

R. G. VALENTINE IN OMAHA

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Explains His Work.

INDIANS AT WORK ON FARMS

Visitor Points Out How Industrial Work Develops Health of Red Men—Would Make Them Farmers.

"The two things upon which I would lay the greatest stress are, first the improvement of the physical health of the Indians in every possible way not only by the cure of disease but by its prevention and the building up of strong bodies; second, industrial and farming work and day laboring. If we can accomplish these two things we shall solve the Indian problem, make the Indian self-supporting and self-respecting and fitted to be a taxpayer."

This was the statement last night of United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs R. G. Valentine, when speaking at the Rome hotel of his impressions of the Indian reservations he has visited during the past two weeks. Accompanied by Major James McLaughlin, inspector of the department, he is making his annual tour of the reservations. He has been through the reservation in Minnesota and Dakotas and today returns to South Dakota, resuming his tour at Dallas. He expressed general satisfaction with the conditions he found and taking the country over he said he was very much encouraged with the progress the Indians were making.

Mr. Valentine emphasized the efforts being made to make farmers of the red men by having practical farmers, acquainted with local conditions, live on the reservations.

FIGHTING BOB AND COL. CODY GUESTS OF HONOR

Newspaper Men of Portland, Ore., Break Bread with Two Fighters.

Rear Admiral Robley D. "Fighting Bob" Evans and Colonel W. F. Cody greeted each other in a remarkable meeting at a Portland, Ore., banquet Sunday evening, according to a report. The two distinguished men were guests, with a big gathering of newspaper writers at a banquet given by the Portland Commercial club.

One a scout of the sea, the other a scout of the land, and both the heroes of famous victories, the aged warriors formed a strong friendship within a few minutes after their remarkable meeting.

There were eighty-six newspaper men in the gathering, the largest number of such craftsmen that was ever brought together on a festive occasion in Portland. This unusual attendance of scribes was made possible by reason of the time set for its occurrence. Sunday noon is the only hour at which at least a portion of the newspaper men are not at work, and was chosen so that the most men of the profession might be got together.

Rear Admiral Evans was introduced as one of the free and easy, who stand out pre-eminent in the annals of the American navy. He delivered a short address in which he pointed out the need for a fleet of battleships on the coast. The naval man declared the coast population was resting in peace because its neighbors are peaceful. "If your neighbors were not peaceful," he said, "you would be like a lot of jelly-fish. This country needs a fleet of formidable ships, with a complement of coilers and supply stations along its coast in order to be safe."

"Buffalo Bill," responded to a toast by telling several very amusing stories relating to his early life on the plains.

BLOOD DISEASES CONTAGIOUS TROUBLES. Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly permeates the system than any other disease. Its infectious virus contaminates every corpuscle and tissue of the circulation, and for this reason its symptoms are of a varied nature. When it enters the blood it is but a short time until the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the skin becomes spotted, rashes and eruptions appear on the body, sores and ulcers break out, the hair falls, and frequently nails on hands and feet thicken and come off. Mineral medicines which simply shut the poison up in the system should be avoided, for when such treatment is left off the old disease will break out again, often worse than before. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison permanently, and it does so because it thoroughly purifies the blood. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and drives out the last trace of the destructive germs, adds richness and vigor to the circulation and allows it to nourish the diseased portions of the body back to health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, without a particle of mineral, and its vegetable ingredients always hasten the cure by toning up the stomach and digestive members. Home Treatment Book and any medical advice free to all who write.

New Books

Fiction. THE NATIVE BORN, by I. A. R. Wylie; 41 pp.; $1.00; Bobbs-Merrill company. The scene of this story is laid in India and four characters furnish the material: John Stafford, a young English officer; Lois Carruthers, who turns out later to be his half-sister; Nehal Singh, supposed to be a young Indian noble, and Beatrice Carey, an English girl. The plot is original and the tale is interestingly told.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM, by S. R. Crockett; 24 pp.; 45c; The Macmillan company. An exciting adventure beginning in a "haunted house," and culminating in the beautiful love story of a brave young scottish lad for a girl of noble birth, is the thread around which this story is spun. There is a Scottish humor and a Scottish tone to the characterizations which is as delightful as the story itself is absorbing.

