ADDED CHADRON SCHOOL
Governor Refuses to Use Part of Purchase for Maintenance.

SAYS HE AVOIDS CRITICISM
Declares Got Roast for Doing So in Wayne Case—Will Not Accept Tender of Cash from Citizens.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Governor Hallenberger has blocked the opening of the Chadron normal school this fall. He did it, he said, for the reason that he is being criticised for agreeing to the use of a portion of the purchase money for the Wayne normal school to pay for opening and maintenance.

A committee of Chadron people informed the state normal board that the people of that community were willing to advance the money to pay the teachers and conduct the school until the legislature could appropriate, providing the governor and the board would recommend to the legislature that the money be refunded to them. Had this plan been endorsed by the governor the school would have been opened in the old building, building the first part of September.

The normal board, through a committee from Chadron, called upon the governor to ask his endorsement of the plan. The governor promptly replied that he was opposed to opening the school at this time because he had been severely criticised for permitting the use of $20,000 to maintain the Wayne school, the money being left over from the $100,000 appropriated for its purchase. The governor told the committee that several members of the legislature had told him that it was not necessary to use all of the $20,000 in the purchase of the Wayne normal. The remainder should have been retained by the treasury and the school not opened until the legislature made an appropriation for its maintenance. The governor told the committee that he did not desire to be criticized for opening the Chadron normal too early.

Chadron has had a hard time during its normal history and had been located there because the Commercial club of Alliance brought an injunction suit to prevent the board from building the school, but Chadron won out. The building is now under construction.

Richard L. Metcalfe received a letter today from a very distinguished democrat, whom many of his party doubtless recall and revere. The letter was from James R. Porter, democratic nominee for governor, back in 1883. Mr. Porter is a merchant, living at Hatler, and is now 80 years old. He wrote Mr. Metcalfe in the trembling hand of an old man, pleading him his support, saying "I would ask my daughter to write this, but she is busy with the typewriter getting out letters in your interest."

It is the encouragement Metcalfe is getting out in the state that has attracted up the Shallenberger following and forced them to insist upon a combination with Metcalfe's friends.

GRIM WAR IS NOW DECLARED
Building Inspector Insists on Permit for State Buildings.

CONTRACTOR SAYS HE WILL NOT
Attorney General Backs Up the Contractor and City Attorney Stands Back of Withnell and Grotte.

War is on in earnest between George A. Spaul, a Kansas contractor, backed by the state of Nebraska, and Building Inspector Withnell, backed by the city of Omaha.

Spaul says he can build the new $45,000 gymnasium for the state Deaf and Dumb institute without a permit and has already got a good start toward doing it. Withnell and his chief clerk threaten to arrest the next carpenter who raises a hammer unless the permit is taken out and the $23 fee paid to the city.

Mr. Grotte is called from his home in Seneca, Kan., by the news that work here has been stopped on the building and arriving here Wednesday morning demanded to know why the state had to pay a tax on buildings to the city of Omaha, quoting as his authority and supported by Attorney General Thompson. "I should say that he has never had to take out a permit for work done in Lincoln."

Chief Clerk Grotte replied that as far as the attorney general was concerned his word was of no avail against the authority of the city attorney of Omaha, and that as far as Lincoln is concerned nobody ever takes out permits there for anything. In Omaha permits are taken out by the United States government for building on its own army reserves.

Mr. Grotte also declared that by the specifications of the contract under which the work is being done the contractor is to take out all necessary permits. The fee would be less than $25.

The building inspector is determined that the law shall be upheld and the contractor remains grim and silent. There is nothing to be done but to wait for the death of the contractor.

Tom Davis and Tom Cats Wet
First Tom Goes Out in Night Air to Kill Second and Hydrant Drenches Both.

Tom Davis, assistant street commissioner, was sleeping peacefully in the cool of the morning Tuesday badly dreaming about how badly Boss Tom Flynn was going to do up the Shallenberger forces for Mayor Jim. Davis was wakened by a terrific yowling just outside his window.

Two kittens surrounded by a tremulous aura of flying fur and shattering sound waves were doing a little chewing exhibition just beyond the reach of anything he could throw to the ground. Sleep became an impossibility, and it was hours too early to get up.

