

FICTION THE BEE'S HOME MAGAZINE PAGE HUMOR

SIDELIGHTS ALONG WASHINGTON BYWAYS

There is nothing in Washington like a Bourne dinner... The Bourne dinner is the sensation of the hour...

But these are not passed around to the regular members... When Senator "Bob" LaFollette was a student at the University of Wisconsin...

Well, after he graduated from the university, he went to a leading Shakespearean actor... "I am going to be an actor," LaFollette said to him...

So this actor took the young politician under his care... He studied him diligently for several weeks...

you carefully, as I agreed... "There have rejected another statue of Commodore Barry, I see," observed Friend W.D.

The Spreading Chestnut Tree

An automobile came whizzing through a small town and howled over a prominent resident... "How about yourself?" suggested an acquaintance who happened to be at the scene.

"You are about ten inches taller than Edith," said the sister... "We were waiting for the elevator to come down," said a commercial traveler...

Dyspeptic Philosophy.

Blessed is the peace-maker, especially in the eyes of the fellow who is getting the worst of the fight... When a man is introduced to a lady she does not shake hands with him unless he is distinguished or a great deal older than herself...

WHAT'S THE USE

Copyright, 1910, by the New York Evening Telegram (New York Herald Co.). All Rights Reserved.

The Tired Business Man Tells Friend Wife That Embalming a Hero in a Statue is a Hard Finish.

BY WALTER A. SINCLAIR. "There have rejected another statue of Commodore Barry, I see," observed Friend W.D. "On statutory grounds, I suppose," said the Tired Business Man.

Items of Interest to the Women Folk

Motor bonnets can be ordered to match auto ensembles if money is no consideration... The pattern selected for the coat should be in loose model allowing plenty of room and giving protection to the gown worn beneath...

Things You Want to Know Commercial Photography.

One of the features of the annual convention of the Photographers' Association of America, soon to be held in Milwaukee, will be an exhibition of all the best photographic work produced in the United States during the past year.

It has been claimed by commercial photographers that the possibilities of their business are much interfered with by the rise of amateur photography. In consequence, the photographers have been making efforts to put an end to the competition of the amateur.

Commercial photographers find many ways of drumming up business. One of them sends out a booklet in which he advises women how to dress and how to pose. He advises them to wear very plain clothes, preferably white material and new dresses, as he says dresses of this character never go out of style.

It is said that there are more than 2000 professional photographers in the United States today. An interesting sidelight on the extensive business done by the makers of photographic apparatus and material is shown by the fact that one corporation alone enjoyed net earnings last year amounting to nearly $2,000,000.

Stories About Children.

One day small Margie was standing at the window, when it began to hail. "Oh, look, mamma!" she exclaimed. "It's raining pills!"

Pointed Paragraphs.

"So Jones was arrested for breaking up a suffragette meeting? Did they take him to the police station?" "No—the hospital."

