McCAGUE BUILDING BOUGHT

Local Investment Company Buys Its Quarters from Boston Firm. LOAN INTEREST BEHIND DEAL Property at Fifteenth and Dodge Passes from Midland Realty Company to McCague for Something Over $250,000. The McCague building on the northwest corner of Fifteenth and Dodge streets has changed hands, having been sold to the McCague Investment company by the Midland Realty company of Boston at a price said to be something in excess of $250,000. The McCague company and D. V. Sholes conducted the transaction together and are supposed to have been acting for the Omaha Loan and Building association, now located at Sixteenth and Douglas streets. The Boston end of the transaction was conducted by Thomas H. McCague, who has just returned from there, where, after two weeks' negotiations he succeeded in closing the deal by making a large cash payment. The McCague building was built in 1890 and cost, at that time, about $170,000. The lot today is valued at about $100,000. The building was constructed for banking purposes. The banking room contains a large vault which cost $11,000. The building is six stories and is what is called slow burning fire construction, all the partitions in the office rooms being fire tile instead of frame. Neither Mr. McCague or Mr. Sholes would disclose the purchase price at this time, the deal not being finally consummated until the latter part of July. They indicated, however, that the property was purchased at an exceptional bargain. The new Union Pacific headquarters to be built at a cost of $1,200,000 is just across Fifteenth street from the McCague building.

Plans for Fine Pompeian Room Are Completed

Splendid Show Place to Be Built Underground Between Brandeis Buildings. Plans for a splendid underground connecting link between the Brandeis theater and store buildings were approved Monday. The connecting link, gorgeous with all the appointments of comfort and splendor, is to be known as the Pompeian room. These plans call for the expenditure in decoration alone of $15,000. The room when completed will be a surprise and revelation to Omaha, for its dimensions alone will make it impressive. The Pompeian room will be 180 feet long by 70 feet wide and of considerable height, a mezzanine floor being contemplated. Large public lavatories will be installed at one side and a smoking room for men is to be included. The electric fountain, which is to be installed in the west end of the room, will be one of the largest in the west. F. W. Whitton, vice president of the Thompson-Stratton company, which has the contract for the Pompeian room, left for Chicago Monday, declaring that "the Pompeian room will be easily the show place of Omaha. The architect's plans assure this." It is expected the room will be completed September 15.

Bryan Petitions Are Numerous

Reagan Returns from Trip in the State and Sees Many Being Circulated. Chairman John E. Reagan of the Douglas county democratic committee has returned from a week spent on legal business at Seward, York and Grand Island. He said he found sentiment for Dahman is growing. "At York I met a man who is in charge of the circulation of Bryan petitions in that judicial district," said Mr. Reagan. "He insisted they are going to make Mr. Bryan run for the senate, and I am convinced the result of the petitions in circulation will be to put Bryan in the senatorial race. It is incomprehensible to me that these petitions should be in circulation, with at least the tacit consent of Mr. Bryan's brother and manager unless an understanding of some sort existed with Bryan himself before his departure for Europe. On his return he will be presented with a stack of petitions as high as a table, with 25,000 or more names on them, maybe 50,000, since I understand republicans are not barred from signing if they are Bryan men. In my judgment, those petitions, presented in that way, will settle Mr. Bryan's candidacy. It does not seem possible he will turn them down."

Extorts Money from a Cripple

Such Was Charge Against Man Who Got Sentence of Ninety Days in Jail. Under a charge of having extorted a living from a crippled woman who earned money by begging, Edward Craig was sentenced to ninety days in jail by Judge Crawford Monday morning. Craig was arrested Sunday, together with Marie Elmore, a cripple, who told the police she had supported the man in Omaha as well as in several other towns for three or four years. When the two were arraigned, the woman attempted to deny her first charge against the man, and he declared he had never seen her before. The woman was ordered held until she would promise to go to her home in Illinois. New Power House to Be Skyscraper

Although but One Story, it Will Be Reared Hundred Feet in the Air. Plans were placed in the hands of contractors Monday for work on "the skyscraper by the river," as the new power house of the street railway company has been called. This building, which will cost $200,000, is to rise 100 feet above the ground, and will be the tallest one-story building in Omaha. Structural steel workers are already busy elevating the framework and the bids to be opened a week hence will be for brick and masonry work, concrete flooring and so forth. The street railway company is busy with other improvements also. Work will begin in a few days on the two miles of track to be laid on the Elmwood park extension. It is declared that service on this line will begin about the first of August. Digging a sewer and the building of a retaining wall by Creighton university have held back work on the North Twenty-fourth street cut-off, but this will not now be long in completion. Meantime, work is being ended on the new $100,000 car house of the company at Tenth and Pierce streets. This building, which will be done in a few days will be the most modern and up-to-date car house in the west. It is announced that shower baths for the use of the employes will be installed and likewise a reading room and a pool and billiard room.

Jacob H. Schiff Sleeps in Omaha

Leading Financier Enjoys the Breezes from the Corn Fields of Nebraska. Jacob H. Schiff, the New York banker who gave $50,000 in 1907 to erect a Hebrew sheltering home in New York City, director of the Union Pacific and leading financier, passed through Omaha early Monday morning while enroute from New York to Yellowstone park. He arrived here at 4:30 in Pullman private car, "Constitution," and slept peacefully during his stay in Omaha, leaving at 6:55. Shortly before the special train left A. L. Mohler, vice president of the Union Pacific, and W. R. Cahill, division superintendent, in Mr. Mohler's private car, joined the Schiff party and were eating breakfast when the train pulled out of Omaha. Mr. Schiff was sleeping, at least, he hadn't put in his appearance, but when he wakes up he will be greeted by Mr. Mohler and Mr. Cahill, who will accompany him to Granger, Wyo.

