SUTOR DISMISSES HIS CASE

Willing Mabray Mike Unable to Prove Collusion of Local People.

JUDGE SAYS EVIDENCE LACKING

Court Repeatedly Declares Case Without Foundation and Minnesota's Lawyers Ditch It with Nine Others.

The suit of Samuel Sutor, Cass Lake, Minn., financier and hotel man, against the First National bank, Ernest E. Hart, its president; J. J. Spindler, its cashier, and Benjamin Marks, to recover $5,000 lost by Sutor when he played the willing "mike" for the benefit of the Mabray gang, came to a precipitous end this afternoon when at Council Bluffs yesterday afternoon Sutor's attorneys, Robertson and Crawford, moved to dismiss it without prejudice. In the complications that immediately followed nine more of the fourteen "mike" cases went the same way.

The end came at 3 o'clock, after the court had ordered the brief resumes to enable the attorneys for Sutor to find two alleged important witnesses and had failed to do so, and after Judge McPherson had declared in the most emphatic language his opinion of the evidence that had been submitted to sustain the charge that the defendant bank and its officers and agents had guilty knowledge of the plans and operations of the Mabray swindlers. Earlier in the day the court had ruled that Sutor could not recover unless he was able to make a prima facie case of conspiracy, involving the bank and one or all of the defendants.

Scott Takes Stand. Up to 4 o'clock a continual stream of the plaintiff's witnesses went on the stand and told the tale of how the swindling operations were conducted, but no attempt was made to connect the bank and others with the business until they put on Frank Scott of Pawnee, Okl., one of the Mabrayites, who first stated the evidence in detail, and securing the evidence that convicted the other indicted men. Scott said he knew nothing of his own knowledge, but was told by Mabray and the others that the Council Bluffs officers, one of the newspapers and many of the citizens had been "fixed," and that Ben Marks was "fixed" and was very uneasy, for directly in front of him at the council's table sat the venerable Colonel Stokes of Holt county, Missouri, who had known Scott all his life and who had been called to Council Bluffs by the defendants to impeach the Oklahoma man's testimony. Scott was to have been the star witness for the prosecution, but when it was to be shown that Marks and the bank officials were in frequent secret conferences with Mabray and his lieutenants, but he seemed very much disturbed by the intense open gaze of the Missouri colonel. He was thus only able to recall one instance when he saw Mabray speak to Marks and none whatever with any of the others. He saw Marks, driving along the road to Manawa one day, stop to examine a couple of coats hanging on the fence, and while doing so Mabray rode up and spoke to him, claiming the coats, and Marks drove away.

Court Incensed. After much similar testimony, in which there were insinuations indicating that all the city and county officers and a large percentage of the reputable citizens of the city had been "fixed," Judge McPherson losing patience, declared with emphasis: "I will not allow this court to be made a snuff mill. It is an injustice to allow the public officers, financial institutions and newspapers to be slandered by the gossip of this gang of scoundrels. You must make a prima facie case against one or more of these defendants before I will permit any more of the declarations of these conspirators to be admitted in evidence."

After traversing for three hours through evidence showing only the swindling character of all of the operations, by the testimony of many witnesses, who were also "mikes," including Congressman Thomas Cole of Alaska, who lost $6,000, W. H. H. Bedford, the Holook, Mo., capitalist, who lost $30,000; William M. McGrath, the Minneapolis lawyer, newspaper man who dropped $10,000, and several others, Judge McPherson again lost his patience. "I have permitted counsel for the plaintiff the widest latitude and let them consume the time of the court by floods of testimony showing the character of the swindlers in the face of the statement made by Mr. Tinley for the defense that defense would not controvert this evidence, and the only evidence the plaintiff has produced here to establish a prima facie case of conspiracy is that one man says he saw Ben Marks stop to examine two coats he saw hanging on a fence and Mabray came up and claimed them and Marks rode away, and the evidence of another witness who says he saw Mabray going several times into the rear of Marks' residence. That same state of facts could be true with me or with any person. There is not one iota of evidence here connecting the bank, Mr. Hart, Mr. Spindler, or any of these defendants with Mabray. There is nothing here to cause the slightest suspicion in the mind of the most suspicious person in this court room that Marks or any of these defendants had an understanding with Mabray."

McGrath Case Next. It was so plainly evident that Judge McPherson would sustain a motion by the defense to dismiss that Attorney Crawford and Robertson, after a hurried consultation, forestalled such a ruling by moving to dismiss the case without prejudice, and immediately to empanel a jury to hear the case of McGrath against the same defendants. Reference to the docket showed this case was one of the last to be tried and Judge McPherson said: "You will try the case according to the assignment or I will dismiss them all."

This still further complicated the situation and the attorneys maintained their standing in court by dismissing all of the cases pending between the Sutor suit and McGrath's. Judge McPherson immediately adjourned court, directing the United States marshal to have twenty-five additional jurors, all from outside of Pottawattamie county, in the court by 9 o'clock this morning.

Assistant Commissioner Abbott Says Omaha House is Best.

SAYS RESERVATIONS ARE FINE Returns to Washington After Long Tour Through Indian Lands, and Declares Department Work is at Top of Perfection.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—(Special Telegram.)—F. H. Abbott of Aurora, Neb., assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, arrived in Washington yesterday after an absence of some ten weeks, during which time he has traveled about 20,000 miles, covering an inspection of Indian schools, reservations, agencies and various other matters in connection with his office. His travels carried him into portions of the country without the zones of the usual railway travel; in fact, 4,000 miles of the distance traveled was on horseback, upon burros or in stage coaches.

