Foreign Boy is Tagged—Unable to speak a word of English, but labored to his destination with a tag. Theo Megremis is traveling from Sioux City to Salt Lake City. He had just come from the old country and had gone as far as Sioux City with friends who knew his language and the only words he seemed to understand were the place his tag read and his age, which he stated was 13 years. Before Luncheon Board—Neighbors of Mrs. A. Kirschnoff, Twelfth and Arthur streets, a member of the National River and Thursday morning and had been arrested and lodged in the county jail on a charge of insanity. Mrs. Kirschnoff has been before the Board of Commissioners of Insanity several times. They have tried to help her and for a time she was in the county hospital. The woman is not violently insane. Club is a Member—The Commercial club rises to remark that an error was made upon the floor of the real estate exchange meeting Wednesday evening. It being said by a speaker that the club is a member of the National River and Harbors congress. The fact is that the club has been a member for many years and at the present time holds a certificate of membership showing dues paid to April 27, 1911. Annual dues of the congress are $5 and the club has willingly paid this for a long time. Station is Darkened—Just as the crowds were becoming the thickest at the Union station in Omaha Wednesday night after the electrical parade, every electric light in the station went out, leaving the crowd of passengers in the dark except for a few gas lights or the side walls. For the rest of the night the station employees, armed each with a lantern, worked like Trojans and got every passenger off on the right train and no one injured. The crowd at the station was also the largest that has been in it for years, as all the night trains had extra cars on for Ak-Sar-Ben, besides five extra trains leaving at that time with the holiday crowds. New Utah Map—Up to this time very little has been printed about the agricultural resources of the state of Utah, but much valuable information on this subject is now given to the public in the shape of a folder just issued by the passenger department of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad under the title of "The Lands of Utah." Data relating to the water supply and the flow of the streams, together with some facts regarding the area, land values, products, etc., are given in condensed form and in shape for ready reference. A valuable map of the state of Utah and photographs taken in the various agricultural districts serve to illustrate the publication and add much to its attractiveness and value. Burglars Get Busy—While every one was down town last night watching the parade burglars plied their trade with great industry and some little success. They made their best haul at the rooming house of Mrs. J. A. Pyle, 304 Devonport street. Out of Mrs. Pyle's room they got three valuable watches, one of the watches having a gold case, also some rings set with chip diamonds. In Miss E. Peterson's room they secured a ring set with a number of brilliant and four pearls, a silver ring, some pointed lace handkerchiefs and a revolver. Out of Fred Buffington's room they got a revolver and a watch. At William Scannon's residence, 1911 Douglas, the burglars secured a pocketbook containing $35. Parade Horse Throws Expert Hugh R. Fitch, Only Real Rough Rider in Pageant, Suffers Dislocated Hip. Hugh R. Fitch, an experienced horseman, is suffering at his home with a dislocated hip as the result of an accident to him while riding in the electrical parade Wednesday night. Used to bucking bronchos and hard galloping steeds on the prairies, Mr. Fitch met his downfall in a freakish circumstance, while amateurs rode successfully through the city. The horseman was one of those riding in front of float No. 13. Just as the pageant was reaching its disbanding point, a stop caused the line to become congested, and at that moment an automobile frightened Mrs. Fitch's animal. The horse swung around in a small space and keeled over, falling upon its rider's leg. Mr. Fitch is not thought seriously injured. HILL LINE HAS MORE RECORDS Runs 211 Days Out of the Last 214 on Time and Beats of the Year. Running on time for 211 days out of 214 is the record advanced by the officials of the Burlington railroad for their train service. From the 1st of March, 1910, to the 1st of September, in which this record had been kept, the fast mail, No. 7, on this line coming from Chicago has been in Omaha on time always except twice in March and once in May—May 21. The Chicago-Omaha express also boasts a record since March 1st, having appeared late but fourteen days during the period. The fast mail holding the record has been the mail train for twenty-six years and runs the 48 miles at a speed of forty and one-half miles per hour, carrying the mail from New York as received from the eastern trains at Chicago. Capt. Bogardus Again Hits Bull's-Eye This World famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed, he says: "I suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and used several well known kidney medicines, all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley Kidney Pills I had severe backache and pains in my kidneys with oppression and a cloudy voiding. On arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and again feel like my own self." Building Permits. Roman Catholic building board, Fortieth and Burlington, called superintendent No. 22, 400 W. J. F. Surgen, forty-eight avenue and Leavenworth, cement block dwelling, $1,500.

