

BULLETIN NO. 1

THE Independent Telephone Company of Omaha is now in process of re-organization for the purpose of extending and completing its telephone system in this territory. I have been appointed receiver for the purpose of completing this re-organization at once. The United States Circuit Court for the District of Nebraska, Division of Omaha, has authorized me, as receiver of the properties of said company, to immediately expend the sum of $171,743.37 in building an automatic exchange in South Omaha, and $15,000.00 in completing the Florence exchange. Work is being rushed with the utmost speed, and both exchanges will be connected up with our Omaha subscribers within a few weeks. The Automatic Secret Service throughout the entire zone, including Omaha, South Omaha and Florence, and adjacent territory will be absolutely without extra cost above the regular rates, which now are:

$2.00 net, per month for main line business phones

$1.00 net, per month for main line residence phones

There are no party lines.

LYSLE I. ABBOTT,

Receiver of the Independent Telephone Company of Omaha.

Every able-bodied man who can handle a shovel will be given work by applying at our new building at 25th and M Streets, South Omaha, Monday, May 2d.

CUMMINS' PLAN IS DEFEATED

Substitute for Crawford-Elkins Traffic Agreement Voted Down.

BURKETT FOR, BROWN AGAINST

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin Delays Final by Afternoon Speech of Characteristic Nature.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—By the decisive vote of 25 to 22 and in the midst of intense excitement the administration republicans Friday defeated the Cummins substitute for the Crawford-Elkins traffic agreement provision of the railbad bill. This question had practically monopolized the attention of the senate for the last week and was regarded as one of the most important subdivisions of the pending bill. The vote is generally accepted as a test of the strength of the contending sides, respectively, and it is believed that it presages the passage of the bill by a safe majority.

Of the total membership of ninety-two there were twenty-eight senators who did not vote, and of these four, all democrat, were absent without being represented. They were Senators Clark of Arkansas, Bankhead of Alabama, McEnery of Louisiana, and Smith of Maryland.

All the democrat present voted for the Cummins provision, so that if the four democrats mentioned had been present and had voted for the amendment the bill in its favor would have been increased to thirty-three, still less by two votes than the total against the provision. Only eighteen democratic votes were cast, and these, together with eleven republicans who voted for the Cummins substitute, constituted the entire affirmative.

Final Vote of Senate.

The full vote was as follows:

Years—Bacon, Bailey, Beves, Beveridge, Borah, Bristow, Burkett, Chamberlain, Clapp, Clay, Cummins, Davis, Dixon, Dooliver, Fletcher, Frasier, Gamble, Core, Johnstone, La Follette, Martin, Nelson, Overman, Painter, Percy, Purcell, Simmons, Smith of South Carolina, Stone and Taylor—29.

Nays—Bradley, Brandegees, Brown, Bulkley, Burnham, Burrows, Burton, Carter, Clark of Wyoming, Crane, Crawford, Culom, Curtis, Depew, Dupont, Elkins, Frye, Gallinger, Guggenheim, Heyburn, Jones, Kean, Lodge, Nixon, Oliver, Page, Perkins, Piles, Root, Scott, Smith of Michigan, Smoot, Stephenson, Sutherland and Warner—35.

Immediately after the result was announced Senator Cummins, whose provision had been voted down, gave notice of another amendment intended to accomplish the same purpose. He had claimed for his substitute that it would specifically require the approval by the Interstate Commerce commission of all rates under traffic agreements in advance of their taking effect, but his substitute covered all phases of the bill by a safe majority.

Cummins' Substitute.

By the amendment presented today the senator seeks to insert a proviso declaring that no increase or change in classification shall take effect until it shall have received the approval of the commission. There is a general understanding that voting will be resumed tomorrow and it is expected that all amendments, including that of Mr. Cummins, will be voted down and that the Crawford provision, which has been accepted by the commission, will be adopted.

The voting stage was not reached until late in the day. The senate had begun the consideration of the bill in the hope of being able to complete the section before the close of the sitting, and would have been able to do so but for the fact that at the last moment Senator La Follette came in with a speech, which delayed the voting.

Previous to Mr. La Follette's speech the time had been given to addresses by Senators Newlands and Cummins.

Senator Frye, president pro tem, occupied the chair, and his recognition of the Wisconsin senator was rather grudgingly given.

Mr. La Follette, beginning at 1:35 p. m., continued until 4:45 o'clock. His speech was a plea against the annulment of the Sherman anti-trust law as applicable to the railroads, without supplying adequate protection in its absence.

Senate Anxious to Vote.

In many respects it was a remarkable speech, and it was delivered under some what trying circumstances. The senate as well as its presiding officer, evidently wanted to vote, and while most of the senators retained their seats there was manifest impatience, at least among the advocates of the bill.

Declaring that the standard in the senate had declined since 1890, when the anti-trust law was enacted, and asserting that law to be next to the constitution, the principal bulwark of the liberties of the people, Mr. La Follette warned his colleagues and especially western senators, against being the first to impair the law.

Taking up the republican platform, Mr. La Follette asserted that pay platforms frequently came nearer representing the view of interested parties than those of the people at large, and that in reality the senate committee recommendation did not coincide with the party declarations.

Rising on tip-toe and stretching his arm toward the republican side of the chamber, the Wisconsin senator proceeded to present his views of the transactions at the Chicago convention, declaring the Denver convention had been as carefully watched as had the other by the trusts.

HIGH CLASSMEN VICTORS

Omaha High School Seniors Take Track Meet.

SENIORS CAPTURE FIFTY POINTS

Make This Score Out of Possible Hundred Twenty-Two—Freshmen Follow in Second Place.

The senior class of 1910 led the underclassmen by a margin of 18 points in the annual class track athletic meet held by high school students Friday. Out of a possible 122 points the senior athletes took 50 points, the juniors 31 points, the freshmen 26 and the sophomores 9. This score allows the senior class to keep the silver trophy, which they won last year, for another year.

In individual competition John Rayley of the senior class and Robert Wood of the freshmen are so far judged to be equal in number of points. According to the rules under which the meet is held the competitor who attains the greatest number of credits shall be awarded the gold trophy medal for that year and the one who is in second place shall have the silver trophy medal. Several events in which the number of credits was not made clear will be decided later, thus placing the medals on these two boys.

The Omaha High school record for the 200-yard dash was broken and the record for the 100-yard was tied in this meet, but Coach Carns stated that these records would not stand as high school records because the wind was behind the boys as they ran. Under the rules of the High School association, to which Omaha belongs, records made with wind behind the runners do not stand as such. Both the records made, however, were by Robert Wood, a sophomore. The 200-yard dash was made in 23½ seconds and the 100-yard dash in 10½ seconds.

None of the events was very closely contested for first place except the high jump, in which Kulakofsky and Fraser, both seniors, ran neck and neck until the finishing post was almost reached, when Kulakofsky was able to gain a little on his opponent. In the mile run, Hudson led the pace for third place until the last 100 yards, when Ludwig overtook him and finished in third place.
