Cummins Flays Smith's Record

Iowa Senator Enters Congressional Campaign by Attacking the Judge.

RED OAK, Ia., June 3.—Assailing the record of Walter I. Smith, congressman from the ninth district, and declaring that he was not a safe man to represent the people of the district because of his line-up with the corporate interests of the country, Senator Cummins entered the Iowa congressional campaign here tonight.

Senator Cummins endorsed Warren Garst, the progressive candidate for governor, H. W. Byers, Judge Smith's opponent, and the other progressive candidates in districts where there are contests.

"I have but one objection to Judge Smith," said the senator. "That is that he wont fight on the right side or a question. If he has ever wanted to fight on the right side, he has never shown it by putting on the armor and getting into the fray.

"I don't want to say that Judge Smith is one of the congressmen nominated and elected by the interests, but he has leanings that way. He has always shown a willingness to follow the lead of Cannon and his bunch."

Attorney General Byers, Smith's opponent, also spoke at the meeting.

DIPLOMAS FOR GRADUATES

Senior Class of 1910 Given Reward for Their Labors.

ADDRESS BY DR. E. A. STEINER

Message to Class on "Democracy in the Public Schools"—Forty-Seven Members of Class.

With the presentation of diplomas of graduation last night, the senior class of 1910 of the Council Bluffs High school became a matter of tradition and the thirty-five young women and twelve young men comprising it are now enrolled among the alumni of the institution.

The commencement exercises, the fortieth in the history of the high school, were held in the auditorium of the institution, which was attractively decorated and lighted for the occasion, and were attended by a gathering of the relatives and friends of the graduates which taxed the capacity of the large hall.

After the audience had been seated, the members of the senior class, headed by the members of the faculty and the Board of Education, marched down the hall singing the processional, "The Pilgrims' Chorus," and took seats on the platform. Gowned in dainty white, and each carrying a large shower bouquet of pink roses, the class flower, tied with green and white ribbons, the class colors, the young women formed a pretty picture.

Dr. Reed's Address.

Principal C. E. Reed presided. Following the invocation by Dr. George A. Ray of the Second Presbyterian church, the class sang "Oh Italia, Italia, Beloved."

This was followed by the commencement address, delivered by Dr. Edward A. Steiner of Grinnell college, who took for the subject of his message "Democracy in the Public Schools."

"It is essential," said Dr. Steiner, "that the lines of democratic life should be guarded and maintained in the public schools, for they are the only institutions at present in America which are basicly democratic. Every other institution is a class institution, and the public schools of this country should be so maintained that equal opportunity be afforded every child, no matter what his race, color or creed may be."

At the close of the address Miss Grace Barr, supervisor of music in the city schools, sang "The Farewell," by Schumann, and then President Emmet Tinley of the Board of Education presented the diplomas.

Fowler Jury Fails to Agree

Men Out Since Tuesday Finally Discharged by the Court—Purdy Seeks Daughter.

The district court jury in the case of Fred Fowler, charged with criminal assault, which had been out since Tuesday afternoon, was discharged at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning by Judge Wheeler, it being evident that agreement upon a verdict was impossible. It is understood that the jury was about equally divided on the question of the guilt of the defendant. The case will not be retried at this term.

Orland K. Purdy instituted habeas corpus proceedings in the district court yesterday to recover possession of his 2-year-old daughter, Clover W. Purdy. The child, since the death of its mother, has been cared for by its grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Morrison, against whom the writ is asked. Made part of the petition is a contract entered into September 15, 1908, between the father of the child and the grandparents, giving the latter the care and custody of the little girl as against all persons except the father. In the petition Purdy states that he demanded possession of the child on April 15 of this year and it was refused by the defendants. By agreement no writ was issued by the court, the grandparents promising to produce the child in court next Monday morning, at which a time will be set before Judge Wheeler.

Mrs. Catherine Kolb filed suit for divorce from Albert L. F. Kolb, to whom she was married at Fort Dodge, Ia., on June 25, 1902. Mrs. Kolb charges that her husband, besides being an habitual drunkard, had treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner and that on May 22 last he assaulted her, threatened to kill her and would, as she alleges, have probably carried his threat into execution but for the interference of neighbors. She asks in addition to the decree of divorce the custody of their minor children, the household goods and $1,200 alimony.

