Stupendous Sale of Black Cleola Silks

40,000 yards of the World's Best Black Silks on Sale Monday at 1/2 to 3/4 their real value. Every yard guaranteed. Sale begins Monday morning at 9 o'clock sharp. NOT A YARD SOLD BEFORE THEN. Monday morning ushers in one of the greatest silk sales in our history. Several weeks ago when our buyers were in the eastern markets they went direct to the Cleola silk mills and contracted with these famous silk makers for their entire supply of odd pieces, sample lots, canceled orders and discontinued numbers. This fortunate deal enabled us to put forward this great sale. But of as much importance as the price is the high character of these silks. They are known for enduring service, rich, brilliancy and exquisitely draping qualities. We give written guarantee for satisfactory wear, covering most of these silks.

ACTIVITY IN MISSION WORK

Far East is Scene of Particular Energy.

MUCH ATTENTION IS ATTRACTED

Chinese Are Mindful of Their Weakness in Dealing with Old Nations—Some Queer Ideas of America.

BY D. V. FRANCIS.

NEW YORK, July 30.—(Special Dispatch to The Bee.)—No phase of the religious movement of the world is of more lively interest just now than the missionary work being done all over the world, more especially in the far east.

Since the Protestant churches took up the work of the evangelization of the world there has never perhaps been a time when foreign missions have engaged so large a share of the attention of the churches.

Among the delegates to the recent world's missionary conference at Edinburgh was Bishop Herbert Roots of the missionary diocese of Hankow, China. Bishop Roots, who has been stationed in China for fourteen years, is now here and will remain in this country for several months to attend the general convention of Protestant Episcopal missions to be held in Cincinnati in the latter part of October.

In speaking of present conditions in China Bishop Roots said that in his opinion the evidences of resentment in China against the foreign invader are due to the growth of a national and patriotic spirit.

"The Chinese realize their weakness when it comes to negotiating with foreign nations," said he, "and for this reason they view the foreign invasion with suspicion.

No War Against Foreigners.

"The recent trouble in Chongking, the capital of Hunan province, was not caused by resentment against foreigners. Famine conditions formed the primary reason and a second cause was industrial trouble among native builders. Some outside builders came to construct houses at Chongking and the local men didn't like the idea.

and is having the rulings of the late China

Chi Tung reprinted and is reading them out. Yuan Shih kai is undoubtedly the strongest statesman in China today, although not in good political standing just now.

"Despite many unfortunate drawbacks China is developing rapidly and the natives are displaying a fairly good spirit toward Christian missionaries."

Bishop Roots left Hankow on May 20, bound for the conference and seventeen days later was in London. This trip, which included a stop of two days at Peking and one day at Moscow, he believes to be pretty near a record.

By a striking coincidence, while the British Parliament was looking for the first time at the coronation declaration in its new form, the Roman Catholics were consecrating, with imposing ceremony, the first cathedral that they have had in London since the reformation. Fanatics may see in this function a dire portent, but the vast mass of English people behold it unmoved, and the majority can even bring themselves to extend a kindly sympathy to the great efforts and sacrifices by which their Romanist fellow subjects have brought this great work to its conclusion.

The "no-pope" spirit, by which England was dominated—not without reason—for 200 years after the reformation, has died out with the causes from which it sprang.

Referring to his recent observations with regard to lost pastorates, and the qualifications on the part of the minister which contribute to make such pastorates possible, the Examiner (Baptist) points out that "the church has a share, and a very important share, in the matter."

Some churches seem to be constitutionally restless. They are never satisfied with things as they are. They worry one pastor out of the field, and before his successor is fairly settled in his place they began an unhallowed process of unsettlement again, so that the unfortunate incumbents resemble a procession, rather than a settled ministry. The pastors of these restless churches are 'rolling stones' against their will. Doubtless the fault is sometimes theirs that their stay is so brief; they haven't 'staying power'; but this cannot be true in every case. Some of the same pastors do fairly become 'settled' with some less unsteady churches. Or it may not be so much the fault of the church itself as of a few—perhaps only one—of its members.

Some little, peevish peculiarity in the pastor—the out of his hair, an unfortunate gesture, his manner of dress, it may be—disturbs their equanimity, and forthwith they begin an intrigue, usually entirely contemptible, to get rid of him. Many a man, who had been able to remain, would be pastored by a handful of dissatisfied members, who had been able to remain, would have stayed a treasure to the church and a blessing to the community. Very often it is the pastor who should remain and not, at least, be bowed into a corner and left there to sink over defeated machinations.

Church Party to Blame.

