

Nebraska BURKETT MAKES STATEMENT

Nebraska Senator Tells Where He Stands on Political Questions.

CONFIDENCE IN THE PRESIDENT

Thanks the Press of the State and Assures the Public that He Will Work for Interests of People.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
LINCOLN, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—Senator Burkett today gave out the following statement:

"I cannot find words adequate to express my thanks to the people's confidence in me. I have given them as the republican nominee for United States senator. Their confidence shall never be betrayed nor trifled with, and if elected, they shall have the very best and most conscientious service that I can give them.

"The reports would indicate that I have carried practically every county in the state by very large majorities and I accept the result as an endorsement by the people of the progressive policies that I have advocated and stood for during the dozen years that I have been in public life. Especially, I thank the republican press for its enthusiastic and almost universal support.

"I have never had any other ambition than to win and merit the confidence and esteem of the people of Nebraska and have no other attachments than their interests, and have never appreciated so highly an expression of the people's confidence as at this time. I have regretted the false and malicious attacks that have been made upon me by those who apparently did not seek either to learn or to convey the truth.

"While I owe nothing to such critics, nevertheless there might be some who would accept their statements as true, and therefore I want to state that I stand squarely and unequivocally and everlastingly for the aggressive and progressive policies of the republican party as championed by Theodore Roosevelt and his chosen successor, President Taft. For progressive republican policies I have battled in the past and for it I shall battle in the future.

Loyal to Taft.
"During all the time that I have been in public life I have voted consistently for such policies and never once faltered in my support of Theodore Roosevelt in his program of reform legislation. I have confidence in President Taft as the worthy successor of Theodore Roosevelt and that end I shall give him my loyal support in the future as I have in the past.

"The last session of congress enacted more progressive and even revolutionary industrial and commercial legislation than any session before it, including railroad regulation, trust regulation, a postal savings bank law and others, and to it all I gave my best support.

"I have voted consistently with the group of western senators who are determined to keep the republican party as it has been and as it always must be, the party of the people as against the sordid interests of greed and avarice.

"I am thoroughly in favor of the conservation of the public resources against the depredation and exploitation of those who would fatten their individual purses at the expense of the public. I have always voted against a ship subsidy and am still opposed to it.

"I stand upon the national republican platform of 1908 and the Nebraska republican platform of this year and for the policies as therein enunciated.

Talks on the Tariff.
"The tariff is the one subject we could make at the time, but nevertheless, I approve the wisdom of creating a tariff commission, and worked for it, to make a more exhaustive and scientific investigation of the various schedules to the end that absolute justice may be done to all sections of the country and the tariff made to be equitable. The party's pledge must be kept and shall be kept to equalize the tariff to the difference between the cost of production here and abroad with reasonable profit.

"The republican party never would make a free trade bill and I believe that we are some more reductions that could be made with safety to our industries and our labor, and shall continue the fight along that line with other western senators who believe as I do.

"My votes upon the various schedules of the recent tariff bill have been so numerous and so persistently misrepresented and distorted that I cannot reply within the reasonable space of this communication. But I will say that while possibly I may have made some mistakes during the five long months of voting, that I never cast a vote that I did not, consistently believe was right and that was for the best interest of the people of Nebraska.

"I denounce as false the statement that I have not been a friend of the old soldiers, and call as witness my record in congress and the 4,000 veterans whose claims I have helped.

"The Nebraska republicans in congress, progressive and non-progressive, have done more than that by Congressman Norris, and all attempts by 'meddlesome midgits' to create strife between him and myself have been gratuitous and most malicious. Our votes in congress have universally been identical and our relations most peaceful for re-election and he should receive the vote of every high-minded man in his district.

"I cannot cover all the subjects of a public nature, but I want the people to know that I am with them today as I have been in the past when I have fought for them in county and state conventions and in the halls of congress.

GROSS WILL FIGHT CASE

Young Man Accused of Taking Camera Backed by Prospective Father-in-Law.

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 20.—(Special Telegram.)—Arthur Gross, a professor and member of the Savage Grand Opera company, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned in county court today on a charge of stealing a camera. He was released on $1,000 bail given by his father, J. W. Gross of Omaha, and his prospective father-in-law, Walter R. Dean of Minden. Trial was set for September 20.

Gross was recently bound over in Minden on a similar charge and released on $300 bail given by Mr. Dean. When re-arrested on the Hastings charge he broke away from the Minden sheriff, who fired three shots at him, none taking effect. He was recaptured at Holdrege and when brought to Hastings Mr. Dean and Miss Grace Dean, his fiancée, boarded the train at Minden and rode with him to this city.

Gross was employed as a singer in a moving picture theater here last winter. He afterwards filled a similar engagement at Casper, Wyo. But he has put in most of this summer with the Dean family at Minden taking pictures with the camera he is alleged to have taken there. Mr. Dean is possessed of considerable means. He and his daughter say they have entire confidence in Gross. The latter returned with Dean to Minden today.

