urday afternoon with Amity college of College Springs, Ia. Although Amity is not in the College league and is not very well known in Nebraska foot ball circles, they play good foot ball in fast company, and the game Saturday will be well worth seeing. The team is rounding into shape very satisfactorily. It is the policy of Coach Mc-Coy not to give any man a cinch on any position, and so far the candidates for each position have been used impartially in signal practice and scriminage. The full back position is the most hotly contested for; Rice, Clabaugh, Fowler and Paulsen are being used, with the honors about evenly divided between Clabaugh and Rice. Johnson at quarter handles the ball well, and is fast gaining the confidence of the team and fans. The line is a mountain of strength. Captain Barry has been working out at tackle instead of his old position at center, and will probably be kept there if a man can be found out of the abundance of heavy line material to fill the central posi-Mastin and Primrose are working at the end; both men are fast and experienced, and if they are kept will be the biggest pair of ends in the state, both men standing over six feet. The whole line will average about 175. Jones and Joe Clabaugh, Maxwell, Paulsen and Holmes, all of whom, with the exception of Maxwell, have played intercollegiate foot ball at Believue in '08 and '09, are fighting for the half back position. The line-up for Saturday's game is known only to Coach McCoy, who is not given to divulging his plans, but the team that will line up against Iowa college will surpass any foot ball machine turned out at Believue for years.

Senator Makes Address in Which He Takes Stand Against Government by Corporations. YORK, Neb., Sept. 29 .- (Special.)-A large udience listened to Senator Norris Brown here last night. The senator was preceded by Charles C. Smith of Exeter, candidate for state senator on the republican ticket. Senator Brown directed much of his effort to state issues. He maintained that the issues of the campaign were made by the people, as is generally the case, but more especially so this year when the leading spot the race was finished, and the cars state issue was freely discussed for months were driven away. Daemon was unable to in advance of the conventions and platforms which were formulated in response the number of the cars, which he says were to the demands of the people. He said the politicians had been running from the issues of this campaign for years, but the people under the primary system had taken hold of the reins and made the platform secured. The defendants have appealed to themselves and then nominated a candidate

The senator made a strong argument "The American people are struckling for earnest and determined than now."