RECORDS GO ALL TO SMASH

Street Car Company Hauls More People Than Ever Before. MERCHANTS ARE ALL JUBILANT All of Them Report an Enormous Business of Cash Sales and Cafes Are Taxed to Their Full Capacity. Wednesday, October 5, will go down in the history of Omaha as one of the biggest days the city has known. In some ways it was the biggest in the annals of Nebraska's metropolis. The Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway company broke all its records by carrying more than 20,000 people during the day and evening. "Between 250,000 and 300,000 fares were collected," said Assistant General Manager Leussler. "It was the biggest day the company has ever known, beating the next biggest day by about 15,000 people. This second biggest day was the day of the electrical parade two years ago. This was passed by about 6 per cent." The street car company had 300 cars running Wednesday night to carry the Ak-Sar-Ben crowds and could have utilized to advantage 500 more cars, but not all the street cars in Chicago would have sufficed to carry the hordes who flocked downtown, beginning at 6:30 p. m. The company did its utmost and there is general recognition of this fact. Individuals by whom completely loaded cars whizzed by felt aggrieved for a time perhaps, but no just complaints were made. It was the "biggest day" for others also. Never before have the cafes served so many persons as last night, and during the day the big stores and little ones also broke records for cash receipts from sales. Except for holiday shopping, the department stores saw records go to smash in nearly all of their branches. It was not quite cool enough to make heavy clothing equal one day of 1909, when it was very chilly, but otherwise the volume of sales was extraordinary. It was the "biggest day" so far at Fort Omaha, with the electrical parade which hauled 25,000 people, according to official determination. It was the "biggest day" with respect to the number of people who saw the electrical parade; this is undebated, and nearly everyone declares that in his or her opinion the electrical parade was the liveliest tribute the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben have ever paid to one of the ruling line. Members of the board of governors are feeling happy over the way the procession was received, particularly so, Charles D. Beaton, chairman of the parade committee, who, with Gus Renze, worked conscientiously all the summer. It is an open secret that one or two of the floats which elicited the greatest applause and made the most merriment were the subject of some discussion among the governors; notably so the "Strenuous Hereafter" and the "Women's Rights." Mr. Beaton thought hard for some time and the popular verdict has justified him. The "Woman's Rights" float is still being talked about by everyone who saw the parade, and that is to say, everyone in Omaha, South Omaha and the environs who was over 2 years of age and not ill in bed. PUN CALLS OUT RESERVE FORCE Revelers Become Tired Wednesday Night, but Chirp Up Again. That reserve force, which is a characteristic of the Nebraskan was called on somewhat this morning by the thousands of visitors, after the festivities of the night before and very few tired faces were seen on the streets. Wednesday night it was a tired though satisfied crowd that wended its way homeward after the parade, and it was the same crowd that hustled out this morning bright and early to see every bit of Omaha. The crowd certainly recurred rapidly and it drew heavily on the reserve force. Not a man among all the visitors who expressed himself but who was satisfied with the escort of the king and by many it was pronounced the best of all. That the people were more numerous along the line of march than ever before seems to be the general verdict. The fact that Omaha was able to care for such a multitude has been gratifying to the visitors and those whose work kept them up late Wednesday night say the streets had been cleared of people at a reasonable hour and appeared to be in a place to sleep. At least there has been no complaint so far heard, officially. Many left the city after the parade and others remained, while the trains are bringing in more. The military parade, which was made a feature last year, has been as good a drawing card as anything, according to many as the electrical pageant. Hundreds who missed the parade of last night are here to see Uncle Sam's defenders. The carnival has proven a great leveller, and millionaire and poor man brush shoulders on the carnival grounds and on the streets, all making up a happy, care-free humanity. Among the visitors are old and young, some who passed over Omaha when it was nothing more than a village, and others are taking part in the proceedings who have evidently seen the light within the year. In fact the baby parade was the king's Highway. There were numerous, which attests the splendid order that is being maintained and which speaks volumes for the good behavior of the common every-day people. With the carnival grounds so packed that it is impossible to make headway against the crowds there has been no complaints of bad behavior. Among the visitors who have just reached the city is Dave Rowden, commander of the Soldiers' home at Milford. Colonel Rowden was formerly superintendent of the city hall under Mayor Dahlman, but followed Governor Shallenberger into a better but shorter job. When the mayor got the nomination for governor Colonel Rowden was