RECEIVER FOR INTERURBAN

Electric Line Des Moines to Fort Dodge in Difficulties.

IMPROVEMENTS TOO EXTENSIVE

Half Million of Bonds Issued to Erect New Power House Go Begging for Buyers.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, June 4.—(Special Telegram.)—The Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern Railroad company, operating an electric interurban system between the cities of Des Moines, Ames and Fort Dodge, was forced into bankruptcy today with liabilities aggregating $900,000. A petition asking that receiver be appointed was filed in the United States court by an attorney for the Old Colony Trust company, which holds a mortgage for the amount of the liabilities.

Homer Loring, president of the railroad, and Parley Sheldon, a banker of Ames, were appointed as receivers of the company, each filing a bond of $50,000. James C. Davis, attorney for the petitioners, stated that the necessity of the action was brought about by reason of some extended improvements undertaken by the company, stringency of the money market, the general depreciation of railroad securities and the inability of the company to market its bonds.

Recently it issued $500,000 worth of bonds with which money it intended to build a new power house and make other improvements, but the bonds found no buyers in Wall street or by any eastern capitalist.

Iowa Will Go It Alone.
Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Lyon today received from Attorney General Wickham a telegram declining to amend his petition in the rate case in junction. He points out that to do so would require the consent of three circuit judges and he does not feel warranted in doing so. A conference was held and plans laid for starting suit at once in federal court independent of the government, if that can be done, to prevent collection of the higher rail rates. The increased rates are being paid here under the recent notice. The shippers regard it as a little doubtful if they will be able to secure reduction.

No Stickers on Ballots.
The attorney general today rendered a decision on behalf of persons at Ottumwa that no stickers or posters are allowable on the official primary ballots except for delegates. In many places the ballots are studded with the names of various candidates, especially for committeemen, but it is held that these must be written in.

Improve the Rail Service.
The railroad commission today ordered the Colfax and Northern railroad to put on better cars for carrying the miners to and from their work at Valeria. The complaint was that the road had been dangerous and the cars unsafe. The commission has fixed the road bed and now the commission has ordered that the company use shorter and better cars and maintain sanitary conditions.

Will Get the Vice President.
It is expected that Vice President James Sherman will attend the convention of the Iowa Bankers' association June 16. On the previous day he is to be at Iowa City to attend some university function and the bankers have invited him to come on here and address them.

Convention of Saints.
The annual convention and Sunday school meeting of the reform branch of the Mormon church, of which there is a large membership in Iowa, is in session here with several hundred present. Arrangements are being made for a general reunion in Iowa on this year.

New College Head.
Rev. Francis Luther Strickland, Northport, Long Island, will be the next head of Simpson college. He will be at Indianola Saturday to meet the trustees.

Strike Nears End.
Members of the harness makers' union of Des Moines believe that the end of the strike declared March 21 is near. Meeting of the National Association of Harness Manufacturers and the executive board of the Harness Makers' union are to be held in Chicago and Kansas City respectively, within the next two weeks and it is thought that these two meetings will provide for a joint session which will put an end to the labor troubles.

Little Rusty on One Family Tree

Water, the 5-year-old son of a minister, had frequently been told by his father to say "Get behind me, Satan," when tempted to do wrong.

One day after the father suddenly asked: "Water, what do you do when tempted to do wrong?"

"Why he replied, 'I just think of you and say, 'Satan, go away back and sit down.'"

"Bobby," said his mother, "sit up straight and don't tuck your napkin under your chin. I've told you a hundred times."

"There," exploded Tommy, "you've made me lose the count! I don't know now whether it's 206 or 205 times I've chewed this claim!"

"Johnnie," said the Sunday school teacher, "who is it that keeps a watchful eye upon us all the time, who tells us what we should do, who cautions and punishes us when we do wrong, who knows everything?"

"Roosevelt," promptly answered the bright lad.

White House Soon to Have a Supply of Real Fresh Milk

Holstein Cow from the Herd of Senator Stephenson is Going to the Presidential Stables.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin, has informed President Taft that the new presidential cow which will furnish milk for the White house will soon be in this city. The new cow will take the place of the late lamented "Auley," and her name is Pauline. Pauline is a purebred Holstein. She is worth $1,000 on the hoof and is one of the finest products of Senator Stephenson's stock farm at Kenosha, Wis. She is a full-blooded Holstein.