Mrs. Jennie B. O. Ryden brings suit for divorce from William R. Ryden, to whom she was married November 15, 1900, in this city. Mrs. Ryden states in her petition that her husband, after a systematic course of abuse and ill treatment, deserted her. Mrs. Ryden asks the custody of their two minor children and $30 a month alimony.

The hearing on the application for a temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Myra Stevenson and J. B. Hood and Thomas Hood, jr., reputed owners of the building, from maintaining a nuisance at 312½ West Broadway was held yesterday before Judge Wheeler, who took his decision under advisement. Allegation was made by the plaintiff that the building was being used as a house of ill fame. Another suit to enjoin the same parties from the alleged sale of liquor at the same place is pending in the district court.

Creston Boosters Busy.

CRESTON, Ia., June 3.—(Special.)—Last night the Greater Creston association had a big jollification meeting to celebrate the successful raising of $40,000 as Creston's share for the new interurban between here and Winterset. There was a grand display of fireworks, set off by the occupants of thirty-five automobiles in a parade headed by the band in a tally-ho, which marched about the principal streets for a time, and then assembled at the court house, where a regular "love feast" was indulged in.

She is also survived by fifteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Reviving Sunday School Interest.

DENISON, Ia., June 3.—(Special.)—There is now under headway a movement to revive the interest of the country people in Sunday school work in this county. Mr. Nugent of Council Bluffs of the American Sunday School union is making a canvass and his efforts are seconded by the county organization having Rev. De Pree for president and Charles K. Meyers for secretary. On Sunday last Mr. Meyers conducted the exercises at Coon Grove, four miles south of Denison, the school starting with forty-five in attendance. Mr. Nugent also organized a school at Buck Grove with thirty members.

Farmers Replanting Corn.

LAKE CITY, Ia., June 3.—(Special.)—A large per cent of the farmers in this vicinity are replanting their corn, some two and three times, because of the poor quality of the seed corn used. Some of the rows are full, while in others there are only a few good hills. Oats and small grain are rather short and moisture is badly needed for hay and grass.

CRESTON—As the result of injuries received about two weeks ago in a runaway accident, Samuel Fahler died last night at his home here. He was 72 years of age. The runaway was caused by a dog running out and biting the legs of a high spirited team with which Mr. Fahler and his son-in-law, H. S. Doig, were coming to town.

MASSENA—Mrs. Matilda S. Nelson was buried yesterday. Her death was the result of an accident that befel her about two weeks ago, when she was seriously injured by a fall. The deceased was 72 years old and had been a resident of Massena continuously for the last twenty-five years, and of the county for forty years.

FORT DODGE—Van Merritt, eldest son in a prominent Fort Dodge family, died today after an eight months' illness from tuberculosis. He was 23 years of age when most unexpectedly stricken and had been married but a year. His death is a great shock to the young widow and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Merritt, who have only one other child, a younger son.

FORT DODGE—J. B. Scott, an aged pioneer settler of Webster county and veteran of the civil war, was the first person to observe Memorial Day in this city. Forty years ago, he journeyed to Fort Dodge from his home at Moorland and with the sexton's aid located a few old soldiers' graves and placed flowers thereon. The next year Major Hutchinson joined him in the observance and gradually others followed suit.

FORT DODGE—Dr. J. W. Kime, state tuberculosis lecturer, his wife, Dr. Sara Kime and Dr. H. E. Kirschner, superintendent of the tuberculosis hospital at Oakdale, Ia., paid $14,500 today for a 130-acre tract of land, rich in clay and limestone of valuable quality. The property is part of the original holdings of the Morgan estate, one of the pioneer estates of the county. Nothing is to be done at present toward developing the land.

FORT DODGE—Finally rising in complete disregard of oft repeated promises on the part of the Illinois Central to improve station conditions here, the city council ordered an immediate investigation and condemnation of the station property of that road in Fort Dodge, which is deemed highly unsanitary, unsightly and very inadequate to the needs. The station building is one of the most disreputable in the entire state in a city of this size and the backbone of the city dads' patience is at last broken and immediate steps will be taken in the matter.

