More and more people are leaving for vacation trips. It is almost correct to adopt the plaint of the woman who colors her speech, slightly, with exaggeration and says: "Everybody is out of town." Almost, but, fortunately, not quite true! During the last week a number of people have left for trips, east and west, suggesting that the lake resorts; others are planning to leave this week. As the other vacationers have not yet returned, the country clubs and other places frequented by society wear a somewhat deserted air, and entertaining is not prevalent.

Two large meets, one golf and the other tennis, are interesting local players, and some have already left to take part in the play at the Tri-State Tennis tournament which is held at Sioux City this week, and the Transmississippi Golf meet at Des Moines. At each of these events Omaha will be represented both by players and devotees who will enjoy the game from the gallery.

If the present reform wave continues and produces practical results the tennis tournaments of next season may include some women players; that is, it is being suggested that mixed doubles would be a good feature to introduce in some of the tournaments. The "if" is emphasized—the women who play tennis will give the game their devoted attention. At present there is a prevalence of tennis lessons, several of the men who distinguished themselves on the clay courts having bravely undertaken to coach some of the feminine players. These coaches declare that with attention the Omaha women can acquire prowess skill, but that in the past they have been content to play the same kind of a game over and over. Tennis parties are therefore the prevailing entertainment just now.

Mr. Conrad Young, the energetic chairman, whose supervision was so largely responsible for the success of the recent national meet, is actively promoting tennis sets among the women who play.

Miss Susan Holdrege, who is now visiting in Copenhagen, expects to sail for home September 2. Miss Holdrege, with an aunt and cousin from Boston, has been enjoying a summer spent in the most enjoyable points of Europe. Interest has been added to their journey by the fact that two other parties of relatives are also touring Europe and the lines of their travel frequently cross and lead to pleasant family parties.

To appreciate this story you must know that the hero is a man of dignity, a man who has served with distinction on the bench, has handed out grave and weighty decisions on difficult law problems. Furthermore he is a member of a prominent and highly esteemed family and is himself most punctilious in observance of the fine points of social usage, therefore, of course, particular of his garb.

Recently his wife journeyed to a city a night's journey from here for a visit with friends. The judge in his absence made headquarters with his daughter and thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity this afforded of visiting with his lively but interesting grandson. Then to the judge there came an imperative summons from the friends with whom his wife was visiting, that he join the party and share in the festivities. He packed his grip and obeyed the command.

Arriving in the nearby city he was amazed by the greeting he received. His wife was at the station. She started forward to greet him, smilingly. The smile faded when she came up to him. Amusement shone in her eyes. "Why, James!" she gasped. Then tried to smile because her lifelong principle had been to believe that anything James did was the right thing to do.

"Well, mother," he said cheerily, reassuredly. "What is it?" "Your year tie," she explained. "My tie!" He looked to the tie for an explanation, and then he, too, was amazed. Instead of the usual, calm, black he usually affected he caught a glint of red.

"Is it red?" he asked his wife for confirmation of his fears. "Red!" she replied. "No, indeed, it is worse than that, much worse. It is black with little red roosters embroidered all over it. Where did you get it?"

Washington Social Notes

Selection of List of Real Aristocrats at the Capital by C. W. De Lyon Nicholls Amuses Folks Left Out—Miss Elkins Included Because She Has "Ancestors," While Parents Are Omitted Because They Have None.

BY CONSTANCE CARRUTHERS. WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(Special to The Bee.)—That portion of society left in town has been both amused and piqued by the promulgation of a list of the real aristocrats of Washington society by C. W. De Lyon Nicholls, governor general of the "National Society of Sons of Colonial Cavaliers." Six years ago Mr. Nicholls received social endorsement of the late Mrs. Astor and that was sufficient to open all doors for him in New York, Newport and Washington. He first became known as a social climber when he was elected to the "National Society of Sons of Colonial Cavaliers." He is now engaged in compiling the second volume of that work. Among the "climbers" the social arbiter designates some of our haughtiest social factors. Mr. Nicholls, under the title of "Washington Ultra Fashionables," designates the following as the "Tins": Senator and Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore, the Misses Wetmore, William E. K. Wetmore, Roger Wetmore, Pierre Lorillard, Mrs. Richard Townsend, Mrs. Peter Golet Gerry (was Mathilde Townsend), Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Miss Margaret and Katherine Cameron, Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, Mr. and Mrs. Beekman Winthrop, Representative Hamilton Fish, the Misses Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Beekman Lorillard, Miss Katherine Elkins, Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

He names the following as the "outs," or the ambitious climbers: The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Meyer, the Misses Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. C. A. Munn, Mr. and Mrs. A. Munn, Mr. and Mrs. C. Barney, Colonel and Mrs. Henry May, the Misses May, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, General and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, the Misses Phelan, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, Miss Eleanor Terry, Mrs. Nicholas Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Greenville B. Fortescue, Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, Representative and Mrs. A. J. Peters of Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. John R. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Pearsall, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Truman H. Newberry, Mrs. Helen Wadsworth, Lieutenant and Mrs. W. S. Grant, Mr. Captain Archibald Willington Butt, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Blair, Clair Blair, Regl. Hudekoper, Frederick Hudekoper, Mrs. Robert R. Hitt, William F. R. Hitt, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. R. Hitt, General and Mrs. Robert Shaw Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee, Senator and Mrs. Elkins, Mrs. Samuel Spencer.

