The selling last week served to bring you to a full realization of the importance of this sale as a public benefit. The crowds came because the bargains offered merited it. But we didn't "put all our eggs in one basket." Some delayed shipments and some lines that were crowded out for lack of adequate display space had to remain unannounced for the week's selling. We consider them the best lots from the entire Hundley stock purchase. We play our trump cards tomorrow. We believe you are a true economist and enjoy turning an honest dollar to your own profit. It's purely a personal proposition. You gain or lose just in proportion to extent which you participate in the offering.