ALBIA—Frank Harinak, who was on his way to Alberta, Canada, from Newkirk, Okl., is missing. His relatives heard from him at Albia, at which place he wrote them, sending home all his money and saying that he was sentenced to death. It is supposed he had suddenly gone insane. His brother, Steven Harinak, arrived in Albia to investigate the affair. The missing man's suitcase was found in the Wabash station here, and it has transpired that the missing man had been seen going through a field about a mile from the station. Further than this nothing has been learned.

JOCKEY KILLED ON TRACK

Fred Langan Meets Instant Death at Gravesend.

MOUNT FALLS IN CLOSING RACE

Bad Mixup Takes Place When One Horse Stumbles and Trips Others —Opponents Escape Serious Injury.

GRAVESEND, June 3.—Jockey Fred Langan, mounted on Stalwart Lad, was instantly killed today when his mount fell in the closing race.

The race was for 2-year-olds at five and one-half furlongs and thirteen horses faced the barrier. The start was good and the field went off in a close bunch to the stretch turn where Warwick, Bullwell up, stumbled and fell. Muff, Davix riding, stumbled over Warwick. Immediately following was Langan on Stalwart Lad. He turned a complete somersault over the prostrate forms of the two horses and his mount fell on top of him, killing him instantly.

When the big crowd saw Warwick fall, a cry of dismay and horror went up that was immediately followed by another when Muff and Stalwart Lad tumbled over him. Davis jumped up at once, Bullwell lay still until he was picked up and Langan never moved. Bullwell broke his nose, but Davis escaped uninjured.

Langan was under contract to H. F. Carman and rode with good success at the Jacksonville meeting last winter. He had been with the thoroughbreds only about a year.

ROADS WILL PROSECUTE CAR ROBBER SUSPECTS

Confession of One Man at Plattsmouth Gives Away Alleged Plans to Loot Trains.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., June 3.—(Special.)—County Attorney W. C. Ramsey has filed a complaint with Justice Archer charging Grant Blunt of this city with grand larceny. Blunt was arrested in Nebraska City and brought to this city by Sheriff Quinton and is now in the county jail.

Special Agent J. A. Kendrick of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company has been in this city for several days investigating the robbery of a car on freight train No. 194, southbound, on May 16 last, and secured a confession from one Karnes, it is said, to the effect that Karnes and Blunt boarded the freight train at La Platte and entering the car rode across the Platte river. When about a mile this side, where there is a strip of timber, they threw several boxes of merchandise from the car. After the train stopped in this city they left the car and returned, and gathered up and hid the stolen goods until the next night. After disposing of a majority of the goods, valued at about $200, they informed the officers where they could find some of the stolen goods. While the officers were getting the goods the boys took their departure for another state. It is not definitely known just when Blunt will be arraigned.

The Burlington has also had cars entered in the same way at La Platte.

Fishways in Dams.

WATERTOWN, S. D., June 3.—(Special.)—Fish ways will have to be built in all dams across streams in South Dakota according to an announcement made here today by W. F. Bancroft, state game warden. Mr. Bancroft will make a test case out of the situation at Sioux Falls if opposition develops to his program.

Similar action will be taken as to the James river and all the other large streams in the state.

"The Awakening of Helena Richie" at the Brandeis.

Margaret Anglin and company in "The Awakening of Helena Richie," a play in four acts, from the novel of the same name by Margaret Deland; adapted by Charlotte Thompson. The cast:

Martha King.....Miss Sally Williams
Sarah.....Miss Gertrude Swiggett
Dr. William King.....Mr. Walter Howe
Dr. Lavender.....Mr. John R. Crauford
Helena Richie.....Miss Anglin
Sam Wright.....Mr. Eugene Shakespeare
Lloyd Pryor.....Mr. Eugene Ormonde
David Allison.....Master Raymond Hackett
Benjamin Wright.....Mr. Halbert Brown

When Margaret Anglin broke away from a long association with Henry Miller; gave over "The Great Divide," and the promise of other and easier roles in support of the star, and announced her determination to produce "The Awakening of Helena Richie," and to do other things on her own hook, much wagging of heads was engendered, and a great deal of ink was spread on paper to tell how well she might do as a light comedy actor, but how far away she was in temperment and inclination from the more serious drama. When news came back from Australia that she had scored in her new play, more wagging of heads and spreading of ink was indulged by the quid nuncs. And finally she came home to our shores, and for several months she has been proving to Americans that she has the capacity for earnest, sincere, purposeful dramatic work. It may be that her forte is for light comedy; Omaha has not seen her often enough to judge of her qualities in this regard. She surely possesses the power for serious and authoritative expression of the deeper and stronger passions that stir human life.