Omaha Ministers Commend Gillett

In Resolution They Say He is Acting Right in Stopping the Prize Fight. At a meeting of the Omaha Ministerial union held at the Young Men's Christian association building Monday morning, Governor Gillett of California was commended for his action in stopping the fight that was to be held in that state July 4. Following is the resolution: "Resolved that the secretary of the Ministerial union of Omaha be instructed to convey to his excellency, Governor Gillett of California, our appreciation of his heroic position in the enforcement of the law in the face of powerful interests insisting upon its violation, in the proposed prize fight in California. We believe that his courage and fidelity will exercise an influence for good over the entire land, and we congratulate the governor upon his decision to discharge his constitutional obligations, notwithstanding such powerful opposition." The meeting of the ministers of the city was the last that will be held until September.

Horse Tears Off Driver's Jumpers

Charles Wilson Pulls at Bridle and is Climbed Upon by Big Animal. While Charles Wilson, a teamster, was attempting to pull his team into a start up the hill at Sixteenth and Farnam streets, one of the horses proceeded to climb up the front of the driver, Monday morning. With hoofs pawing the air, the animal managed to get both feet thrust into the upper part of Wilson's overalls, while the latter held on to the bridle. The result, in an instant, was that the driver's overalls were torn completely from him, by the weight of the horse, and a barrel was needed to cover the driver. Traffic Officer Bill Wilson helped the hapless driver readjust his tattered garment and the latter was able to depart. Wilson is a driver for C. L. McClaugh & Son. His wagon was loaded with radiators on the unfortunate trip. He was brought to a dead stop at the foot of the hill, owing to the weight of the load, and the driver was forced to get out and yank at the bridles, when the accident occurred.

Father Neglects His 17 Children

Juvenile Court is Now Looking for a Home for the Younger One. Julius Lehr of Thirty-second and E streets, South Omaha, is charged by the juvenile court with having neglected his children, seventeen in number, and they have fallen upon the court for disposition. This is the second time members of the Lehr family have been before the juvenile court officer. Two years ago two daughters walked in from South Omaha during a heavy rain, and reported that their father had refused to properly provide for them. The court will try to find homes for the younger children.

To Kearney for Carrying Revolver

Youth Who Totes Arsenal is Sent to the Reform School. Joe Teashack was ordered to the Kearney reform school by the juvenile court Monday morning, charged with creating a disturbance and traveling about armed with a loaded revolver. Harry Corcoran, brought into court with Teashack on the same charge, was not passed upon, as his case will be held over until his father can leave the hospital. The boys were in trouble near Fremont a short time ago.

FEW BRICK IN SIGHT TO MEET THE SPECIFICATION

City Engineer Craig Returns from Galesburg, Where He Finds Few Being Made. Prospects are not bright for the completion of much new brick pavement in Omaha this year. City Engineer Craig, on his return from Galesburg this morning, said the Burlington yards are not putting out any great quantity of brick. "Much of the brick on hand in the yards does not come up to the Omaha specifications," said Mr. Craig, "and would not be accepted by this department. Very little new brick is being turned out, so far as I could see, because of the strike that has been on at the Burlington yards for several months. It is not a question of wages, apparently, but of open or closed shop, and the proprietors are unquestionably having difficulty in getting the men needed to run their yards at anything like capacity. "The saluting state of things makes it sure that we will not permit the opening of any more streets at this time, at least not in the downtown districts."

MAYOR AND GOVERNOR ON THE SAME PLATFORM

Both Will Speak at Lexington Tuesday Evening—Dahlman Tours the State. Mayor Dahlman goes to Lexington Tuesday, where he will orate at a banquet that evening. Governor Shallenberger is also on the list of speakers, and since the two candidates have not yet got to the point where they represent definite ideas, some strongly antagonistic, it is suspected their utterances will be significant of what their future bearing toward each other will be in the primary campaign. The mayor has kept the soft pedal on, to a degree, so far; but his adherents are looking for him to let the loud noise out soon. The mayor and governor will come together again on June 23 at Columbus, when the organization of the state-wide democratic club is to be perfected. Beginning with the Lexington meeting, the mayor will have a bunch of Omaha friends with him at all meetings, to offset the work of Shallenberger's appointees, who show up numerously at all democratic gatherings. July 2, the mayor will speak at a celebration at Greta, arranged by the German societies of that vicinity. On the fourth of July he will speak at Beatrice, Plymouth and Wymore. From the latter town, where railroad men largely predominate, he has received a big blue badge, bearing the words, "Me for Jim Dahlman." Immediately after the fourth of July, the mayor will start on his automobile tour of the state. He will first make a sortie into Otoe and adjoining counties, and later will shoot his machine through districts where he is not as well acquainted as he would like to be.

GIVES BIG ORDER FOR RAILROAD

Then Samuel Bastina Walks Away with Loot—Gets Thirty Days. Samuel Bastina, who stated he was employed as cook with a section gang on the Union Pacific near the city, was arrested by Detectives Ring and Murphy Monday on a charge of stealing. The man is alleged to have given an order for $27 worth of provisions for the camp to Jacob Schwartz, a merchant at 1314 Webster street, and to have departed with loot under his coat after giving the order. Complaints have been received from other merchants to the same effect. He was given thirty days when brought before Judge Crawford Monday morning.