Assistant Commissioner Abbott visited fourteen states wherein there are wards of the nation—the Indian—and returns ruddy and in the best of health, and enthusiastic over conditions existing in the country traveled, insofar as affects the Indian. During his tour Mr. Abbott visited four of the Indian warehouses, those at Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha and San Francisco. He will prepare shortly a report which will be embodied in the next annual report to congress upon the general subject of Indian warehouses. Mr. Abbott during his tour has looked very carefully into the vexed problems of transportation charges as affecting locations of Indian warehouses.

In speaking of the Indian warehouse at Omaha, Assistant Commissioner Abbott said he found that warehouse in an up-to-date building and the very best in every particular that he had visited.

Mr. Abbott also visited the Omaha and Winnebago reservations en route, further west and reports that conditions upon these reservations are all more satisfactory from the department viewpoint than had been anticipated. "Everything upon the Omaha and Winnebago reservations in Nebraska appears to be running very smoothly and everybody is apparently satisfied," said Abbott. "The new regulations made for the Omahas and Winnebagoes last spring by the department are most liberal and as free from onerous restrictions that have yet been attempted and the operation of these regulations appear to be working out to the satisfaction of all concerned and will doubtless be adopted as a model for future work upon other reservations where kindred conditions exist."

"Another matter worthy of mention," continued Mr. Abbott as to conditions on the Omaha and Winnebago reservations, "is that the 'practical farmers' appointed by the department have accomplished much good. As a direct result this season it appears that the Indians are farming on their own account three times as much land as was under cultivation under their own personal supervision last year and crops have been abundant. The plan works well and the Indians seem to have become interested and ambitious to reach out and put under cultivation new lands. In fact my observation has been that under our new regulations everything relating to the Omahas and Winnebagoes is working out even better than we anticipated."

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Sept. 8.—(Special Telegram.)—A letter which is being sent out from Omaha by Elmer E. Thomas to members of the populist state committee was shown here tonight in which Thomas advises the populists to endorse C. H. Aldrich for governor. The letter is written on the private stationery of Thomas and in it he says that on the face of the returns it appears Dahliman is nominated. He declares he is assured that Governor Shalmeberger will not make the race and he tells the populists it is their duty to select a candidate for the vacancy in line with their platform.

Thomas further says that he does not expect to be in the state when the committee meets, then he goes on to say that the election of Dahliman would be a calamity to the state and again urges the endorsement of Aldrich.

WONDERFUL CURE OF SORE HANDS

Skin Peeled and Flesh Got Hard and Broke—Blood Flowed in Fifty Places—Single Box of Cuticura Ended Suffering.

"About eleven years ago I was troubled with sore hands, so sore that when I would put them in water the pain would very nearly set me crazy, the skin would peel off and the flesh would get hard and break. There would be blood flowing from at least fifty places on each hand. Words could never tell the suffering I endured for three years. I tried everything that I was told to use for fully three years, but could get no relief. I tried at least eight different doctors, but none of them seemed to do me any good, as my hands were so bad when I got through doctoring as when I first began. I also tried many remedies, but none of them ever did me one cent's worth of good. I was discouraged and heartless. I would feel so bad mornings when I got up, to think I had to go to work and stand the pain for ten hours, and I often felt like giving up my position."

"Before I started to work mornings I would have to wrap every finger up separately, so as to try and keep them soft and then wear gloves over the rags to keep the grease from getting on my work. At night I would have to wear gloves in bed. In fact, I had to wear gloves all the time. After doctoring for three years, and spending much money, a single box of Cuticura Ointment ended all my sufferings. It's been eight years since I used any and I don't know what sore hands are now, and never lost a day's work while using Cuticura Ointment. Thomas A. Clancy, 310 N. Montgomery St., Trenton, N. SUTOR DISMISSES HIS CASE

He will prepare shortly a report which will be embodied in the next annual report to congress upon the general subject of Indian warehouses. Mr. Abbott during his tour has looked very carefully into the vexed problems of transportation charges as affecting locations of Indian warehouses.

In speaking of the Indian warehouse at Omaha, Assistant Commissioner Abbott said he found that warehouse in an up-to-date building and the very best in every particular that he had visited.

Mr. Abbott also visited the Omaha and Winnebago reservations en route, further west and reports that conditions upon these reservations are all more satisfactory from the department viewpoint than had been anticipated. "Everything upon the Omaha and Winnebago reservations in Nebraska appears to be running very smoothly and everybody is apparently satisfied," said Abbott. "The new regulations made for the Omahas and Winnebagoes last spring by the department are most liberal and as free from onerous restrictions that have yet been attempted and the operation of these regulations appear to be working out to the satisfaction of all concerned and will doubtless be adopted as a model for future work upon other reservations where kindred conditions exist."

"Another matter worthy of mention," continued Mr. Abbott as to conditions on the Omaha and Winnebago reservations, "is that the 'practical farmers' appointed by the department have accomplished much good. As a direct result this season it appears that the Indians are farming on their own account three times as much land as was under cultivation under their own personal supervision last year and crops have been abundant. The plan works well and the Indians seem to have become interested and ambitious to reach out and put under cultivation new lands. In fact my observation has been that under our new regulations everything relating to the Omahas and Winnebagoes is working out even better than we anticipated."
