CREIGHTON MEN GET DIPLOMAS

deming the graters; turn your eyes toward the setting sun, see San Francisco arising from her ashes in majesty and glory, but marred and scarred by graft and loot; look at St. Louis, where a short time ago, prominent men stood in the dock to receive sentences to penal servitude because they had sold the rights of the people for fifty cents.

Oh, for Honest Men. Go into all the large cities—enter the halls of legislation in different states—follow the lobbyist to his private room, where rights and privileges are bought and sold, and then come back into the ranks of the common people and join the cry, "Oh, for honest men!"

"Men in control of monopolies in restraint of trade and competition, crush out their competitors and secure control of the market and raise the prices upon the necessities of life, which people must buy with money earned in the sweat of their faces, not realizing perhaps, that every dollar thus taken is a stolen dollar—an extorted dollar.

The man who, intentionally, takes from another his hard earned money without just or fair compensation, is a thief. I don't care what his other name may be. The complete remedy does not lie in legislation nor in prosecution. The true remedy lies in developing in the hearts of the people the virtue of honesty. SOME AGREE WITH MR. BRYAN

Two Representatives Express Their Views on the Subject.

DIFFER FROM THE SENATORS

Jeremiah Howard Says He Hopes the Legislators Who Defeated the Initiative and Referendum See They Are Wrong.

Representatives James P. Connolly and Jeremiah Howard of the Douglas county legislative delegation are outraged by their support of W. J. Bryan and his platform for a special session. Mr. Connolly also says he knows of four other members, with a possibility of six more, who will support the Bryan program.

"When we came home from Lincoln, after the passage of the 8 o'clock law, we were hailed as martyrs and heroes, and for whose interests we had made our stand," said Mr. Connolly. Now we ought to be just as good fellows as then, even though we support the initiative and referendum. I have always been in favor of that measure, and believe in it. I have talked with most of the Douglas county representatives, and can say that, including myself, five will be for it. Two others are difficult about committing themselves, but you need not be surprised if all of the Douglas county votes line up with Bryan. They will do this regardless of local blustering, as carrying out their own belief."

Howard Replies to Senators.

Jeremiah Howard of South Omaha has written W. J. Bryan in a strain differing from that of the three democratic senators. "Jerry" also takes occasion to have a fling at his colleagues, in the good old way he used to hand it out at Lincoln. Following is a copy of representative Howard's letter to Mr. Bryan:

SOUTH OMAHA, April 29, 1910.—Hon. W. J. Bryan, Lincoln: In reply to your letter of April 29, concerning the initiative and referendum, permit me to say that there is no mistake made in the initiative and referendum as revealed by time. Therefore I hope that the legislators who voted in the negative against the initiative and referendum have seen their error by this time.

If there is any blame or shame attached to any mistake made at the last session of the legislature, the gladiators from Douglas county are to blame, though the cartoonists from other counties are not blameless either. Their motto was prohibition and appropriations. I believe in submitting matters concerning the people to the people, therefore I will vote in the affirmative, although a man may become a legislator by voting on certain interests require, thereby ignoring the wishes of the people. Character is better than wealth, is it not, Jerry?

DEMOCRATS ON ANXIOUS SENT.

Democrats not holding official position under Governor Schallenberger, and some that are on the governor's list in one capacity or another are doing some very serious thinking these days, and conferences are going on continually at the Dahlman headquarters and with President Flynn, who represents the mayor in his absence.

Some of the old war horses are demanding a break-away from the Bryan program, by a public meeting or club meetings, where resolutions can be passed. But the cooler heads are cautioning a waiting game. They figure that Bryan cannot stampede the governor, who has never in any event been a Democrat; and that Mr. White's resignation will be the beneficiary, whether Bryan and Schallenberger hitch up or pull apart for good and all.

Also, the local democrats now figure Mr. Bryan as a certainty in the senatorial race, and take his letter to the legislators as the basis for excuse for changing his mind.

o'clock this morning to "go somewhere on the north side." Lee O'Neil Brown, democratic leader of the house of representatives at Springfield, shouted over the telephone from his home at Ottawa: "Remarkable, these charges are remarkable. You should look this man White up. I don't know him very well, but I know his methods. I don't think you should receive these charges that I hold, and other members of the assembly hold his notes for small amounts—'touches' these and some other notes will help to show what kind of man it is that makes these charges. 'I will state flatly that I never received or spent a nickel of the money' Senator Lorraine, one way or the other."

At Springfield, Governor Deneen declared that a searching investigation of the charges is due the people of Illinois.

Grand Jury Will Investigate.

States Attorney Wayman sent for Representative White in connection with the latter's confession. It is believed that White will be asked to tell his story to the special grand jury ordered to report next Monday. In stating his reasons yesterday for desiring the special inquisitorial body, Mr. Wayman particularized the charges of John C. Fetzer that money has been used in furthering legislation desired by the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad company, but added the words "for such other purposes."

Mr. Wayman was famous for the White allegations when he asked for the grand jury and the "other purposes," presumably include the hearing of White's story.

exposition. It was just the reverse with us after the Seattle fair."