Tom Davis twisted and rolled and threatened the felines, but it was all to no purpose. The caterwauling was unabated.

It became too much. No human being could have withstood the noise any longer. Mad with rage and forgetting his official dignity altogether the disturbed city official arose and clad with simple dignity in his night shirt started down the stairs and after the cats. It was a cool and balmy morning. A few milkmen may have seen the white paeitic figure creeping along the side of the house.

The cats were too busy to notice and kept at it royally. Just as they were about to be seized and rung into pieces there was a monster upheaval from the midst of the flat. One cat got its claws fixed firmly in the other's back and with the hind feet planted swung it high in the air. Just above them was the outside hydrant for attaching the lawn hose. With a roar and a splash came the deluge. The two toms drenched and seared beat it for other parts.

The soaked night shirt clung about Tom Davis's classic limbs like bark upon a slippery elm tree. As he made a sneak for the house a neighbor's widow went up. "What's the matter for Mr. Davis' cat?" she asked the veterinarian. "Don't you think any of us want to sleep at all?"

Twenty-One Years in Insane Asylum, Now in Right Mind

Mrs. Jacob Kreiger of Red Oak Re-united to Family After Many Years of Affliction.

RED OAK, Ia., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Jacob Kreiger, who for the last twenty-one years has been immolated in the Clarinda asylum among the incurably insane patients at that institution, is now fully recovered.

The time of her being taken there she had been suffering from a form of religious dementia, and her husband thought a season at that place would restore her mind to its normal condition, but as time went on, his hopes were doomed to disappointment and physicians gradually came to the conclusion that she was incurable.

Four young children, three girls and a little boy, were thus bereft of a mother's care, and as the years went by and the mother grew steadily worse, they came to think of her as almost lost to them. The family grew up, scattered and married. The youngest, a boy, Clarence, now 26, removed to Washington, and the father, now a broken old man, has for a number of years made his home with him.

The eldest daughter, now Mrs. Edward Swiger, living near Red Oak, and a woman of middle age, today has in her home the mother, fully restored to her right mind. About a year ago the physicians at the Clarinda hospital noticed that Mrs. Kreiger's mind showed periods of lucidity, and the periods gradually grew longer until finally the woman was placed in a probationary cottage, where she speedily recovered sanity. When the dazed woman began to pick up the broken threads of her life, it was gradually broken to her what changes had come to her family. When her two daughters living near Red Oak came to visit her for the first time after her recovery she met them timidly and with a strangeness born of the twenty-one years' separation, hardly able to believe they were the little girls she left so many years ago. Now she is the center of the household of her eldest daughter, and the aged husband is on his way from Washington to make the family circle complete.

Mrs. Kreiger has grandchildren as old as were her children when she was taken from them, and upon these grandchildren she is lavishing all the wealth of her restored affections. Her recovery is said to be complete.

Wilson Pleasured with Success
Man Who Proved His Claim to Big Estate at Teonmush Receiving Congratulations of Friends.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Aug. 10.—(Special Telegram.)—John Wilson, heir to the estate of Judge and Mrs. John Wilson of this city, is a much pleased man today. The story of his life, the quarrel with the father, the running away from home, never to see the parents again, and to return at the end of thirty-five years to claim and secure a fortune valued at $50,000, reads more like fiction than fact.

Mr. Wilson is today receiving the congratulations of his friends. His wife, his daughter and grandson are with him. He has said that he will remain here and visit old friends for a time, after which he will go to Southern California for a stay of a year, and then return to his home in Houston, Tex. Mr. Wilson is now a rich man, as he possessed some wealth before the court awarded him the Wilson estate.

James and Duncan Kinniburgh and Donald Black, the three nephews, who were to become beneficiaries of the will if Wilson did not appear by July 22 just past, are quoted as being satisfied as to the identity of Wilson.

Charles Bayard, having embezzled $640, Joseph O. It is alleged that while Bayard was treasurer of the branch he had actually appropriated money to the amount mentioned in the complaint. When the local was preparing to send a delegate to the international convention and called on Bayard for the expense amounting to $150, he made excuses and delayed until suspicions caused an investigation.
