

Nebraska Junior Normal Closes this Week Out at Alliance

Graduation Exercises Will Be Held at Phelan Opera House Next Thursday Evening.

ALLIANCE, Neb., July 26.—(Special Telegram.)—The Nebraska Junior State Normal school, in session during the summer months in the Alliance High school, will close this week.

This school is under the control of the state Board of Education and the members of the faculty are appointed by that body. This school is the largest of its kind in the state, and is held in this city upon condition that the city furnish the building, books, etc. All work needed for the certificates and also for professional life certificates is done here.

In addition to this work is a model school in which teachers are trained. The attendance has been 100 enrollments. Special facilities were this year given to students, such as a dining hall under the auspices of the Board of Education, where students could board at a price which barely paid expenses, which came to about $2.00 per week.

The graduation exercises will be held in the Phelan opera house on Thursday evening on which occasion Superintendent E. F. Wilson of Chadron will deliver an address. This faculty is composed as follows:

- Prof. W. R. Tate, Principal.
- Prof. Charles Phillips, Lincoln High school, Science and Physics.
- Superintendent E. F. Wilson of Chadron, History and Civics.
- Superintendent I. G. Wilson of Albion, Neb., Mathematics.
- Miss C. M. Chase of Chadron Model Intermediate grade.
- Miss E. Frasier of Alliance Primary Department Model school.
- Prof. W. H. Gardner of Lincoln, Agriculture.

During Institute week several men and women of prominence in educational circles were here taking part in the program. Among whom were Prof. C. A. Palmer, now acting Chancellor of Wesleyan university who did special institute work; and Miss Myrtle Kaufman of the state university did splendid work in domestic science.

It is worthy of comment that this year the requirements were just about a third more stringent than hitherto, in consequence of which there are fewer graduates than usual.

Until this year the requirements were two years high school work, plus twenty-four weeks attendance at the Junior normal.

This year however requirements have been set at three years' high school work plus the twenty-four weeks at the normal. This ruling has heretofore put back several students who would otherwise have been graduated this year as follows:

The graduation class is Helen Kratoch, Victoria Sims, Verda Wisnes, Jennie Oldershaw, Nellie Nation, Gertrude Converse.

Nebraska Stolen Motor Car Found in Field

Farmer Discovers it Near Stella, But Thief Steals Rig and Makes His Escape.

STELLA, Neb., July 26.—(Special Telegram.)—W. H. Wheeler's new touring car, stolen from his barn last Thursday night, was found at 6 o'clock last evening in a corn field owned by Arthur McGinnis, four miles from Stella. McGinnis was cutting weeds and was attracted by a white object, and, as he approached, found it to be an open newspaper, and then found an automobile, whose presence was shielded by being covered over by freshly cut corn stalks. McGinnis was then within thirty feet of the machine in which he believed he saw a man sleeping. He went to the house to telephone to town, and then returned to the field and within a short distance from the machine saw a man working about it. Not knowing how many might be in the stolen car, he went into the road to meet the party coming from town, and the noise on the road frightened the man and he made his escape before they reached the car in the field.

Sheriff Fenton was telephoned and reached here within half an hour, roads were watched and the corn field searched, but no man was found. This morning a horse and buggy belonging to William F. Stoltz, a farmer, residing less than a mile from where the automobile was found, were missing, having been stolen by the thief.

All day the sheriff and a posse have been in search tracking the team as far as the Ewing farm near Verdon, where the trail was lost. The sheriff and a posse had worked steadily on the trail of the automobile, which was not worth $1,500, but it was found merely by accident.

A young man was employed to run the store for two days, until the return of the Forsters. When they failed to return at the time agreed upon, he locked up the store. Entertain Bird Men

The camaraderie which obtains between masters of the sea, the masters of sailing craft and ocean liners having more in common than any mere landlubber can understand, obtains also, apparently between masters of the air, captains of the fleet and daring ships, and commanders of Uncle Sam's air fleet, the dirigible balloon. At least Glenn Curtiss, eminent sailing master and aeronaut authority, and his lieutenant, John McCurdy, were today guests of the air craft, captains of the balloon maneuvers, Lieutenant W. N. Haskell. The bird men went out to the post this morning to inspect the balloon house and discuss aeronautics with the military devotees of Fort Omaha.

Mr. Curtiss and Mr. McCurdy were guests at luncheon today at the hospitable quarters of Lieutenant and Mrs. W. N. Haskell at the post.

Farm Life Attracts

A number of young women will forsake society this week for a brief respite in the country. With visions of cool, shady nooks and savory, chicken dinners, these young women are patiently waiting for the threshers to leave the farm which they plan to visit and secretly hoping that the farm hands will not have been so generous as to feed and supply of spring chickens thereby exhausted.

The young women plan to motor to the Wolcott farm near Elk City, and those who will leave Thursday will be Miss Louise Dinning, Miss Elizabeth Stephens and Miss Gladys Peifer. They will be held a few days by Miss Alice Cary McGrew and her guest, Miss Katherine Wright of Buffalo, N. Y.

Fashion Favors

Heavy embroidery is used on linens. Whole petticoats of ribbons threaded net for party wear. Burlap suiting is one of the fashionable new fabrics of the season.

Much lace and even millines are seen on some of the latest silk petticoats. Tiny bows of narrow black velvet ribbon adorn many of the blouses of lingerie. The newest belt of Persian cloth have patent leather buckles and trimming.

Square yells now have embroidered borders. Evening gowns are simple. They show the influence of the peasant style. Instead of being on splendid lines with gorgeous ornamentation they are unusually simple.

An effective Leghorn hat has a crown of yellow roses and a cluster of the same flowers under the left brim. Many tunics are seen. They are not short, as they were last year, but they drop well down to the hem, or at least over the knees. They are of chiffon or mousseline.

Girls Who Grieve

She is far more unbecomingly than formerly, but alas, she still exists. You frequently find her among the "country cousins" who invade the cities during the sunny days of early June, and, although you know that the discordant cackle that greets you every other moment is more often than not the result of nervousness, you are tempted to wish her, should she be a connection of your own, back in her native wilds, says Home Notes. Town girls offend in this manner, too, but not so often. Frequent contact with other people has taught them to recognize signaling as a sign of ill breeding, and they are quick witted enough to check the tendency if they discover it themselves. There is nothing more pleasant to listen to than a musical peal of natural laughter, but a forced laugh is never natural and repels instead of attracting.
