

CONNELL TALKS TO DAIRYMEN

Tells Them They Must Obey Rules or Close Their Places.

MORE CARE IN CASE OF DISEASE

Dr. Connell Denies that He is Interested in Any of the Larger Dairies, but is in Favor of Pasteurization.

Dairymen who carry on the retail milk trade in Omaha met in the council chamber in the city hall Wednesday night and were advised by Dr. Connell of what the new regime in dairy inspection expects of them. The ordinances of the city and the rules for regulating dairies which have been given out by the national agricultural experts must be strictly adhered to, and the health commissioner was particularly strong in his condemnation of the practice of refilling bottles from the wagon.

Contagious diseases that break out in the families or among the employees of dairymen must be cared for more strictly than ordinarily cases and every possible precaution taken to avoid the contamination of the milk.

Dr. Connell denied that he was interested in any dairy or in the retail business of selling pasteurization machines. He is, however, strongly in favor of having all milk pasteurized as a preventive measure.

Some of the dairymen took the opportunity to reiterate accusations against the commissioner on the score of favoring large creameries and desiring to drive out the little retailers. The commissioner on the other hand, the assertions and continued in his demands that the milk sold in Omaha must be produced under the most sanitary conditions possible.

Lo, Poor Indian, on a Joy Ride

Many Braves In to See Wild West Show and to Blow In Their Money.

Scores of Omaha and Winnebago Indians came in from the reservation to see the wild west show and they took in both the parade and the afternoon performances. They came in with money, too. The retail shops were full of them and the rich redskins were seen out-riding in an automobile hired at the rate of $4 an hour. There were eight of them in the car.

In their eagerness to see the parade, two braves riding on a sixteenth street car nearly fell out the window so far had they thrown themselves out. One of them, John Thin Wolf by name, grunted several times as his fellow braves went by.

"Him think him hear big noise," opined John, of a chief who rode proudly in his gliding warpon.

A burly braver, followed by his no less burly square, toiled patiently up the stairway into the tower of the New York Life building to get a view of the city, because he could not reconcile himself to riding in the elevator. After he and his wife had surveyed the broad expanse of city to be seen from the tower, they calmly started their long walk to the street, twelve floors below.

GREETING FOR NEWLYWEDS

Friends of C. L. Bowling Decorate His Office in the Bennett Building.

"Office closed. Business suspended. I've just been married," was the sign that greeted C. L. Bowling, manager of the Post-Dispatch, when he returned from his office in the Bennett building, where he had been to get married.

The bride was formerly Miss Rachael Noble of Winfield, and the wedding was held September 20, there. When the couple arrived in Omaha, C. L. and his bride came up to the office and found themselves stared in the face by the huge sign over the door and the new husband. The desk itself was decorated with all manner of rattles, rattles, rings and like hardware and adorned with huge bouquets of flowers, the gift of the office men to the bride.
