SEVEN COUPLES GET DECREES

Judge Woodruff Confronted with One Hundred and One Divorce Cases.

ALL HURRY TO PAY UP COSTS

Want No Doubt Existing as to Final Termination of Marital Controversies—Other Orders Are Provisional.

Confronted by a divorce docket numbering 101 cases, Judge Woodruff of the district court bench assailed the task before him early in the term, and devoted nearly all of yesterday, its second day, to consideration of the stories of marital misfits. He did enough other business to make a respectable day's work, but when the day closed he had practically disposed of fourteen of the divorce cases. There was good grounds for the suspicion that Judge Woodruff looked over the docket and picked out the easy ones for his first essay in the tournament against Cupid, for defaults were taken in all of the cases where decrees were entered.

In these cases divorces were granted and the decrees signed:

Lulu Murphy vs. Charles Murphy; William Sutherland vs. Edith Sutherland; Jessie S. Walker vs. Roda Walker; Augusta Boone vs. Brady Boone; Elva B. O'Leary vs. Thomas C. O'Leary; Emma Hart vs. Charles E. Hart; Lottie Whitsett vs. Frank Whitsett; Olive Petersen vs. Jens Petersen; Frances Kirkpatrick vs. William Kirkpatrick; Thomas J. Hatch vs. Mollie Hatch; Emma Hart vs. Charles Hart; Hattie Moehn vs. Frank Moehn.

The evidence in two other default cases was taken and submitted and the cases taken under advisement. They were Lucy E. Calkins vs. John J. Calkins and Carrie B. Winchell vs. Adelbert Winchell.

Seven Fully Divorced.

While twelve decrees were signed there were only seven of the couples fully granted their freedom. A rule of the courts, adopted several years, does not permit divorce decrees to be entered upon the records until all of the costs in the case have been paid. The only evidence of the granting of the divorces until the record is written up is the notation in pencil on the judges' dockets. In a number of cases parties securing divorces have neglected to see to this important part of the court transactions and have gone away happy in the thought of their freedom to discover with great dismay several months or years afterward that they were still undivorced. Seven of the plaintiffs yesterday hurried into Clerk Brown's office immediately after the decree was granted and paid all costs, anxiously inquiring if there might not be some other hidden danger lurking in their pathway to freedom.

Mabray Cases Up Soon.

Judge Smith McPherson will convene the September term of the federal court next Monday, when another dozen or sixteen of the Mabray cases will be tried. The greater part of them, however, will be the suits of some of the "Mikes" against local men, whom they allege failed properly to protect them, when they came here and got their drafts cashed to win the money of the reputed Pittsburg millionaires. Judge McPherson ordered a special venire of petit jurors drawn for the purpose of insuring a sufficient number to try these suits. These names were announced yesterday:

J. B. Ashby, Audubon; W. A. Acheson, Des Moines; Allen Bullis, Griswold; H. W. Clark, Tabor; J. F. Coulthard, Missouri Valley; James David, Massena; A. C. Diller, Marshalltown; J. O. Fry, Mt. Ayr; H. N. Frazier, Magnolia; George Goodale, Lenox; Dennis Hamblin, Sharpsburg; Merl Hatten, Sidney; B. F. Kimkel, Redfield; Marten Kjer, Audubon; H. M. Long, Bedford; H. W. Moeller, Charter Oak; Edward Mohr, Arcadia; J. N. Nichols, Atlantic; Swain Neal, Dexter; Charles Newell, Gray; W. L. Orr, Logan; C. E. Oakley, Prescott; George Schreck, Dedham; Samuel Sloss, Guthrie Center; Amos Tibben, Exira; Peter Tent, Denison; Edward Vial, Adel; L. B. Wilson, Creston; O. S. Welch, Manning.

In addition to these the regular panel of March term, which adjourned unfinished, will be on hand for duty. These are:

E. A. Beason, Audubon; P. M. Cadwell, Malvern; C. L. Campbell, Atlantic; Charles Dinges, Bedford; Julius Duer, Missouri Valley; W. C. Elliott, Audubon; William Ermine, Cromwell; John Fennell, Corydon; H. K. Forsyth, Griswold; H. B. Fockett, Shenandoah; O. H. Frink, Clarinda; M. R. Hough, Adair; Samuel Howlett, Anita; R. I. Huston, Russell; W. C. Johnson, Randolph; E. S. Jones, Chariton; Henry Lane, Albia; J. A. Loose, Thurman; W. K. Morgan, Glenwood; R. R. Russell, Ottumwa; Harry Rosebrook, Oskaloosa; Samuel Salts, Fairfield; F. E. Sheldon, Mt. Ayr; Willie Steel, Logan; I. K. Story, Indianola; J. B. Swain, Little Sioux; Julius Tappert, Davenport; W. L. Van Eaton, jr., Sidney; Walter Wilson, Corning; John Young, Modale.