"President Taft will find Pauline a bovine aristocrat," said Senator Stephenson. "She is one of the best bred cows in my herd and she is satisfactory for all purposes. She is fit for any position open to cows in the government service."

For some time back the question, "Have animals a sense of humor?" has been under discussion by a group of men of an inquiring bent of mind. The members of the group decline to make their names public until they have something in the way of results to show. Even then they say, they may let the results speak for themselves without disclosing the identities of the investigators. Meantime they have been forming theories based on their combined experiences. One of the most enthusiastic members of this coterie said last week that he believed the positive side of the proposition to be pretty well proven by monkeys first and then they would not care to be politicians. Many women know as little of this question as I.

BRATTLE OF THE YOUNGSTERS.

"Bobby—Mamma, my stomach says it is dinner time. Mamma—What does the clock say? Bobby (after looking at the clock)—It says my stomach's five minutes fast."

"Tommy," queried the teacher, "can you tell me what an old settler is sometimes called?"

"Yes, ma'am, a pioneer," was the reply. "For I've heard the teacher say to another small pupil, 'what is a pioneer?'"

"An old man who pays his debts."

The family next door had a new dog, and small Ethel was admiring it. "Be careful," said the woman of the house, "that dog is a mongrel, what is a mongrel?"

"Because he doesn't know you."

"Well," queried the little miss, "why don't you introduce us?"

ONE ACRE SUPPORTS THREE

Real Intensive Farming, Spurred by Mother Necessity in the Orient.

A humble-minded pilgrim by an expert was the Wisconsin Agricultural College to study why their soils could support three persons to the acre. Western scientific agriculturists have much to learn from those farmers who have made the most of their land in the forty centuries of service to man.

The average farm is supporting three persons to the acre and in nearly all parts of the densely populated sections, two, three, and sometimes four crops are taken from the same field each year.

But this is not the only cause of their longer growing season. The almost universal practice of planting nearly all crops in rows and in hills in the row permits one crop to be planted, germinated and often hoed before another crop has been removed from the field, thus utilizing for growth all of the time we consume in removing the harvest and in fitting the ground for the next crop. Then there is the other very extensive practice of starting crops in nurseries under conditions of intense fertilization, securing on a much smaller area rapid growth and strong plants, which are then transferred to the fields. In this manner even the vast areas covered by the staple rice crop are handled, the plants being grown thirty or more days in small beds, raising thereby thirty to fifty days, during which another crop on the same field is matured, harvested, and the ground fitted for the one to follow.

Human labor is the one asset of which they have an excess, and it is freely used in securing the effect of longer seasons, which, because of their geographical position, exceed ours. In southern China two crops of rice are regularly taken, and the rice is true even in parts of Japan. In the Chekiang province a crop of rape, of wheat, of beans, or of green manure precedes the summer crop of rice or of cotton. In the Shantung province a crop of winter wheat or of barley is followed in the summer with a crop of millet and soy beans, of sweet potatoes, or peanuts. As far north as Tientsin and Peking, in the latitude of Columbus, O., Indiana and Springfield, Ill., Mr. King talked with a farmer who followed his crop of wheat with one of onions and these with cabbage the same year, realizing a gross earning of $162 each acre. Another farmer planted a crop of Irish potatoes at the earliest opportunity in the spring, marketing them young, and followed with onions and then with cabbage, realizing $203 per acre for the three crops.

COUNTY ROADS TO BE OILED

Experiment to Be Made by Commissioners on Several Stretches of Roads.

The first oiled roads in Douglas county to be constructed in accordance with the methods advised by the Standard Oil company and supervised by their specialist on roads, are to be built in West Lawn cemetery under the supervision of E. M. Curtis, who has made a study of the oiling of roads.

Oiled roads have been used extensively in the parks and boulevards around Kansas City and have given the utmost satisfaction. They are said to shed water and guaranteed free from dust.

In order to show the people of Omaha how much more comfortable and free from annoyance of dust an oiled road is, the management of West Lawn cemetery will oil one-half a mile or more of West Center street, extending from Fifty-sixth street to Sixtieth street. The county commissioners have been persuaded by the owners of country homes along the high bluffs north of Florence, to make an experimental test with oiled roads along the river road from the water works to the Ponca creek, and as soon as the work has been finished at West Lawn cemetery, the oiling of this beautiful drive along the river north of Florence will be started. The road has already been graded and only needs to be rolled and oiled under the direction of the expert.