W. H. Cowles of the Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review also elected to speak of prosperity.

Country Is Prosperous.

"The west does not want any disturbances, political or territorial, in the far east, especially in China. Our country is shipping flour to China and the trade is growing bigger every year. It is only a fore-runner, in our belief, of a tremendous commerce. The western country will watch with jealous eyes any developments in the political arena in the east which threaten to check the growth of the trade with the orient. Our country is prosperous and fruit, our largest staple production, is in excellent shape. It has escaped the storms which visited the eastern country and watch Charles Samuel Jackson of the Portland (Ore.) Journal reverted to politics:

"Colonel Roosevelt, now more so than ever, is Oregon's political idol, but the amount of talk which is heard about Mayor Gaynor is amazing. It seems that the people have just begun to understand the New York City executive. Our country is being developed upon an amazing scale. The rival railroad enterprises of the Harriman and Hill interests are building into the northwest and opening up rich parts of the state of Oregon. The oriental question, so far as it affects coolie labor, is forgotten in our coun-

HEALTH HINTS AS THEY GO

Great Variety Placed on Thoughtful Papers in the Public Prints.

Never go to bed within three hours of having eaten.

In order that the reader, too busy to keep in touch with the findings of medical high-brows, may not be left to work out his own physical destruction, the following hints have been taken from articles made impressively by the signatures. It is not assumed that all of the rules may be followed at once:

Breathe deeply. In this way the lung area is enlarged, oxygen more readily consumed purifying the blood, quickening the circulation and promoting functioning. No benefit is to be derived from it. The normal person will take into his lungs without conscious effort all the air that is good for him.

Take a cold bath once a day at least. Twice would do no harm. Avoid the hot bath as overdrying.

Take your daily bath as hot as the water can be borne. Cold water gives a dangerous shock. Moreover, it is not cleansing. Bathe every day.

A common error is that of bathing more frequently than is necessary for purpose of cleanliness. Use tepid water. Regulate the intake of essential to health. Take three of them daily, beginning with a hearty breakfast.

Omit, until noon at least, the meal ordinarily known as breakfast. Then take half a sterilized cracker and a sip of water. Eat when you are hungry, without regard to the hour.

Never go to bed within three hours of having eaten. The practice of going to bed hungry is foolish. Sleep comes more quickly and is more restful if just before retiring you partake of lunch.

Never drink water with meals. Drink two or three glasses of water with each meal.

Beware of low shoes, even in warm weather. The low shoe is desirable despite a possible sense of chill. In high shoes the feet suffer from lack of ventilation.

Wear heavy underclothes in cool weather, particularly over the chest. Many make the mistake of swathing the chest and throat. Adopt light underwear for the entire year.

Chew food thoroughly and eat sparingly. Take a quantity of food. Nature will eliminate all that is not needed. No harm is done by boiling meat, as digestion is a chemical process taking place in the stomach.

Tea and coffee are poisons. There is no beverage more healthful than tea and coffee in moderation.

Decline to use any but pasteurized milk. Milk raw from a healthy herd is the only sort fit for human consumption.

Indulge in vigorous exercise. Vegetables and fruits of the season will give you all the exercise you need.

Experience demonstrates that the vegetable has the only sane theory. If you would keep well, follow a mixed diet, with meat as a staple.

Take all fruits and most vegetables raw. The skins have a distinct value. Vegetables and fruits must be cooked. It is well to peel them. The skins harbor deadly germs—Philadelphia Ledger.

MANY AT G. O. P. DINNER

State Will Be Well Represented at Central Club Gathering.

COUNTY DELEGATIONS COMING

Gage, Merrick and McCook Men Write Saying They Will Attend—State Officials Are to Be on Hand.

Daniel J. Killen of Gage county, a possible candidate for the republican nomination for governor, has written the Central Republican club that a Gage county delegation will be here for the annual dinner at the Central club on Monday evening, May 8.

From Central city also comes a request for reservations, and from McCook a like request. The McCook republicans write to ask if the banquet is an invitation affair, and were told it is not.

"There is not a Chautauque lecturer on the program," said President Ryder, "and the fact is endorsed by Secretary of State Junkin and others. Of course, there will be men divergent opinions at the banquet, and it is the intention of the club to give as many as possible a chance to be heard. Even should the two United States senators and the three congressmen be kept away by their duties at Washington, all of them will have enthusiastic friends present, and for their interests, since men will be here from about every county in Nebraska."

State Officials Coming.

State Treasurer Brian, Attorney General Thompson, Railway Commissioner Henry T. Clarke, Jr., and State Auditor Barton, will be given a chance to talk and to tell of their stewardship and they all promise to have something interesting to say. Auditor Barton and Land Commissioner Cowles will also attend, and will be likely to have something to say.

Up-to-date, but one member of the state committee has sent in his excuse, and the banquet promises to be as nearly representative of the republicanism of Nebraska as any affair ever held outside of a state convention. Because of this fact, many editors from the various counties are making reservations for place at the board.

Fifty tickets are to be reserved for those who may come to Omaha without first having reserved a ticket, and on the day of the banquet an officer of the club will be at the home all day, to take care of late comers.

