CALDWELL TALKS OF DELAY

Puts Blame for Slow Work at Court House on Quarries.

SAYS STRIKE CAUSES TROUBLE

County Commissioners and Architect Latenser Show They Are Peeved at the Way the Work is Dragging.
Contractor Caldwell of the firm of Caldwell & Drake, was the star actor in a lively playlet produced Saturday morning by the Board of County Commissioners. The contractor was called upon to explain to the members of the board, for the benefit of Douglas county taxpayers, why work on the new court house is not proceeding with more business-like rapidity. Mr. Caldwell explained that owing to a strike at the Bedford quarries, his men could not get more than one-third of the amount necessary to carry on the work as fast as should be done. Eight cars had been received in six days, while the workmen are able to handle two cars a day.

Child Thought Killed is Found

Little Minnie Margolin is Discovered Asleep Under Bridge After Long Search.
Foul murder was suspected, and the police searched the Third ward district Friday night and Saturday morning until Policeman Dan Lahey finally discovered little Minnie Margolin asleep under the Union Pacific railroad bridge. The child had been reported lost, kidnaped or murdered. Her parents reported Friday night they had heard that a man took the little girl from her playmates on the street, and had set out to buy her candy. When Policeman Lahey found the little girl, she was sleeping peacefully on a pile of lumber. Upon being awakened, she said her strange friend of the night before had bought her a lot of candy and soda water and then had disappeared. The police think the man was drunk. The Margolins live at 111 North Twelfth street.

REFUNDS FOR LUMBER MEN

Large Sums Must Be Paid Back by the Railroads.
EXCESS FOR OVER TWO YEARS
That This Sum Will Amount to Considerable is Shown by the Reports of the Railroads Interested.
Omaha lumbermen's rejoicing over the decision in the lumber rate case is not merely joy over a moral victory or the prospect of fair rates in future. It is partly due to that satisfaction which comes from receipt of large sums of money which had not been altogether expected.

Blind Men Fight for Street Corner

Two Mendicants Engage in Wild Fight at Douglas and Fourteenth Street.
Grooping blindly in the darkness, with the desire to master each other through touch, two blind men fought a battle at Fourteenth and Douglas streets Friday night to decide who had the right to work the corner. John Saunders, a shoeing peddler, who has occupied a position at Fourteenth and Douglas street, groped his way up Fourteenth from the south at 8 o'clock Friday and sought his stand before a lamp post and a post that supports his accustomed place. When he reached his accustomed place he found that another was in possession. He made inquiries and found that the usurper was another blind man who was selling pencils. An argument as to who was the possessor of the stand arose, and before any one could prevent them the two blind men fell to blows. Swinging their arms in the darkness they attempted to land on each others' anatomy, but chance played a part, and they failed to do any serious damage. The man who had taken the place of Saunders is supposed to be William Christian.
