HUMOR

Brightside and His Boy

"Borrowing Money in Chunks." Their Latest Tabloid Sketch.

BY LAFAYETTE PARKS
"Banking methods that permit a man to get $200,000 without any security, strikes me as being a strange condition in financial affairs," begins Brightside, as sagacious "Bos," the human encyclopaedia, strolls in for the daily word diet.

"That doesn't look very businesslike to me," protests Father.
"If they thought you needed the long green for any real business," declares Son, "they'd put the time lock on the vault, ring the burglar alarm and yell for the police."

WHAT'S THE USE

Things You Want to Know

The Automobile Industry.

Two meetings will be held in St. Louis this week which will possess unusual interest to the American public. The Automobile Association of America will meet Thursday in an annual convention, and the third National Good Roads congress will convene on the same day.

Daughters of Famous Men

Miss Viola Fortescue, the actress, who appears as Mrs. Simpson in the dramatization of Kate Douglas Wiggin's "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," is the daughter of George K. Fortescue, the heavyweight comedian, who for the last twenty years has been identified with so many successful productions of comic opera, musical comedy and extravaganza.

The DIARY of DOLLIE

A Summer Girl BY M.F.

THURSDAY—I got back home a day or two ago, and although I thought it might seem quiet after Mrs. Deering's, there have been moments when I have been more exciting than any place I have been to this summer.

Tom, who is always regarded by relatives as a prize in the way of a husband, I would choose the former in a minute. The day after I got back I got a telegram from Tom asking if he couldn't come down. It seemed too perfect.

TRUTH OF IT
"Didn't you tell me he made a living painting pictures?"
"No, I did not. I said he painted pictures to make a living."

Items of Interest for the Women Folk

The "native costume of the American woman," as some cloyer punster has named the tailor-made, makes possible the wearing of waists of every sort of material and every design, from the plainest of shirtwaists of mannish design to linen and chevvy, for street, business and travel uses.

The Gentle Cynic

Lots of men never grasp an opportunity till some other fellow has a hold of it.
The proof of the pudding is in the encore.

Daily Health Hint

According to Dr. Charles Asbury Stephens there is a premature deterioration of the brain cells in ninety-nine out of every 100 adults in America, from a lack of good habits in resting them.

Momentous Question

In the pleasant autumn weather, when the leaves begin to glow, and the forest looks as brilliant as the sky in the show.

BIBUNDERSTOOD

"Jolly fellow, your brother. So full of spirits. He tried to kiss me yesterday."
"He must have been."