WORK STARTING UP AGAIN

AMONG HILLS MINES

Several Properties Are to Resume and Busy Times Will Soon Arrive.

DEADWOOD, S. D., April 30.—(Special Telegram)—Sinking will be resumed on the property of the Golden Crest Mining company in the Two Bit district some time this month. The Golden Crest is one of the oldest properties in this part of the hills that has been considerably worked and has yielded some good ore, the average value being close to $20 in the old days. This was when the property was owned and managed by Fritz Weber before he sold it to the present company and was under expense of mining, hauling and shipping besides treatment at the smelters. No ore running under $20 per ton was shipped and the peculiarity of the ore was in the fact that it was never found in place. It was of the silicious nature and was taken from the upper levels. The presence of a porphyry cap and a fault led to the conclusion that the richer ore lay beneath the quartzite and it is with this idea that the sinking is to be done below the 200-foot level, where the present shaft stops. The shaft is well timbered and in good shape for sinking and little preparatory work will have to be done. The property is owned by R. L. Balle and associates of Detroit, Mich.

Dr. A. T. Ross, the local chemist and assayer, and Guy Bunce, son of the president of the Black Hills Development and Financial corporation, have established a camp in the Carbonate camp, near here, the scene of the rich strikes on the old Iron Hill property made in the early days. The dumps of this and adjoining properties contain something between 30,000 and 40,000 tons of ore which will be run through and extensively sampled, shipments being made from time to time to the smelter at Denver. The total cost of loading, shipping and treatment is $11.50 per ton and it is expected that a fair profit can be obtained from the ore, even at this figure. Deeds for the adjoining properties to the company are being made out to give a wider scope to the activities of the assayers.

Preparations are being made by the Lucky Strike Mining company to resume work on its property on Box Elder creek southeast of here. General Manager Charles Allen has just returned from an eastern trip to Minneapolis and other points where he was in consultation with the officers of the company on plans for future work. Although the details of the plans have not yet been made public it is understood that

PARADISE OF SIMPLE LIFE

A Country Without Army, Navy, Police, Treasury or Postal System.

They come together like the teeth of a dog, do the frontiers of France and Spain, and between the teeth is a bone—such a very small bone that one wonders why it was not swallowed up long ago, and the name of the bone is Andorra.

"The whole area of this lonely little nation is something less than half that of Greater New York," says a writer in the Metropolitan, "and its entire population does not equal that of one of New York's great office buildings."

"For want of a better name the geographers have called it a republic, but Andorrans part their allegiance carefully in the middle, as they do their hair, dividing it (the allegiance, not the hair) between the pope and the French president. "If Tolstoy himself had framed his government he could not have built anything more after his own heart. The heads of families—the patriarchs of Scripture—elect representatives who several times each year saddle their mules and go riding down to the 400-year-old parliament house, where it nestles cozily in the mountain valley of Andorra la Vieja, to make such few and simple laws as the well being of their pastoral constituents require."

"So slight are the expenses of government in Andorra, for all that there are but four salaried officials, that a small poll tax on goats and sheep amply meets them all. There is no army, even of the smallest—nor who is there to fight? There are no police, for the peasants do their own policing."

"When I was in Andorra," the writer says, "the prison—there is but one—was used as a poultry house. There is no fire department, for the houses are all of stone. There is no coinage, for the people pay in kind. No postal system is there either, for when an Andorran writes a letter, which rarely happens, he entrusts it to some accommodating person who is going over the borders into France or Spain."

NATURE COVERS THE SCARS

Ruins of St. Pierre Deserted and Overgrown with Vegetation.

The city of St. Pierre, in Martinique, which only eight years ago was the picture of a thriving place of 40,000 people, is now a vast field of ruins. The city was destroyed by a volcanic eruption. The only inhabitants at present are a few black people who dwell like ghouls in the deserted places of the city of the dead, on the chance of selling to the handful of tourists who come their way souvenirs of the awful havoc that was wrought by Mount Pelee less than a decade ago. The vegetation is encroaching upon the streets that once teemed with traffic and re-echoed the palaver and ribaldry of a laughter-loving people. Soon the whole of the moldering ruin will be overgrown to the very top of the sea, and the wretched sojourner eking out a living in the city of the Dead will be forced to leave it. Then it will have for its most important citizen a deadly snake, the fer de lance, which creeps into old houses in the West Indies as the cobra infests the ancient ruins of India. There is little likelihood that the city will ever be again more than the buried cities that lie smothered in the jungles of Yucatan.

If St. Pierre had been a city of our own country it would have been rebuilt within a year or two of the time of its incineration. The fire and the earthquake could not forbid a city on the site of ruined San Francisco. Though Herculaneum and Pompeii were buried, a great city rose again in the shadow of Vesuvius, and even Messina is rebuilding. A city of 50,000 was raised to the foundation when Sir Henry Morgan, the pirate, sacked and burned Panama three centuries ago, but a new town rose eight miles from the earlier location. St. Pierre, however, seems destined to remain a city of the dead, and in a few years more it will be as though it had lain buried under the vines and ferns, abandoned to the lizard and the snake, for centuries—Philadelphia Ledger.
