by Experience There is Safe Way to Raise Hogs by Feeding Alfalfa.

Frank Hirsche of Gibbon, Neb., one of the former sheep barons of the state was in South Omaha yesterday homebound from Chicago. He formerly shipped consignments of sheep to South Omaha which qualified the largest and surpassed a great many sheep breeders of the state.

Mr. Hirsche is located in the best section of Nebraska for alfalfa culture, and since this kind of stock food has become popular he has gradually changed from the raising of sheep to the breeding of hogs. He finds that with the restricted grazing area the hogs will live better with more economy and profit from the product of the alfalfa fields than sheep.

Hogs, he says, will eat all of the alfalfa hay clean and will require far less corn. It is one of the best foods to prevent the attack of cholera. Many farmers of the state are led to believe that that disease is the result of too heavy feeding of corn with unsanitary conditions combined. The heavy feeding of corn without much other food weakens the animal's digestion and makes the digestive organs more easily subject to the attack of cholera.

Mr. Hirsche reports perfect health in his herds. More prominent in his thought than his hog farms seemed to be his experience with weather in Chicago. He constantly recurred to the theme. He said: "My hogs get along all right, they can take care of themselves, but I think another week such as I spent in Chicago would put me off the map completely. I never saw such a dismal, cold, rain and snow. The lake wind was sharp as December. I got wet through and caught cold. I want a place where the sun shines some of the time. I saw the sun once in Chicago."