The names of the new grand jurors were also announced yesterday as follows:

Clark Ardstrong, Lenox; Henry Bell, Dow City; S. J. Byers, Elkhart; W. W. Brown, Hamburg; H. C. Cutler, Magnolia; L. Daniels, Adair; William Elkenberry; William Farrell, Menlo; George Fisher, Underwood; D. Howarthy, Dunlap; James Harris, Lewis; Carl Heed, Earling; F. M. Johnson, Greenfield; M. C. Hechert, Missouri Valley; H. P. Moore, Corning; Clark Mansfield, Shelby; W. H. McClurkin, Morning Sun; W. D. Mayers, Missouri Valley; L. F. Mullins, Atlantic; Simon Oppenheimer, Chariton; Edward Newton, Anita; Fred Nordstrom, Shenandoah; F. E. Payton, Bedford; W. W. Short, Menlo Gus Shelquist, Albia; C. T. Stephens, Bedford; H. H. Walters, Logan; J. A. Williams, Mt. Ayr; Moses Wilson, Logan; George Weighten, Audubon.

Edwin Milton Royle's play of ranch life, "The Squaw Man," will be seen here in the near future at the Dohany theater. The production and company are said to be of the best—the scenery having been painted by C. W. Wagner, who is a brother of the famous landscape painter and is as well known in his line of work as his celebrated brother. The engagement is for matinee and night, Saturday, September 3.

COLORADO FRUIT GROWERS REAPING RICH HARVEST

Large Shipments Being Received and Disposed of on Market Admitting of Good Profit.

The Colorado peach crop is now being moved, and hundreds of cars are being received at Council Bluffs and Omaha. On Saturday afternoon and Sunday more than 200 cars were received, and the Union Pacific had 117 cars standing on the tracks at one time. Some of the members of the shipping forces were compelled to work until 1 o'clock Sunday morning and all others worked steadily all day Sunday.

Nearly all of the fruit comes from the Grand Junction fruit districts, and this year it is all handled by the Palisade Fruit Growers' association. Every car is billed from the originating point to New York and they are diverted along the line on route to points that promise a better market. One broker Sunday diverted fifty cars, and a very large percentage of the daily shipments, which are averaging more than 200 cars each day, never get further than the Union Pacific yards on their journey toward New York. New York gets only the shipments that cannot be disposed of on a better market nearer home.

The Grand Junction crop this year is the largest and the best that the growers there have ever produced. The crop was saved by the use of fire pots when the freezing weather was doing its utmost mischief. Prices obtained this season are very much better than were realized last year, and the profits of the business are correspondingly greater. One grower says he will realize $7,000 from a five-acre peach orchard which is only 6 years old.

The fruit marketed here is carefully packed and graded, and brings a good price, permitting retailers to sell quarter bushel boxes for 35 cents.

Reuben Herner Probation Officer

Rev. Henry De Long's Resignation, After Six Years' of Service, is Accepted by Court.

Judge Wheeler yesterday appointed Reuben Herner juvenile court probation officer in place of Rev. Henry DeLong, who resigned in May with his resignation conditioned to take effect August 31. The appointment of Mr. Herner was in accordance with an agreement between Judges Thornell, Greene, Wheeler and Woodruff, and the appointment announced yesterday was really agreed upon several weeks ago and after it was definitely known that Mr. DeLong would not continue in the office.

The appointment of Mr. Herner is also by agreement of the board of education, whose members acceded to the request of the board of county supervisors to combine the two offices. Each office was paying a salary of $60 a month, and the school board and the county board submitted the proposition to Mr. Herner to take a straight salary of $75 a month for the whole year. As truant officer he drew salary only while the schools were in session. Mr. Herner will occupy the office in the corridor of the county court house which has been occupied by Mr. DeLong, and which he vacated yesterday.

Mr. Herner has been truant officer for five years, or since the compulsory school law required the service of such an officer. He has been singularly successful in his work, and brings the finest qualifications for the discharge of the duties of his new office. For the last year or more he has been studying the psychological lines and using the theosophic inductive methods of inquiry, and thoroughly understands child nature.

"Uncle Henry" DeLong, who retires after more than six years of continuous service has over 1,600 juvenile cases settled out of court, and without publicity and several hundred of court record to his credit. He recently completed his seventy-second birthday and feels that the remainder of his life should be less arduous, although he does not intend in any degree to diminish his interest in the dark side of youth life. He will continue to conduct his two city missions and keep in close touch with the work, the active part of which he is now laying down.

AUGUST TRANSFERS LIVEN UP

Considerably Heavier This Year than for Same Period One Year Ago.