stricken with illness and for a time it looked as though he would have to resign his place. But he hid himself to Excelsior Springs and stayed two weeks, cutting short his treatment in order to get back in time for Ak-Sar-Ben. "It's great; I tell you it's great," said "Colonel Dave." "It's a sight better than it's ever been before, and the going some," he said, discussing the parade. His friends are satisfied the colonel has recovered. Judge Hollenbeck of the Dodge county district is another of the Wednesday arrivals. Judge Hollenbeck has considerable advantage over the ordinary man these times, inasmuch as he stands head and shoulders above the average person. He saw the entire parade and viewed critically every float. And he did not have to stand on a box to do it. After the parade it is the expectation of the management that every person who is within the city will visit the carnival grounds. Several special stunts will be put on in the various shows tonight, for it is the hope to make this the banner night so far. The Board of Governors is well satisfied with the expressions of appreciation of those who have visited the carnival grounds, and the board is urging the showmen to get up the best that is in them for tonight. The response will be general, and every person who goes to the King's Highway will come away satisfied and happy. Most Wonderful Healing. Blair Farmer Killed by Train on Way Home

Orville Brown, Driving Home from Carnival, Receives Injuries Causing Quick Death. While driving toward his home near Blair after a night at the carnival, Orville Brown, a farmer, received injuries that caused his death through being struck by a fast passenger train of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad Wednesday night. Mr. Brown was accompanied by a friend, who escaped with but slight injuries in the accident. The accident occurred about 100 feet across the Douglas county line, and it is unknown in which county the inquest will be held. Brown was taken while still alive toward Omaha for treatment, but he died on the way in. Mr. Brown's wife died about three years ago. He is survived by a small daughter. Last Sad Rites for Dead Soldier Military Funeral is Given the Late Lieutenant L. H. Kilbourne Thursday Morning. The late Lieutenant Louis H. Kilbourne was given a military funeral Thursday morning, and his body was placed in the receiving vault at Forest Lawn cemetery temporarily, after a platoon of cavalrymen had fired a salute and the bugler had sounded taps. Nebraska Lodge No. 1, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, held services according to the Masonic ritual at 9 o'clock. This service was held at the temple, Sixteenth and Capitol avenues, with Past Master Charles L. Shook in charge. On its completion the casket was carried to the street by a detail of non-commissioned officers of the cavalry and placed on a caisson, to which it was securely strapped. Covering the coffin was the United States flag. The funeral procession was preceded by the mounted band of the Seventh cavalry, and then came a platoon of cavalrymen. The caisson carrying the body followed, and the mourners and honorary pallbearers were behind them in carriages. Lieutenant Kilbourne, who died Tuesday morning after a two-weeks' illness of typhoid fever, was a member of the Masonic lodge of Omaha Council No. 1. A large delegation of local Masons was present in the hall during the impressive ritual, and a very much larger crowd of people had gathered on the streets about the hall, for the purpose of witnessing a military funeral. Lights Affect Stranger Oddly Dazed by Glow, He Wabbles and Reels and Question Arises, "Is He from Lincoln?" The brilliancy of the thousands of lights evidently affected the man for as he stood and viewed the parade his body swayed from side to side and he fell. Some times it seemed as though his feet were riveted to the sidewalk but he would frequently describe a complete circle with his head and body. Especially was this noticeable as he searched his vest pockets for a match, which naturally he could not find. He held in his mouth an unlighted half of a cigar. Finally a warm hearted and sympathetic bystander came to his rescue. "Want a match?" the bystander remarked. "Sure, I want a match," was the hesitating reply. The bystander lighted the match and held it before the half smoked cigar. The hero of the story puckered up his mouth and went to the match. Before he reached it his head wobbled, then it wobbled again and then he waded from side to side and he just couldn't get connected with that match. Then his patience became exhausted. "Heaven's sake, hot it still; hot it still," he said. POLICE IDENTIFY CROOK AFTER MANY YEARS ABSENCE Dunn and Savage Recognize Man Who Blew Up Pawn Shop Fifteen Years Ago. The arm of the law is long, but its memory is even longer. This was evidenced in a most striking manner, when Police Captain Dunn and John H. Savage, chief of detectives, recognized almost instantly last night a crook whom they had not seen for fifteen years. The man was A. Anderson, alias A. Munson, and he was arrested January 25, 1895, for attempting to blow a safe in a pawnshop on Farnam street, which was run at that time by Fred Moles. Anderson was arrested last night at Sixteenth and Dodge streets in an unsuccessful attempt to pick a pocket, by Detectives Davis and Pattulo. When taken to the station he was recognized on the spot, first by Captain Dunn and then by Captain Savage. He gave his