Nebraska Alleged Bigamy Under Arrest

Othello M. Evans, Who Married Miss Gorman of Grand Island, is in Jail at Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 20.—(Special Telegram.)—While enjoying a honeymoon with Grace Gorman of Grand Island, Neb., whom he married August 3 at Central city, Neb., after deserting a wife and three children in Kansas City, Othello M. Evans, wealthy contractor of Kansas City, was arrested here today on a charge of bigamy.

The arrest was made at the request of Percie Gorman, sister of Grace, who with the assistance of Sheriff J. M. Dunklell traced the couple from Central City after the wedding to Denver, Colorado Springs and finally to Salt Lake City.

The trouble started when Evans left his home in Kansas City to take up the contract on the federal building at Grand Island. He met Miss Gorman and soon proposed to her. She knew he had been married, but he showed her divorce papers, these satisfied the girl's parents. Percie Gorman became suspicious after the wedding and made inquiry at Kansas City finding the wife and family of Evans. Immediately he set out on the quest which ended today, with Evans behind the bars. Evans says he will go back to Nebraska without requisition papers.

Polk Paper Will Bolt.
STROMSBURG, Neb., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—Since the indications are that Dahlman has been nominated by the primaries last Tuesday, the Headlight here, a populist and democratic paper, refuses to support him for governor and plainly states that it will either be silent on the governorship or else will openly support C. H. Aldrich.

Victor Wilson, who figures that he has the democratic and populist nomination for railway commissioner, says that he will be greatly handicapped by Dahlman on the ticket, and says that he has a great notion to withdraw, as he seems to feel that it will be useless to attempt to run.

DICK GREEN'S STRANGE DREAM Colored Messenger's Premonition of the Death of John G. Carlisle.

Those who have faith in the premonitions of a dream will find some solace in the experience of Richard Green, for nearly fifty years head messenger to the secretary of the treasury, and the personal friend of every man who has held that office in his time. Of the long line of secretaries of the treasury who have served in Green's day perhaps none was so fond of "Dick" as he is best known, as the late John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury under Grover Cleveland.

In the absence of Secretary MacVeagh from Washington, "Dick's" present personal charge is Robert O. Bailey, the private secretary of the secretary. Dick begins his daily duties by preparing breakfast for Mr. Bailey, having learned to cook in "old Virginia" when he was a boy, and was known to the slaves on the plantation where he lived as the "son of Jenny, the pot rasher." A few days before "Dick" died in New York Dick remarked one morning at breakfast: "Mistah Bailey, I'm mighty troubled."

"Why, what's the matter, Dick?" inquired the private secretary.

"Well, sah," said Dick, "I had a bad dream last night, and I jes' can't get over it."

"What was it, Dick?" Mr. Bailey inquired.

"Well, sah, I dreamed a member of the cabinet and died, and dey was burying him in Washington."

"Who was it, Dick?" asked Mr. Bailey.

"Dat's jes' what's trouble me," said Dick. "I can see it all jes' as plain as day, but I can't make out who's dead."

Three days later Dick received a telephone message from the Carlisle family in New York notifying him that Mr. Carlisle was dead and asking him to open up the Carlisle home in Washington in preparation for the funeral. The grief of Dick was pathetic. He attended personally to many of the funeral arrangements and had entire charge of the house while the family was in Washington. After the funeral was over he returned to the service of Mr. Bailey. That night he soberly remarked at "Mistah Bailey, do you remember that dream I told you about?"

Mr. Bailey, who had forgotten all about the dream, looked up in a surprised sort of way and recalled what Dick had told him.

A Family Burial Lot Is An Absolute Necessity

Every man admits that sooner or later, he must make provision for the burials in his family, but the same prejudice and superstition that used to exist against life insurance in its early days still prevents many men from selecting and purchasing a Cemetery lot in advance of the time of need.

When a man buries his loved ones in a single grave section of a Cemetery, he usually intends later to buy a family lot for fifty graves and have the single grave moved. Why not make the lot selection and save this extra expense?

Price of a Single Grave.

In case of sudden death in the family and unexpected need of an immediate burial, for the price of a single grave, you can arrange to bury in a family lot and the balance of the price can be made in small monthly payments.

No Neglected Lots.

You can feel assured that the lots adjoining yours will always have the same well-cared-for appearance that yours has. Perpetual care, which is included in the purchase of the lot, insures this for all time.

She Didn't Mind.

A girl with a Gibson face and a green feather in her hair boarded a Chestnut street car the other afternoon. She carried something in a paper sack under her arm. The car was crowded with passengers and no one offered to rise.

The social guide shook his head. "Your period of mourning will not permit this sort of game of a lively or pleasant character," he gravely said. "You cannot recommend anything," the "brave" man demanded.
