Unloading the silk and dress goods purchases, prices that break every precedent---Save money by spending it here tomorrow

Never did a spring season open up with brighter prospects in the dry goods trade. Manufacturers, jobbers and retailers were very optimistic, and made heavy purchases in anticipation of a great trade expansion. But it was all for naught. The fickleness of the weather all season has changed conditions. Goods failed to move at a profit, throwing great silk and dress goods houses into a frenzy. The outcome is reflected in our advertisement today. Merchandise, the very goods people want right now, at prices such as have never been heard of before. There's an upheaval in the silks and dress goods here that will arouse your bargain instinct to the highest pitch. Tomorrow will be the day of all days for rich economies.