Real estate transfers for the month of August this year were considerably heavier than for the same period last year. The totals for the month as reported by the Pottawattamie County Abstract company were 161 transfers, representing financial transactions amounting to $239,224.76. For the month of August last year there were 134 tranfers representing total considerations of $181,964.83. There was a greater movement of city property during August this year than a year ago, although a majority of the heavier transactions continued to be confined to farm property. In several instances prices of farm property broke all records for this part of the state with the exception of the hysterical condition worked up in the land market two years ago, when agents for Edward Harriman were buying up a few hundred acres of farm land south of Council Bluffs to be used in connection with the $2,500,000 terminal facilities then planned, when $350 an acre was paid for some tracts. Following are yesterday's transfers:

C. L. Barrit, superintendent of the county poor farm, has announced September 30 as the date of the county picnic, given annually by the County Picnic association.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Shirley died yesterday at their home, 206 East Broadway. The funeral will occur this afternoon with interment at Walnut Hill cemetery.

The annual picnic of the Broadway Methodist church and Sunday school will be held at Fairmount this afternoon. The crowd will gather at the end of the car tracks in the park at 2:30 p. m. It is expected that there will be several hundred of the children and older members of the church present.

C. M. Blevins, who has had charge of the Postal Telegraph company's Council Bluffs office since last May, has been transferred to the New York office of the company, and his place has been filled by Elmer Stuart, who resigned his place as train dispatcher for the Rock Island railroad here to take the position.

J. A. Kersten, one of the Omaha automobile speeders required to deposit a $25 bond to keep out of jail, failed to respond when his name was called in police court yesterday morning and his bond was forfeited. He was taken into custody two weeks ago and his case was continued from time to time to permit him to show that he was not in the machine that broke the speed limits, but that it was some other person connected with the garage.

Prof. Lorenzo Greene of the horticultural department of the Iowa Agricultural college at Ames was in the city yesterday in connection with the department's work at the experimental orchard east of Council Bluffs, where a series of experiments covering a long term of years were begun this season. The heavy freezes in April and May killed all the apples in the orchard with the exception of six hardy little fellows which have been watched with tender solicitude by Profs. Greene and Bliss.

Miss Hattie McGoffern of Corning, Ia., will recover a suit case this morning which she thought had been stolen from her late yesterday afternoon. She was on a car coming from Omaha with her suit case by her side. When the crowded car began to disgorge its load at the Pearl street junction the suit case disappeared. Ten minutes later it was brought to the police station by a gentleman who said he had taken it by mistake, leaving his own, which he later recovered.

E. A. Hess, son of J. P. Hess and owner of the Hess fine stock farm lying just east of the city, is receiving the congratulations of his friends upon the handsome prizes he won at the Iowa state fair. He took a number of first prizes for the carload of shorthorn cattle entered by him. One for the best short horn bull he values very highly. He is so greatly encouraged by his success that he will probably enter the stock at other state fairs and many of the county fairs.

That a mechanic's lein secured by a contractor cannot be enforced when it is shown that the contractor had not fully complied with the specifications, is the dictum of a decision handed down by Judge Wheeler of the district court bench in the suit of William Hansen against Edward Walker. Judge Wheeler held, in reviewing the case, that the evidence showed failure to comply with the contract in numerous minor matters, which not only justified the defendant's request to make the final payment, but entitled him to damage. A judgment of $150 was entered against the contractor, together with costs of the suit. Walker is a member of the fire department located at No. 3 hose house, and lost a leg in an accident while on duty two years ago.

Clarence M. Bright of Council Bluffs and Miss Pearl Winans of Imogene, Ia., were granted a marriage license in Omaha on Monday. On Tuesday the license was returned to the office for cancellation, with some sort of a statement that there had been a change in the wedding plans. The names of the parties appeared in published marriage licenses in Tuesday's Omaha Daily Bee. Yesterday Mr. Bright's attention was called to it, and he came to the Council Bluffs office of The Bee emphatically declaring that he had not applied for any license, and was only reasonably well acquainted with Miss Winans. His only explanation of the matter was that some foolish acquaintance had secured the license, using his name and that of Miss Winans as a joke. He was very indignant and was talking about making it a serious affair for the jokers, who were guilty of falsifying a public record and perhaps of perjury.

John Reynolds, a 17-year-old youth employed as a waiter at the Oak restaurant on Bryant street, was in police court yesterday morning charged with larceny. Tuesday evening he served a customer to a lunch that cost 20 cents. The customer handed him what he thought were four nickels, but as he turned to leave the place he recalled the fact that he had a $5 gold piece in the same pocket with the small coin. An examination revealed its absence, but when he asked the waiter about it the lad stoutly denied any knowledge. After the disturbed customer left the place the proprietor asked the boy about the transaction and accused him of the theft. In place of denying the lad ran out the rear door and up the alley without coat or hat. He was closely followed by the proprietor, who overhauled him just as the boy was in the act of dropping the gold coin in a garbage barrel. The money was returned to the owner and the boy was sent to the police station, where he is being held for further investigation. The boy's parents have separated. The mother is living in South Dakota and the father is employed in the street cleaning department, trying to keep his family together.