As Helena Richie she is offering a type of woman far to be preferred to those usually presented under similar circumstances. We have had a long procession of those fair ones who went "a-kenning wrang," and who were too weak to win back their road to happiness by the only means humanly possible.

Helena Richie found the way, and she was given strength to follow it. Mrs. Deland foresaw for her the calamity that overtook Paula Tanqueray, and saved her from it, not by any tour of force, but by the expedient open to Pinero or any other creator of these puppets who are moved about in the game of sex upon the stage. But Pinero and his kind had not the courage to adopt the one chance open. Maybe the atmosphere of Old Chester is clearer than that of London, and for this reason the ability to discern the choice between right and wrong is more readily exercised. At any rate Helena is left at last redeemed because she had the strength to turn her back on "the easiest way," and set her feet on the stony path of right.

Miss Anglin gives a fine idea of the "awakening" of the woman, showing how her own sense of right and wrong was finally adjusted till it met with the rather narrow but eminently correct standard of Old Chester and its mentor, the good Dr. Lavendar. She has some very strong scenes. In fact, the third act is fairly tempestuous; Helena is called upon first to renounce her lover and her chance for marriage; then to make confession to the old preacher, whose convictions would admit of no compromise between self and truth, to give up the boy she longed to adopt and for whom she had sent away her lover; and finally to stand convicted before her own conscience. It is a whirlwind of passion and emotion, and in it Miss Anglin shows how much strength she really commands. Not a passion is torn to tatters, not an emotion is shrieked out in gasping hysteria; no sofa pillows are tossed about, nor does the tide of sobbing disturb the scenery. Here is an act that nine out of ten of our "emotional" actresses might study with profit. Miss Anglin leaves not a point untouched, not a chord unsounded, but all is done so reasonably that it seems real beyond imagination. Nor is it in this alone she shows her art. In the lighter passages she is equally good. Her joy at the coming of her lover; her feverish eagerness for his reply to her telegram; her bitter disappointment when she finds he is not as ready for the marriage as she, all are parts of a well conceived and wrought out character. Miss Anglin has justified her own judgment when she deliberately undertook to "star" under her own management.

The suporting company is good. Mr. Crouford is impressive at Dr. Lavendar, and Mr. Howe fully realizes the part of Dr. King. Mr. Ormonde might leave a little less of Pryor's intent apparent and not spoil the role. Mr. Shakespeare acts Sam Wright with commendable enthusiasm and taste, and Mr. Brown is strong as old Benjamin Wright. Miss Swiggett's Sarah is perfectly conceived, and Miss Williams gives most vigorous life to the uncompromising Martha. Little Raymond Hackett is the "child actor" of the company, and acts his role with such absence of self-consciousness as makes it one of the many delights of the play. The audience was large and fashionable, and expressed earnest approval of the work of the star and her company.

BODY OF MAN IN RIVER NEAR SARPY COUNTY SIDE

Two Men Discover It and Mistake It for Woman—No Identification Made.

The body of an unidentified man was found floating in the Missouri river near Child's Point, Sarpy county by Frank Ich and Charles E. Mann. The county coroner, Dr. Peters of Springfield, examined the body last night at the undertaking parlors of Emil Grothe of Papillion. He found only a pocket knife by way of identification. The body was that of a large man minus arms and feet. The man's teeth were perfect in all respects and none had been touched by a dentist's instruments. In the opinion of Mr. Grothe the body had been in the water for six months.

The men who found the body floating in the current and who towed it to shore said the clothing was fairly good. They were of the opinion at first it was a woman's apparel. The coroner said last night there was nothing to support a theory that the body had been burned before being in the river.

MASTER PLUMBERS TO MEET

Employers Hold Session on Saturday —No Notice from Union Yet Received.

Action to be taken in regard to the plumbers' wage scale at the meeting of the Master Plumbers' association on Saturday afternoon is yet uncertain. No notice has been served on the association by the journeymen's union and officially they know nothing of the demands which the plumbers are discussing.

J. B. Coningham, secretary and business manager of the association, said Thursday that he could make no forecast of the probable attitude of the master plumbers if such a proposition should be made.

