Making Deposits.

Under the terms of the postal savings bill passed by the house tonight a board of trustees is created, consisting of the postmaster general, the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general, who shall declare what postoffices shall become postal savings banks. Deposits in these banks made by any one person shall not be more than $100 a month or exceed in total of $500. An account may be opened with $1, but stamps of 10 cents each will be issued for those desiring to accumulate money to be deposited. On deposits 2 per cent interest per annum is to be paid.

Any depositor so desiring can exchange his deposits for government bonds to be assued in denominations of $20, $40, $60, $80, $100 or $500, to bear interest at 2% per cent

The money accumulated in the postal savings bank is to be deposited in both deposited by the people, such banks to pay son." 8% per cent interest.

The Cash Reserve. Five per cent of the total deposits is to be retained by the secretary of the treasury as a cash reserve. Not more than 10 per cent of these deposits may be withdrawn by the government at any one time for investment of bonds of the United States, the remaining 65 per cent to remain or deposit in the banks.

The banks are required to give as security for the deposits received "public bonds or other securities supported by the taxing power," which restricts such securities to some form of national, state, municipal or other such bonds approved by the board of trustees in charge of the postal savings banks.

The bill passed by the house as a substitute for the senate bill differs from the senate measure in many particulars, chiefly in respect to the nature of securities that may be given by banks for the deposits of postal savings funds received by them. In addition to government, state and municipal bonds, various other classes of securities, such as mortgages, etc., may be received.
