Here's Shapeliness and Comfort in Inexpensive Corsets
We shall have two excellent models on the tables tomorrow. In every way these corsets are superior to any others we have seen at the same price. There are medium and high bust styles with long skirted effects, confining the hips to produce a subtle slenderness and particularly well adapted to the average figure. There's a shirring string at the bust line and four extra heavy supporters shown in batiste and coutil, prettily trimmed with lace. No corsets we know of at so low a price gives the amount of grace, comfort and real service as these.

Stoetzel Stove Co.

714 South Sixteenth Street
We Sell on Small Monthly Payments or a Cut Price for Cash.

Mr. Pray, the gent's furnisher, says looking for a cast-iron gas stove. She said she had a sheet iron stove that did not bake pastry good and thought a cast stove would do better. A few hours later Mrs. Adams, Sr., 1522 N. 15th, called with a big smile—saying that she was pleased about something. This is what she said: "I am delighted with my Detroit Ideal. It is a finer baker than my sheet range. It bakes cookies or any kind of pastry or anything else simply beautifully. My other gas stove would not bake pastry. It was extravagant in gas and only lasted six years. The Detroit Ideal takes much less gas and I know it will last longer, because it weighs nearly three times as much. It is easy to believe that it is in a class by itself."