I hear it said that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes are going to play an important part in the social life here next winter and later. Mr. Hughes has not yet formally resigned the governorship of New York for the place upon the supreme bench, which he has already accepted. They have decided on a residence here, but will build later.

Mrs. Marcus Hanna, formerly of Cleveland, O., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Medill McCormick of Chicago.

For the Future

Mrs. A. V. Kinler will give a luncheon Tuesday at the Field club. Mrs. J. F. Carr will give a novelty shower Tuesday for Miss Pearl Bauman, whose wedding takes place in September. Miss Mary Richardson will give a tea Wednesday afternoon at her home for Miss Mildred Rogers, who has recently returned from a European trip.

Personal Notes from Gotham

Separation of the Reginald Ronaldses is Final, the Only Question Now Being New York or Reno—Newport Gets a Couple More Shocks from Its Feminine Fashionables—Palma-Browne Wedding Holds Attention.

BY MARGARET WATTS DE PEYSTER. NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The only doubt that exists over the separation suit of Mrs. Reginald Ronalds relates as to where it will enter in this city, whether she will go to Reno and seek absolute divorce or whether she will return to Erie, Pa., her native town, are features of the case that are now causing a great deal of gossip. Reginald Ronalds is now in Europe. His wife is in this country. The Ronaldses since their marriage have been at the top of the social heap in New York. Also Newport and Washington claimed them for their own. Mrs. Ronalds, the heiress of the many millions of her father, President Charles H. Strong, the railroad magnate, is a handsome young woman and a great social favorite in the younger set. Mrs. Ronalds (the mother of the groom) is now occupying her London residence and Reggie has been seeking her advice in his present difficulty. "Incompatibility" is said to be the cause for the separation. "Incompatibility" in elite circles may mean many things.

The wedding of Thomas Estrada Palma, Cuban ranch owner and a son of the late President Palma of Cuba, to Miss Helen Douglas Browne of this city will take place on Monday. Mr. Palma has not yet himself decided whether or not he will take his bride to Cuba and make her future home on his plantation estate on the eastern part of the island. Miss Browne is 21 years old, a native of Mexico, while her prospective husband was born at Central Valley, N. Y., where his father at one time taught school. This was some time before the elder Palma became the executive head of the Cuban republic. Following his leaving office the man who had steered Cuba through some of its troublous times returned to this country with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould and family are now at the Birch Island camp at Wambaug, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. George Gold and the Misses Gould will return to this city in August and go for a time to their place in the Catskills. Miss Helen M. Gould is now in her cottage at Roxbury, in the Catskills, where she will remain until September.

For the first time in the history of Newport rich and fashionable society women are now smoking cigarettes openly on the streets. Strangers in the social resort were shocked one Sunday afternoon recently by a band of young women, some in silk and satins and jewels, calmly strolled down Bellevue avenue smoking a cigarette. In the past cigarette smoking among women was confined to the home and the dining and smoking rooms of the hotels and clubs.

New York and Newport are used to darning.

Woman's Power and Charm. Seasoned Admirer Points to Forty-Five as Glorious Period of Life.

A certain staid contemporary has just discovered the powers and the charm of the woman of 45 or 50 years of age. The world discovered it long since, comments the New York Telegraph. The great point mankind has known is that which tells of Helen of Troy, and the mighty Iliad that followed on young Prince Paris' lawless love of her. And the "face that launched a thousand ships and burnt the topless towers of Ilium" was the face of a woman of 45. A thousand years later another woman plunged an empire far greater than that of legendary Troy into general battle. She was then a woman of 40, and an Oriental 40. Her name was Cleopatra. Nor do we imagine for one moment that Cleopatra would have exercised over a character and an intellect as powerful as that of Mark Antony the same empire that she had been a great girl, however beautiful. History attributes her victory over Antony not shallow, perishable loveliness, but to the grace and winsomeness of her disposition, to the witchery of her companionship and to the enchanting "skill in fitting herself to the man, which is a way far beyond that of the little titillation and lives for its own bright noontide. These qualities, we need hardly say, are not those which bestow power or arouse the better kinds of love. Youth, however, grows beyond these grave faults. Life deepens and softens character. The lessons of error, suffering and sorrow round the nature. At 45 a woman may have ceased to be young, but she is far from having become old. The age of real understanding has begun, and understanding remains the greatest of all human forces. Men are drawn to women far more closely than to the beauty of their youth. There are but few very beautiful women in the world. There are thousands of ideal friendships between men and women. Time and time again have we seen the woman of 45, the woman who is no longer young, win the prizes of life, right in the teeth of those who thought to be her daughters. The young can give their youth, but the mature can give their help, their wisdom, their self-sufficiency, their faith. It is not until her youth has passed away and nature begins to be at odds with knowledge, craftiness and ambition that the artist-actress, the artist-singer, achieves richest results. "You can't play Juliet and look it," runs the melancholy theatrical proverb.

Health and Beauty Secrets

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN

Cinderella: Merely because your husband is hopelessly bald after wasting so much money buying ready-prepared hair tonics is no reason why you should neglect your hair. By simply adding a half pint of water to one ounce quinsolin dissolved in a half pint of alcohol, you can make a quinsolin hair tonic that will positively destroy the germs in the scalp, stop all dandruff and put your hair in a healthy condition. This tonic will not only stop hair and will prove very refreshing and invigorating. It fits into the hair roots about twice a week and it will make your hair soft and glossy.
