New Books

THE WINDOW AT THE WHITE CAT. by Mary Roberts Rinehart; 37 pp.; $1.50; Bobbs-Merrill company.
This story is told in the first person, by a lawyer verging toward middle age, to whom a young woman comes who wants advice about her father, a politician and state official of bad odor who has suddenly sunk out of sight. The lawyer falls in love at once and endeavors to play detective. The "White Cat" of the title is a political club.

NEW FACES. by Myra Kelly; 278 pp.; $1.50; G. W. Dillingham company.
Eight stories which are not entirely confined to east side life as were many of Miss Kelly's former sketches. These stories were first published in periodicals and appear now in book form for the first time.

BUCKY O'CONNOR. by William MacLeod Raine; 35 pp.; $1.50; G. W. Dillingham company.
This story is set in the brown subalpine southwest. Its hero is an officer of the Arizona rangers. Confronted with a double mystery—involving a train hold-up, the discovery of a child abducted many years before, and the release of an American held in Mexican prison—this detourist and competent youth solves both, with the assistance of his friend Val Collins, a sheriff, who had clipped the word "fear" from his vocabulary.

DEEP IN PINEY WOODS. by M. Power O'Malley; 34 pp.; $1.25; Thomas Y. Crowell & Co.
The scene of this story is laid in the piney woods of southern Georgia, and the hero is called to take charge of a turpentine plantation. Incidentally much information is conveyed about the turpentine industry, about the little-known Voodoo worship among the negroes, and about the present-day relations between the white men and the blacks in the far south.

THE PEACOCK OF JEWELS. by Ferguson Hume; 35 pp.; $1.25; G. W. Dillingham company.
The story opens with the discovery of a murder. Prior to the crime the victim was known to be in possession of a stolen fam-

By jewel, known as "The Peacock or Jewels," which disappeared at the time of the tragedy. The tracking of the murderer and the search for the famous jewel is told with all the skill of this famous writer of detective stories.

JOHN MARSH'S MILLIONS. by Charles Klein and Arthur Hornblow; 32 pp.; $1.50; G. W. Dillingham company.
John Marsh dies leaving millions. His brother, a scoundrel and spendthrift, believes he is sole heir, but unknown to him, John has married secretly and made a new will, leaving all to his daughter. The girl comes to claim her inheritance and the uncle succeeds in getting himself appointed guardian. Her efforts to gain control of her father's fortune make a thrilling and dramatic tale.

WESTOVER OF WANALAH. by George Cary Eggleston; 331 pp.; $1.50; Lothrop, Lee & Shepard company.
This story deals with social and political conditions as they existed in ante-bellum Virginia. An important part is played by "Judy Peters," a singular female political boss in the mountain districts, who has appeared in a previous book, and is one of the most unique characters ever created in American fiction. Of course, there is a love story and a very charming one.

THE HOUSE ON STILTS. by R. H. Hazard; 246 pp.; $1.50; G. W. Dillingham company.
This story is about an island, a queer house in the middle of it, a defaulting bank president, a detective, a reporter, a pretty girl, a Yellow Queen, and a lot of other people and things. There is plenty of vim and go in the story and something doing all the time.

THE CASTLE BUILDERS. by Charles Clark Munn; 312 pp.; $1.50; Lothrop, Lee & Shepard company.
The chief "castle builder" is a young man who dreams of a city where the story finds but a sleepy coast village. He joins forces with "Uncle Asa" Webster, a rural philosopher, and the father of the heroine, the winning of whom bids fair to be a harder matter than securing power to turn his million spindles of the future.

Everybody Reads Bee Want Ads

To go into business

Many a man who has been in business, and who has accumulated a competency, is often willing to retire.
He will sell out if he gets the right kind of offer.
The only way to reach him is through The Bee.
He reads The Bee and watches the Business chances from day to day.
A line, saying that you want to enter the field, naming the kind of business you prefer and the section most desirable, together with your resources and available capital, will bring him out.
He will tell you what he has, and what is necessary for you to acquire his property.
It is worth while.
If you can't come to the office, phone Tyler 1000, Want Ad department, and a cheerful staff will write your ad and place it for you. Or, address a letter to the Want Ad Department, giving necessary information which may be used in an ad for you.

To go out of business

Not every man can succeed.
It may be that another can make your business go better than you.
The chances are that you are fitted for something else.
Maybe your fortune lies in undertaking an entirely different proposition.
It may be the time now to try.
Sell your business.
Go into something else.
There are purchasers for every business. People with available funds are reading The Bee daily with this identical idea in view.
If you can't come to the office, call Tyler 1000, the Want Ad Department, and a cheerful staff will write your ad and place it for you. Or, address a letter to the Want Ad Department, giving necessary information which may be used in an ad for you.

Land as an investment

Buy it.
Buy every foot of it that looks good to you.
Many people in Nebraska are rich today because they bought land.
It is the safest investment on earth.
The country is growing.
Land is advancing.
The day will come when the man with moderate means can't buy land.
Now is the chance of a lifetime for every man, young or old.
In The Bee people have learned to look for land sales, land bargains, and real estate deals of all kinds. They have made money out of it. They are making money today.
In the Land and Real Estate column of The Bee today you will find many tempting offers. Read them.
If you have anything to offer the other man, phone Tyler 1000, or write the Want Ad Department, and a cheerful staff will write your ad and place it.