"Now, we are not at all disposed to put all the blame upon the churches for short pastorates. Round pegs get into square holes, and there can be no real comfort or success till the mistake is rectified. But that a goodly share of the trouble does rest with the church in far too many cases is a fact too well known for gainsaying.

"Then, too, many churches are at fault in failing to give their pastors reasonable support, or in not insisting that he shall be promptly paid the stipulated salary. If then, these things be so, it should be the aim of every church to retain as long as possible the services of its pastor, that he and they may grow together in friendship, helpfulness and power, ignoring small causes of offense, let both her and her pastor, during the earlier years till pastoral bond be cemented too strongly to be easily severed. There is great gain in a stable ministry and a loyal flock."

A state-wide movement to prevent the exhibition of moving pictures of "improper" nature has been started by the Christian Endeavor Union of Missouri. The crusade embraces all films which depict what are called demoralizing scenes, and ranges from elements to robberies and prize fights. It is proposed to put the ban on "spooning" scenes and any that depict kissing by any but relatives or the married. The congress of St. Louis Societies of Christian Endeavor provided for the appointment of a committee of five to carry on the fight here. The committee waited upon the mayor, members of the police board, and asked that an ordinance be passed prohibiting the exhibition of pictures considered objectionable. "The agitation against prize fight pictures was started by Secretary Shaw of the United Society of Christian Endeavor," said State President Fairbanks of St. Louis. "and the St. Louis societies have determined to make the agitation a little stronger."

Ordinances similar to the one proposed here have been introduced in Kansas City and St. Joseph, and the bill in Kansas City will be voted on this week.

Incorporates Foundation.

The Christian Unity Foundation has just been incorporated by twenty-four men, all members of the Protestant Episcopal church, twelve lay and twelve clerical, with the avowed intention of welding all Christian denominations into one organic religious body. The second paragraph of the articles of incorporation of the foundation says:

FASHION CRIPPLED IN A NIGHT

Redate Milliner Spoils the Finnes and Hunts a Swell Competitor.

Copenhagen has a milliner who succeeded in making successful war on the big hat. Her establishment was the headquarters for the best in the line of millinery, and her business was prosperous until a rival from Paris appeared on the scene whose hats were larger, more picturesque and in every way more attractive. She saw bankruptcy staring her in the face, and to avert it resorted to a desperate measure. She sent a friend to the Paris shop and purchased twenty of the most elaborate hats and had them distributed among the basket women in the public market. The gifts were accepted with thanks, the hats being not only showy, but good protection against the sun.

The joke soon spread through Copenhagen, and everyone laughed except the women. Overnight the style was changed. Customers returned to the native milliner and the French woman closed her shop.

LIVE WIRES IN THE KITCHEN

Crusade Against Short Weights and Measures Hits New York Households.

The woman who reads the newspapers, all New York women do, organizes her campaign of marketing as she approaches the business streets, and is ready for the butcher, the baker, or the grocer before she reaches his shop. She has absorbed with deep personal interest every item in the short-weight campaign, and is aggrieved over the manner in which she has been short-weighted, short-measured, and otherwise flim-flammed in the past, relates a correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Better Part of Valor.

The late Bishop William H. McVickar of the Episcopal diocese of Rhode Island had hundreds of Boston friends who will be interested in a story they are telling down in Providence about him. The bishop was as big physically as he was mentally. On a certain occasion, some years ago, he preached a sermon on the needs for missionary work in the back towns of his state, and especially mentioned the town of Foster, which certainly deserved as much as he said about it.

FAIRBURY MEN AT THE DEN

Samson to Be Host to Visitors from Out in the State.

TENNIS MEN RIDE THE GOAT

Visitors to the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament Are to See the Fiery Pig-Nosed Monster.

Tomorrow evening Fairbury business and professional men, citizens who have the good of their city at heart, with the city officials along to lend dignity to the party, will descend upon King Ak-Sar-Ben at his royal palace. Samson has decreed that a night be set aside for the entertainment of the city of Fairbury and tomorrow night was selected for the doings.

Animals for the Carnival.

Secretary Penfold of the Board of Governors has received a letter from the New York Zoological company offering an exhibition of some of the rarest animals in the world for the fall festival. Among the animals with which most people are unfamiliar are named the sloth bears of India, Indian leopards, Indian binturons, Tasmanian devils, African civets and last, a bird of paradise, said to be the only one ever brought to the United States alive. The company's proposition is being given serious consideration.

Animals for the Carnival.

Enil Brandeis, chairman of the amusement committee, returned the first of last week from New York, where he had been looking over a list of suitable amusements for the next show. H. A. Myers, the Ak-Sar-Ben book-agent in New York, is arranging for a complete catalogue of the most modern, up-to-date amusements which he will forward to the Board of Governors within a few days for them to make selections.
