Leighton Collins Discusses the Impossible Situation Now Existing and Suggests a Campaign of Education.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 .- Golfers who neither recent national championship tournament at Broookline, Mass., now realize the all too apparent need for a change, so far as eligibility conditions go. Heretofore all that has been required of a person to make him eligible to compete in the blue ribbon event of the year has been for him to be a member of some club belonging to the United States Golf association. The result this year was the unprecedented entry, "Jimmy" Johnstone Argues that Chiwhich all but demoralized the officials.

In other words, after being snowed under with the hitherto unheard of mass of 293 starters, committeemen admit that the time for action has arrived; in fact, is imperative. When it becomes impossible to get the field around before dark on the first day, a certain element of luck, not to say

Views of Leighton Collins.

Leighton Calkins, the man who did so much toward the revision of the United States Golf association constitution last winter, has expressed himself as follows:

"Since the amateur championship held at persons whether, in my judgment, a nathe rating of all players who are members of United States Golf Association clubs so as to produce a list from which candidates for the principal event of the year could be chosen, limiting entries, for example to players rated at six or lower.

"Frankly, I do not think the work could be done properly, or, rather, thoroughly, and if not, it would better not be undertaken at all. There are many reasons why the work would fail, and it will suffice to name a few. In the first place, the national committee would be fortunate if it got returns from 80 per cent of the clubs. That would mean, in the National association. at least sixty clubs out of 300 that would either not be heard from at all or from which the returns would be so inadequate as to be absolutely valueless. WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.-Clyde Milan, American league base ball team, comes from Linden, Tenn., which is a typical dent in a mountain. Hardly an acre of the stubby ground is on the level. There Milan learned to play base ball. The diamond was the main artery of the town, and nothing served to disturb the boy but the bray of a grazing mule. Stones hedged the limits of the infield, and even today the body of Clyde is covered with scars, mute testimony to the obstacles which he surmounted to practice at base ball. # S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POI cause from the blood. Trying to kill the germs within the system or counteract disease cells in the circulation with powerful mineral medicines not only results in failure, but also weakens the more delicate and vital tissues, and allows the original trouble to attack other portions of the body.

It is solely on the principle of purifying the blood that S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison, and it does this because it is the one blood medicine that is able to remove every particle of the insidious virus from the circulation. It does not work on the principle of killing one poison by taking another, or trying to dry up the germs in the blood, but S. S. S. cleanses the circulation and REMOVES the cause.

Contagious Blood Poison is a deceptive and stealthy trouble. It begins in an insignificant manner, usually the appearance of a tiny pimple or sore being the only outward evidence of its presence. But down in the blood the treacherous infection is at work, and in a short time the victim finds his body is affected from head to foot. The mouth and throat ulcerate, skin eruptions break out, sores and ulcers appear on the body, brown splotches disfigure the skin, the glands in the groin swell, and as the poison becomes more thoroughly saturated into the blood the hair and eyebrows come out.

Contagious Blood Poison is too dangerous to trifle with. Medicines which merely check the progress of the poison for a time and leave the insidious germs smouldering in the blood, have brought misery and disappointment to thousands. Faithfully they took such treatment for months, perhaps years, only to find when it was left off that the vicious disease was ready to crop out again in all its former destructiveness.

Contagious Blood Poison can be cured only when the blood has been made pure. This is just what S. S. S. does and has been doing for forty years, and it does it so perfectly that not the slightest trace of the old infection is left cause trouble in the future. S. S. S. goes into the circulation, and while removing the cause makes the blood fresh, rich and healthy. This causes a general upbuilding of the entire system, and when S. S. S. has made a cure in a case of Constitutional Blood Poison the patient experiences a change to vigorous, robust health.

58 Clinton St., Newark, N. J. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks. It does not contain the slightest particle of Mercury, Potash or any other mineral substance to upset the stomach, affect the bowels, or inflame the delicate membranes and tissues of the body. On the other hand it is a fine tonic, made entirely of botanical ingredients which aid the system in every way to overcome the effects of Contagious Plood Poison.

We have a specially prepared book on Home Treatment of this trouble, which contains much valuable information to be found nowhere We will send this book without charge to all who write and request it.