Louis F. Post, the noted Chicago editor, addressed a gathering of woman suffragists at the state fair grounds today. Hundreds of little yellow pennants decorated the tent within which the exercises were held. Mrs. Julia Clark Hallam, the noted suffragette, was another speaker. Local advocates of the cause declare there has been a decided increase of favorable sentiment in Iowa since one year ago.

The Iowa postmasters' convention reelected all officers today as follows: Charles O. Barry, Walker, president; L. L. Reynolds, Little Sioux, secretary; C. A. R. Miner, Bussey, treasurer; telegates to the national convention, W. O. Bock of New Albion, C. F. Lecompte of Corydon, Hans Keiser of Elgin, C. O. Barry of Walker, H. M. Henderson of Story City, W. W. Banker Sued for Big Sum.

MASON CITY, Ia., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—One of the most important cases to come up in the courts of Worth county this term is that of Miss Laura Molsberry, daughter of Posthaster D. C. Molsberry of Plymouth, claiming from Banker Christianson of Graton $10,000 for damages sustained by her by being struck by an automobile driven by the banker. Miss Molsberry is supervisor of music in one of the schools of California and was at the time visiting with her parents, who reside on a farm a mile north of Plymouth. She claims that she sustained injuries which are serious and from which she probably will never recover. Senator Molsberry of Columbus Junction, her uncle, is engaged in the trial of the case with Colonel J. H. McConlogue of this city. The case will create considerable interest on account of the prominence of the parties interested.

Labor Picnic at Mason City.

MASON CITY, Ia., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Labor day will be generally observed in this city. The trades unions will have affairs in hand and have arranged for an elaborate picnic which will be held on the North Iowa fair grounds, Hon. Ed G. Dunn is one of the speakers on this occasion. All kinds of sports have been arranged. This is the second big function undertaken by the labor organizations of this city.

Iowa News Notes.

MASON CITY—News was received in this city of the death of Captain Ed J. Pratt at his home in Orange Park, Fla. He was one of the pioneer merchants of this city, coming here shortly after the war.

MARBLE ROCK—Two barns and two large straw sacks belonging to John Ewald, three miles north of here, were destroyed by fire, said to have been of incendiary origin, last night. The loss is $2,300.

ATLANTIC—The 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Dill, who live here, nearly drowned when playing in the yard by falling into a large candy pail filled with water. The child was nearly dead when pulled out of the water, but he soon revived.

LOGAN—Notwithstanding the drainage plans prepared by different engineers for rapid removal of the flood waters of the Soldier river and drainage district, embracing 20,000 acres of land, and their agreement in the main facts, approved by the Board of Supervisors and sustained by a decision by Judge O. D. Wheeler, following an exhaustive hearing in the district court of Harrison county and notwithstanding the annual loss of thousands of dollars to the land owners of the district, the Soldier river drainage project as planned by Engineer J. S. Wattles of Missouri Valley is again tied up in litigation. Attorneys Hazelton and Main of Council Bluffs appearing for the objectors, Attorneys L. W. Fallon, S. H. Cochran and C. W. Kellogg have been employed by the drainage promoters again to defend the Wattles plan of drainage for the Soldier river district.

Thomas Gillespie Alleges Douglas County Owes Him $100 for County Charge Tenants.

Douglas county has been summoned to appear before the justice court of P. C. Caldwell in South Omaha on September 6 as defendant in a suit for $100. Thomas Gillespie has brought suit for this amount on the ground that tenants occupying a house belonging to him, and who are charges of the county, have failed to pay their rent, and that, therefore, the county is responsible.

New York is the Second Largest City in the World

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Following its announcement of the population of Brooklyn today, the census bureau will tonight make a statement of the population of Greater New York as developed by the recent census. No intimation as to the exact figures has been given out, but it is known that the census bureau has prepared an estimate of growth, based on the increase shown between 1900 and 1905, which was something over 32 per cent, by which the present population would be over four and a half millions—in exact figures 4,563,604. A gain of 32 per cent for such a center of population will be almost marvelous and the result will be, not only to establish New York's position as the second city of the world, but to cause it to almost approach rivalry with London. The British metropolis still surpasses the American by about 3,000,000.

The population of Brooklyn is 1,634,351, an increase of 467,769, or 40.1 per cent as compared with 1,166,582 in 1900.

The population of Yonkers, N. Y., is 79,803, an increase of 31,872, or 66.5 per cent, as compared with 47,931 in 1900. The population of Elmira, N. Y., is 37,176, an increase of 1,504, or 4.2 per cent as compared with 35,672 in 1900.
