SOIL A REAL INVESTMENT

Colonel Richmond Says "Back to Farm" Movement is On.

PEOPLE ARE EAGER FOR LAND

Every Train Bears Land Seekers and Hotels of the West Are Thronged with Those Who Are Seeking Farms.

Colonel Henry C. Richmond, who asserts he is a living example of a newspaper man becoming completely reformed by getting into the land business, is greatly pleased with crop prospects over the state.

"Nebraska's prospects are never but exceptional," said Colonel Richmond, "and every year seems to narrow down the drought-stricken spots. The small grain harvest is great, and when the dies of November come we shall see a great corn yield, too. And please observe that the price of Nebraska land is still going up."

Colonel Richmond has been selling a large tract of choice land at Francis, Tex., on Matagorda bay, and he is much in love with the Gulf coast country, but he says all good land is valuable. "The day has come when land is land," he said, "and it is amazing to see the grand rush for it everywhere. Go where you will and people are land crazy. There is no abatement to the craze. It even grows on us. On every train, especially those bound north, west and south, many people are going after land. Irrigated lands in the west and south and the citrus country in the rain belt of the Gulf coast prove the main attractions. In every hotel they are talking land and in every village and hamlet land is the subject among those who are able to invest."

Farmers Big Buyers. "It's a fact worth noticing that farmers themselves are the land buyers chiefly. They know the value of soil and they are getting hold of all they can. I know rich Nebraska farmers who, after buying all available around them, have gone to sister states and loaded up with more. Thousands of starved people and people of moderate means have bought small tracts of land at a distance or city lots or other investments on the installment plan, thanks to that modern method. We can't deny the instinct to own a piece of land, everyone has it more or less. And if, as James J. Hill says, the next generation will find most of us out in the country on five-acre farms, there is no reason to expect any letup in the enthusiasm."

Certainly it is that the exodus from the cities has fairly started. I can cite you to hundreds who have resolved to bid farewell to city life. The country, with its

MANEY MILL REOPENS SOON

Big Property Destroyed by Fire to Be Grinding Wheat.

HAS MUCH GREATER CAPACITY

Elevator to Be Considerably Larger and the Mill Will Have More Floor Space Because of Greater Height.

Undiscouraged by the big fire of April 3, the Maney Milling company has been busy at work rebuilding the mill then destroyed, with the result that the new mill will start operations the first of next month.

The new mill has been erected on the site of the old one, but it is bigger and better. Its elevator capacity is 15,000 bushels against 8,000 for the old and the wheels will turn out 2,000 barrels of flour each working day. The floor space is considerably increased, for the new building is much higher than the old one although the horizontal dimensions are about the same.

The Maney mill has been in operation only seven months when the fire wiped it out together with the elevator of the Nye-Schneider company. The fire occurred late at night, but before noon the next day active preparations for rebuilding had begun, and orders for new machinery had been telegraphed to the manufacturers. It will have been scarcely five months before the new plant is complete after the destruction of the old one.

The new mill has cost $100,000 to erect. A salvage of about $5,000 was achieved from the smoking ruins of the old building.

The officers of the Maney Milling company are J. W. Maney, president; John Maney, vice president; H. Dittmer, treasurer, and T. F. Blake, secretary and manager.

DAVIS LIKES THE BIG CHAIR

Thinks It Would Be Fine for Dahlman and Brucker to Be Away Often.

Councilman Charles M. Davis sat all morning in the mayor's chair at the city hall and did not have a single duty to perform. The case of the chair and the laziness of the atmosphere encouraged him to figure out a way to elect Mayor Jim governor and get Acting Mayor Brucker to take up his residence in some other city.

Airship Flights at Fort Omaha During Carnival

Local Inventor Prepares to Fly for the Board of Governors of Ak-Sar-Ben.

Clarence Adams, inventor and manufacturer of a bi-plane in which he intends to fly at the Ak-Sar-Ben fall festivities, has secured permission, with the aid of the board of governors, to erect a grandstand at Fort Omaha and to make flights there. Before these plans can be carried into execution, Adams must demonstrate to the satisfaction of the board that he is able to fly.

Two weeks before the opening of the festival the board of governors will visit the inventor's factory, located three miles from Papillion between Papillion and Richfield, and will witness trial flights. During the trials the board members will be given an opportunity to go up in Adams' machine to see for themselves how successfully it works.

For six years Mr. Adams has been working out the details of his bi-plane. He now believes that he has it perfected and he desires that his first public flight be made in Omaha and before Omaha people.

If Mr. Adams is successful in securing an engagement from King Ak-Sar-Ben he will endeavor to qualify for admission to the flight contests being announced all over the country. For the flight from St. Louis to New York an aviator must remain in the air an hour and forty minutes before he is eligible. This Mr. Adams will attempt.

Slueths Still Getting Tramps

Detectives Make Big Roundup of Vagrants Every Day to Clean City.

Captain Savage's detectives continue to make wholesale arrests of vagrants and suspicious characters in the city. The report of Thursday was fifty-eight arrests, with charges of vagrancy against thirty-eight of the prisoners. The theory of the police upon which the activity is carried out, is that Omaha suffers an invasion of tramps over the many railroads coming into the city, and that these idle men are bound to become thieves or beggars.
