Things You Want to Know

The Government at Work—The State Department.

The Department of State employs the smallest force of any department of the government, but it is first in rank, and its official head is regarded as the premier of the cabinet.

The contingent fund of the State department is the one appropriation made by the federal government that requires no accounting to the people.

Many rules and regulations are prescribed to govern the conduct of America's diplomatic representatives abroad. They are required to be chary in the matter of giving interviews or making speeches involving questions at issue or questions which might be raised between their government and the ones to which they are sent.

The consular service is in many ways the most interesting part of America's representation abroad. The consuls bear the same relation to American business interests in foreign countries that the diplomatic service sustains to governmental interests abroad.

The Tired Business Man Tells Friend Wife Mr. Taft Would Rather Be 'In Right' Than Be President.

BY WALTER A. SINCLAIR.

"I see that President Taft told the inmates of the Cincinnati Incurable Boys' Home that there are other places which give more happiness than the presidency," observed Friend Wife.

"ADVICE"

ing that it was not the happiest place where there was a president emeritus or a super-president frisking around the country, crowding the stage center hard and keeping the spotlight operator perspiring freely.

He might have assured them that there were bigger salaries awaiting them as presidents of predatory trusts than were paid to those who get the White House rent free.

"But isn't it just like incurables to want to be president? On the other hand, if we don't get our future presidents from homes for incurables, where will we get them? We are entirely out of log cabins, the kind which cleared the way for Washington, Lincoln and the first Harrison.

"President Taft shouldn't discourage boys from wishing to reach his office. Heavens knows it's as hard to get any one to take the job as it was to get a vice president. I suppose Mr. Taft isn't comfortable in the presidency because of the spirit manifestations."

Dottie Dialogues

"Car coming!" cried Dottie, whereat I leapt nervously a couple of yards. "Don't mention that to me suddenly," I ordered.

"You mean 'throw on the high' speaking automobileably," she corrected. "Do I infer that your little trip to the cup races in Mr. Guiney's stationery-and-English basement automobile,—" "How did you know it was stationery?" she exclaimed, amazed.

GERMANS ARE IN MUTINY

Society is Organized for Suppression of Present Dangerous Customs of Lifting One's Hat.

"Why raise your hat?" is the motto of the Society for the Promotion of German Modes of Greeting, whose headquarters are at Darmstadt. It is a wonderful habit, because it wears out the brim of the hat, it is unhealthy because in bad weather it is likely to bring on colds.

CRUEL TRUTH

A convenience for the home milliner, when it becomes the question of trimming a large hat, the "ready to add" wreath of ostrich feathers.

The newest scarf is not only smart but extremely practical, and it is not necessary to pay the price asked in the stores for it, if one is willing to do the required sewing, which is simple enough, at home.

Proper Proportion Must Be Observed in Decorating the House

When a house or apartment is to be entirely repapered it is of the utmost importance that designs shall be selected to scale the colors chosen.

MATTER OF QUANTITY.

"Does he make good money?" "Oh, yes—but very little!"

Daily Health Hint

According to Emily M. Bishop in "Seventy Year's Young," every person who would keep old age at bay should seek newness of experience, of thought, emotion, environment, association and personal expression.

The Dyspeptic Philosopher

A musical comedy star, to be successful, must be able to kick at least as high as she can sing.
