

GOV. HADLEY TALKS POLITICS

Says the Republican Party Can Take Care of Itself.

FEELS THE PULSE OF NEBRASKA

Confers with Victor Rosewater on the Political Situation—Will Attend the Conservation Congress at St. Paul.

Herbert S. Hadley, the first republican governor that has reigned in Missouri in forty years, spent a few hours in Omaha Thursday. He was enroute from Oakland, La., to Fairbury, Neb.

"I have been putting in a few ticks on the chautauqua platform," said the governor, "and I find the change of scene and the mental exercise along this line is doing me good. Naturally, as chief executive of the fifth state in the union, I find plenty to do when at home, and this is sort of a holiday."

Asked to make a few remarks on politics, Governor Hadley let his smile shine out, with the remark, "Being a farmer and living in a log cabin, I would much prefer to talk agriculture and tell you how hard of the state to manage is still undeveloped, waiting in all its richness to be utilized by those seeking a home on a farm in good territory. Down in my state some opposition sheet was mean enough to say that Abraham Lincoln went from a log cabin to the White House, and that Hadley went from an executive mansion to a log cabin. Of course, these little bits of perflage we consider quite neighborly in good old Missouri, so I didn't have the editor arrested for lese majesty. But I am a booster for the farm and the back-to-the-land propaganda, and my log cabin looks good to me."

Not a Candidate.

On the possibility of entering the field for United States senator on the republican side in his state, Governor Hadley said: "I am not a candidate and don't expect to be, at this time; but a public man in any locality must sometimes hold his plans to be in the state with a view to the table, subject to change without notice."

On the democratic side the candidates are former Governor Francis and James Reed, former mayor of Kansas City, both re-electionaries in their own party. Whether I shall become a candidate on the republican side depends on contingencies not now to be foreseen, but I have no plans laid in that direction."

While passing some compliments on the apparent prosperity of Nebraska and patting the red apple of his own state on the cheek, the Missouri governor was asked about national politics. "It is a subject I don't care to discuss offhand," he said. "It would take too long to define my views exactly, but I do not see any danger to the republican party in the differences that exist. We can settle our own quarrels within our own party, and to my mind good will come from the discussion of divergent views of party policy."

No Insurance in Missouri.

"Insurance? Well, we have none of that in Missouri, where we are all progressives," he said, with a most affable emphasis. "Over in Iowa I heard a definition of insurance that struck me as worth while. Someone said an insurance is a progressive, who is exceeding the speed limit."

"But, seriously, while I cannot discuss national politics, in President Taft I repose the highest confidence and I have the greatest respect for his character. To attempt to enter into the work of congress and the administration would not be possible for me in a proper manner."

Governor Hadley said he will attend the National Conservation congress to be held at St. Paul, Minn., opening September 5. Most of the western and middle west governors are to be present and take part in the program. While waiting for his train, he conferred with Victor Rosewater of The Bee to keep in touch with political conditions here.

Fort Observes Great Growth

Railroad Man Says that Nebraska Has Done Wonders in Three Years.

Gerrit Fort, passenger traffic manager of the Union Pacific, returned to Omaha Thursday morning from a short trip to Chicago, which was preceded by a twelve-day journey over the lines of the Union Pacific.

After his three years' absence from the railroad he found that the growth of the Union Pacific had grown far beyond what eastern men consider it could have done in that time. He stated that he considered that the roundabout of the main line of his road was as good as any of the much vaunted eastern and the growth in the land itself was marvelous.

"It was an eye-opener to me to go over our lines and see the great improvement of this state and indeed the whole west. Where three years ago there was the brown pasture grass of the big ranches and empty spaces of the North Platte there are now flourishing farms and green fields to be seen everywhere."

"As a little indication of the growth of western Nebraska and eastern Wyoming, figures kept by the railroad show an increase of over 200 per cent since I left before. The crop condition looked pretty good to me, although I'm not an expert, and in spite of the ones who think Nebraska has no crop this year I think that we will make the average of last year."

BOHEMIAN LODGES CELEBRATE

Season Opens Saturday, September 3, and Will Extend Over Three Days.

All of the Bohemian lodges of the city, Catholic and Protestant alike, are planning to unite in one big festival to begin on Saturday, September 3, and continue until Monday, September 5. The committee in charge of the event, of which Joseph L. Padron is chairman and F. Boutin, secretary, has arranged to hold the indoor meetings of the Bohemians at the new Turner hall, at the corner of Thirteenth and Dorcas streets. Invitations have been extended to all of the many Bohemian lodges in the state to join in the affair, and a large out-of-town attendance is expected. The meeting will open with a big social on Saturday evening, and at 1 o'clock on Sunday there will be a huge parade of the Bohemian lodges. Sunday afternoon's program includes a concert and a number of addresses. Among those scheduled for talks are Mayor James C. Schellman, the Reverend Father Vranek and J. L. Padron. Sunday evening there will be a play at the hall. Monday will be given over to the younger people and will be known as Children's day.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by all dealers.

CABELL VISITS IN OMAHA

Commissioner of Internal Revenue Making the Rounds.

LUNCHEON WITH B. F. THOMAS

Most Gentle Agent of the Government, Who Was Formerly Mayor of Richmond, Dodge All Political Questions.

One of the most likable men that has passed through Omaha in many a day is Royal E. Cabell, commissioner of internal revenue for the United States. While he was serving as mayor of Richmond, Va., he was appointed to his present place. Commissioner Cabell is one of the youngest southern men in the national administration. He would be a most admirable advance man for any sort of combination, business or political, but as an administrator he has proved his right to high place.

The commissioner won't talk on "What is whisky," or trifling things of that kind, but he will tell you in the most winning way how very glad he is to meet you, and he really is. Also he will explain in the frankest possible manner just what business he is on and be very careful to go into details so that you will understand it just as he does.

"I am on my way to Fresno, Cal., to meet several collectors of the department in whose districts vast quantities of sweet wines are produced. The wine makers also will be in the conference, and the object is to try and reach an agreement as to the use of brandy in fortifying these California sweet wines. Tens of millions of gallons are produced every year, and the grape growers complain that some of the regulations governing the use of the fortifier are depriving them of some benefit intended they should have under the law. On this brandy used for fortifying the tax is but 3 cents a gallon, merely enough to pay for government inspection, while the commercial tax is $1.10 a gallon. So I want to investigate personally and see just what the trouble is."

Commissioner Cabell would not talk politics, laughingly dodging all questions on that subject. He is proud of the efficiency of his department, but is quite modest in talking of its work.

The visitor was a guest of Postmaster Thomas at luncheon at the Omaha club, the two men having become acquainted while Cabell was postmaster of Richmond. The other guests were Victor Rosewater of The Bee and Ross Hammond, collector of internal revenue. Mr. Cabell left last evening for the west.
