BIG PROBLEM NEAR AT HAND

Judge Grosscup Says Supreme Test of Popular Government is Coming.

NEXT ISSUE IS ECONOMICS

Products of Soil Have Been Large Enough to Overcome the Effect of Economic and Political Blunders.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., June 9.—In the course of a commencement address at Augustana College and Theological Seminary, today, Judge Grosscup, of Chicago, said: "We have not reached here in America, the supreme test of whether government of the people, by the people, can endure. We have not yet been put to the test of dealing with great economic questions at the cost of distinct disaster in case they are wrongly dealt with."

"This solving of our problem by spiral stairway will be a very increase of expenses bringing on increase of prices and wages; every increase of prices and wages bringing us back to increased expenses; the entire movement in circles, at each turn a little higher up than we were before."

"The injured who are believed to be dying, are Thomas A. Cougan, brakeman, and T. J. Wiggins, postal clerk. The wreck was caused by the engine jumping the track while going around a curve."

Intellectual Honesty Needed.

"The one force in this universe, without which the rest cannot be successfully met—the one force, more than anything else, that as a nation we must acquire before we are equipped to successfully meet the complex problems before us is what I may call the spirit of intellectual honesty; the spirit that hears before it decides; the spirit that yields itself to genuine confession; the spirit that is not played upon by the total self-interest that so often makes up the atmosphere through which we look at the interest of others; above all, the spirit that will hold our leaders of public opinion accountable, as men who give out the money coin of the country are held accountable, that thoughtless men on public questions contains nothing in it that is not the real thought of the mind behind it; that spirit that will, in the interest of political or personal expediency, tolerate the passing of counterfeit opinion."

Raymond Hardy at Parents' Bier

Young Man, Accused of Murder, Attends Funeral of Family Under Heavy Guard.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., June 9.—(Special Telegram.)—At the little white farm house where the triple Hardy murder was committed Sunday on the day which was to have been his wedding day, Raymond Hardy, the youngest and only surviving member of the family, who is held in jail strongly suspected of being the slayer of his parents and younger brother, today was taken under heavy guard to the old home to attend the triple funeral.

The surprise of the election is the majority rolled up by Judge Prouty, "progressive" over Congressman Hull. Prouty carried every county in the district, his unofficial majority being 3,106. Even the most sanguine "progressive" had hoped for little better than a small margin. Two years ago Hull was nominated by forty votes over Prouty.

Police Fund Declared in First Class Shape

Over Sixteen Thousand Dollars Now on Hand—Officers Re-Elected—Four on Pension List.

The annual meeting of the Omaha Metropolitan Police Relief and Pension association was held yesterday under the presidency of Captain Mestyn. All the officers were re-elected as follows, this action of the members being, as one of them said, to show their recognition of their faithful services to the association during the last year: President, Captain P. Mestyn; vice president, Captain H. W. Dunn; secretary, Detective Andrew Pattullo; treasurer, Frank A. Furry, city treasurer.

The financial statement showed that the fund is in a very satisfactory condition. The association started the year with $1,977.10, a balance remaining over from the old association, and during the year $14,099 was received from all sources.

The disbursements from July 2, 1909 until June 1, 1910 amounted to $2,204, leaving $14,893.10 as the present state of the fund. The increments are principally the assessments on the members. In addition there are the monies received from forfeited bonds, the sale of unclaimed property, and all rewards. There are now four pensioners on the fund and each one gets $40 per month. To be eligible for a pension a policeman must be 50 years of age and must have served twenty years on the force.

At the Theaters

"The Stranger" at the Brandeis. Jacob P. Adler and company in a drama composed of a prologue and three acts, by Jacob Gordin, the cast: Haptele Herz Levin, Mr. Jacob P. Adler, Pinie Staradub, Mrs. Schoengold Blise, his wife, Mrs. Sarah Adler, Benny, their child, Mr. Grossberg, Lily, their child, Miss Frances Adler, Kalman Molish, Mr. Tornberg, Reb Aaron, a rabbi, Mr. Hochstein, A. Aaron, Miss Ida Kessler. A drunken man threw one day into the home of Haptele Herz Levin and, being troublesome, provoked a fight. Levin, in a gust of anger, threw a heavy iron bar at him. The drunken man died. Levin was tried, convicted of murder and sent to Siberia for life.

In Levin's home had lived a young man, Pinie Staradub by name, who had been a close friend of the imprisoned man and his wife. With Levin in jail, the younger man soon found himself in love with Mrs. Levin. He waited eight years, but a rumor that Levin had died in the mines, and he waited the widow.

She demurred, she consulted the rabbi, who declared the wedding might not take place unless definite word came of Levin's death. Mrs. Levin's father proposed that they all emigrate to the Argentine or America, and take new names and lead lives with the young people marrying. Mrs. Levin insisted on waiting a year. Then she gave in and in the second act is discovered happily married to Staradub, now a prosperous lawyer in New York. Enters Levin.

Although versions of Enoch Arden have been fairly numerous on stage and in real life, the situation really is one of the most moving which can exist. It is not new, but with the characters entrusted to actors of ability spectators in whom sympathy is not dead will be deeply moved. So, such spectators were moved last night by Mr. Adler and his associates. Old Levin, worn by years in prison, unrecognized and almost unrecognizable, bids silent farewell to his children, now grown to young man and womanhood, and seeks a lonely and a silent death. In the closing of his story, Mr. Gordin has departed from the poetic original. He brings the wife to her real husband's bedside and permits her to recognize him. For an agonized moment the two are united before death comes.

Mr. Adler will be seen this evening in "The Wild Man," a comedy also from Gordin's pen.