The "non-association bosses," as the unorganized employers of plumbers are called, have practically reached an agreement with the union at an increase of 6 cents an hour.

This gives the plumbers a minimum wage scale of $5.46. Many—in fact the majority—of the master plumbers are paying above this price at present, hence an agreement on a higher minimum, if made, will be an the nature of a formality.

AIRSHIPS FLOCK TOGETHER

Aerial Craft Present Pretty Spectacle at Hempstead Heights.

THREE PERFORM AT SAME TIME

Aeronautic Federation of America is Formed, with Prof. David Todd as President—Flights Are Planned.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Spectators of the aeroplane flights on Hempstead heights yesterday saw three aeroplanes aloft at once, circling, passing and repassing each other at various altitudes. Charles K Hamilton, who has announced that he will compete in the promised New York to Chicago flight, went up 1,000 feet in a Curtiss biplane and remained aloft for half an hour.

The veteran, Captain Baldwin, made a cautious trial in a machine of his own invention.

Clifford B. Harmon, who proposes to cross Long Island and the sound to Greenwich, Conn., made a trial of twelve miles in a Farnam biplane at a height of 200 feet and came to grief in landing. He smashed his propellor and snapped several stays, but escaped personal injury.

Representatives of the various clubs and societies identified with the movement newly organized as the Aeronautic Federation of America met in this city tonight and elected the following officers: President, Prof. David Todd of the Amherst Aero club; secretary-treasurer, Thomas A. Hill, director of the Aeronautical society and a numerous organization and convention committee which will formulate plans for the national convention to be held in this city June 22, jointly with the American Auronautical association.

With the close of the session Secretary Hill gave out the following statement: "The American Aeronautic association represents a dozen American aero clubs. This makes a total of fifty-one clubs and societies to be represented at the convention on June 22, and it is expected that all other clubs in the country will join in the movement before the date set for the convention. This will make a representative organization of from 75 to 80 clubs, representing a membership of from 7,000 to 8,000.

"So far as can be gleaned from the preliminary discussion of the report to be presented at the convention the organization when formed will comprise sporting, scientific and industrial sections with reference to both heavier than air and lighter than air apparatus."

WOULD FINE CONDUCTORS WHO SPIT ON THEIR HANDS

Congressman Coudry Frames Bill Aimed at Uncleanly Habit of Street Car Men.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Representative Coudry (pop.), of Missouri wants congress to make it a crime for a street car conductor to spit on his hands. He introduced a bill in the house today providing "that it shall be unlawful for the conductor of any street railway car operated in the District of Columbia to expectorate on his hands or fingers, or in any other manner moisten his hands or fingers with saliva while handling tickets or transfers." If he spits on his hands once, Mr. Coudry would have him fined $5, if he spits on his hands twice $10, and similar amounts for each subsequent offense.

Mr. Coudry's bill makes no provision for the adequate punishment of a conductor who would be so heineous as to expectorate on both hands at the same time.

Biplane Crosses Channel, Then Flies Back Again

DOVER, England, June 2.—The Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls, captain in the London section of the army motor reserves, driving a Wright biplane, vindicated Anglo-Saxon aeronautics by crossing the English channel twice this evening without alighting. He made the round trip between Dover and Calais in ninety minutes.

While two Frenchmen, Louis Bleriot and Count de Lesseps have crossed the channel in an aeroplane, it remained for an Englishman in an American machine to perform the double feat. The distance across between the two points is twenty-one miles, so that his over-water flight of forty-two miles without a stop establishes a new record.

Captain Rolls left Dover at 6:30 o'clock. The atmospheric conditions were excellent. He lost no time in maneuvers, but after describing a circle, headed toward the coast of France. In anticipation of the flight, torpedo boats steamed at full speed across the straits, but the pace of the aeroplane was swifter.

Captain Rolls sent his machine to a height of 800 feet and at that altitude skimmed through the air like a great bird. The motor worked perfectly. The crowd that watched the start, confidently awaited the return and it was not long before the speck, which those who had telescopes saw disappear on the French coast, reappeared, growing larger with every minute.

When finally the aviator became visible to the naked eye repeated cheers arose from the enthusiastic spectators and as he gracefully soared toward the landing place, made famous by Bleriot, he was given a demonstration. He alighted at 8 o'clock at almost the same spot as Bleriot, showing little signs of the strain of his magnificent flight.
