combined to depress quotations. Even more forceful in this respect was the dis-covery that the edge seemed to be coming off the cash wheat market. Mills have been generous buyers lately, and were said to be well stocked up. According to one authority, new wheat was liable to strike a poor demand. Furthermore, the week's exports showed a big shrinkage, compared with the previous five days. There were predictions too, that harvesting in lillnois and Missouri would begin by June 20.