THE GARDEN OF FATE, by Roy Norton; 34 pp.; $1.00; W. J. Watt & Co. The scene of this novel is laid in Morocco. The story moves rapidly from one adventure to another with the atmosphere of the romantic and mysterious east over it all. There is an interesting love story running through the book which ends most delightfully.

THE BARRIER, by Rene Basin; 218 pp.; $1. Charles Scribner's Sons. A novel of English as well as French life today. The hero, an Englishman, falls in love with a French girl of deeply religious character. The story is simply told and well translated and instinct with human sympathy.

THE RED BLOODED, by Edgar Beecher Bronson; 24 pp.; $1.50; A. C. McClurg & Co. These are tales of the plains of forty years ago, and later "red-blooded" adventures in the west. These stories are from personal experience of Mr. Bronson, and while they are so full of adventure, humor, and strong climaxes that their author says they may be regarded as fiction, he draws them, as a matter of fact, from actual happenings.

THE WATER GOATS AND OTHER TROUBLES, by Ellis Parker Butler; 101 pp.; Doubleday, Page & Co. The large body of readers who laughed over and applauded "Pigs is Pigs" as a potent dispenser of blues will welcome this more than worthy successor. The book contains three short stories, "The Water Goats," being the title story.

SALLY ANN'S EXPERIENCE, by Eliza Calvert Hall; 46 pp.; 50c; Little, Brown & Co. This story first appeared in the Cosmopolitan magazine some years ago and was published in the first chapter in "Aunt Jane of Kentucky." The present volume is illustrated with a frontispiece in color and decorative borders.

POETRY. THE CLOSED BOOK AND OTHER POEMS, by Leolin Louise Everett; 28 pp.; $1.25; Wessels and Bissell Co. The title poem is followed by short poems on various subjects.

EL DORADO, by Francis I. Maudslayi; 12 pp.; $1. The Cosmopolitan company. This volume contains four weird Alaskan tales, and is attractively bound and illustrated.

SUNWAYS OF BONG, by Alonso I. Rice; 100 pp.; $1; Sherman French & Co. A collection of miscellaneous verse in varying moods.

Textbooks. VOCATIONAL EDUCATION, by John M. Gillette; 31 pp.; $1; American Book company. The author explains the principles, demands and methods of vocational education, states the grounds upon which hopes of success may reasonably rest, indicates some actual results gained by schools conducted on more practical lines and points

THE NECESSARY THINGS. "Have you heard of the civil service examinations for ambassadors?" inquired the man with the fur on his overcoat. "No," replied the man next the car window. "I haven't heard of it. Are they examining 'em now?" "Yes, they are 'em one question." "One question only? What's that?" "Are you a multimillionaire and a free spender?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COOPER'S LAST OF THE MOHICANS, adapted for school reading, by Margaret N. Haight; 100 pp.; 35 cents; American Book company. The adventures of Chingachgook, Uncas and Hawkeye, which have delighted so many generations of readers, are here published in a form suitable for pupils of the grammar grades. Only those portions of the original narrative have been omitted which do not bear directly on the story, and which are neither suitable nor interesting to the average boy and girl.

EASY FRENCH PROSE COMPOSITION, by A. H. Guerber; 91 pp.; 35 cents; American Book company. The exercises consist of twenty-five sections in English, with the necessary indications of correct idiomatic renderings. The principle of constant repetition is applied throughout the exercises, which therefore give ample practice in a steadily enlarging vocabulary. The material used is simple and familiar.

STORIES OF AMERICAN DISCOVERERS FOR LITTLE AMERICANS, by Foss Lucia; 134 pp.; 40 cents; American Book company. The fifty short stories tell in vividly dramatic form discoveries and explorations in the western hemisphere, from Columbus to Hudson. The stories are in chronological order and give a clear idea of how the various European nations become sharers in North and South America.

GRAMMAR OF ESPERANTO, by Ivy Kellerman; 228 pp.; D. C. Heath & Co. A combination of grammar and reader with graded exercises and translation with full vocabularies. When you have anything to sell or exchange advertise it in The Bee Want Ad columns and get quick results.