name as William Anderson and said that he was living at the Millard hotel. Anderson had a pal with him at the time of his arrest, but the man was successful in making his getaway. BIG REAL ESTATE DEED FILED Dr. H. C. Gifford Has Secured Title to the Bohrbough Block at Nineteenth and Farnam. Formal transfer has been made of the Bohrbough building to Dr. Harold Gifford. The building which is on lot 5, block 115, at Nineteenth and Farnam streets, was sold a year ago but the deed is just now recorded. It appears that Dr. Gifford pays $30,000 for the property. He gives a mortgage to the Commercial Building company for $20,000. Dr. Gifford paid $10,000 for the option—this to apply on the purchase—and then $20,000 more in cash. Dr. Gifford is fast becoming one of the principal downtown realty holders of Omaha. He purchased a few weeks ago of the Cudahy corner at Seventeenth and Douglas streets for something like $25,000 was the biggest deal during September. Real estate is looking up. Transfers Wednesday amounted to $14,000, the largest for several days. Most Wonderful Healing. After suffering many years with a sore, Anson King, Port Byron, N. TRADE BOOSTERS LINING UP

Are Having Competition in the Territory over Which They Travel. LINCOLN AND SIOUX CITY These Two Cities Are Sending Representatives to Many of the Same Towns—Omaha Boosters Must Hustle. Omaha's trade boosters are to have competition in northeastern Nebraska this fall. Lincoln has just been out and covered a few of the towns at which the Omahans will stop and within a few days Sioux City will also have traversed a portion of the Omaha schedule. Letters to the Commercial club indicate that the people of Nebraska know that Omaha puts on the big show and the big enthusiasm and energy is to be held in reserve for expenditure when the real trade boosters come along. F. J. Hoel and other members of the advertising committee are having a strenuous time determining the winner of the contest for the best schedule submitted. It has proven a difficult task, but an announcement will be made within a few days of the winner of the $25 prize. Railroad men are manifesting activity in connection with this trip. General Manager Walters of the Northwestern has promised Chairman Hayward of the trade excursion committee to accompany the party, and A. N. Strawbridge, superintendent of dining cars service on the same line, has been in Omaha several days going over with Chairman Carpenter of the committee details of feeding the party. Reservations are coming in with desirable promptitude, but firms who have not yet named their representative should hurry to do so and send his photograph to the Commercial club for use in the trade excursion official booklet. October 10 is the last day of sending pictures to the engraver. Digestion and Assimilation. STORY ON DICK METCALFE AND FRIENDS LEAKS OUT John Devine and John Maher Accept Invitation, Then Get Called. Down for Smoking. Two years ago Dick Metcalfe became possessed of some acreage property near the Bryan home at Lincoln. On the place was a small cottage and in charge of it was a personal friend of Metcalfe, a man of many years and full of respect for his chief. John M. Devine in those days was a great supporter of Bryan (was) and also a friend of Metcalfe. The same applies to John G. Maher. So Metcalfe being very proud of his country estate, even though he was not living there insisted on his friends in Lincoln paying him a visit. His orders were that if no one was at home for the visitor to walk in the house and take possession. This is what John Devine and John Maher did. They arrived one Sunday afternoon. They took complete possession and, expecting Metcalfe any moment, they searched the pantry, put out a meal and ate it. Then they stretched themselves in easy chairs and began to smoke. Colonel Maher thought it would be funny to leave a nice letter to Metcalfe thanking him for his hospitality and was in the act of writing the letter when a form appeared in the doorway. In fact, the form filled the door. The form was that of a man. The man was fully six feet in height; he had long white whiskers; he was as straight as an arrow and his first name was Obadiah. He walked in without saying a word. He was accented by Colonel Maher: "Anything you want, sir?" The man answered not until he had walked into another room and removed his coat. Then he reappeared. He spoke: "I guess when I come into my own house and find strangers here, I don't need to say what I want." His attitude created a nervous feeling among his uninvited guests. "We are friends of Mr. Metcalfe," chimed in General Devine, the diplomat, "and came here expecting to meet him. Finding him not at home we naturally took possession." "Well, you may be friends of Mr. Metcalfe and you may not. But if you are you should have enough respect for him not to smoke in his house on Sunday. Get out." The two visitors sneaked out of the house and down the road to the car tracks. And when the housekeeper telephoned the owner of the occurrence Metcalfe told him he had done exactly right. THE LATEST STYLES IN KNITTING AND CROCHETING

A Handsome and Inexpensive Sacque. Here is one of the most handsome of the season's new models in babies' sacques, and possesses the additional merit of being one of the most easily made. The heavy effect of the trimming gives an unusual richness and is produced by merely carrying a double thread; one of color and one of white. It is made of Fleisher's Shetland Zephyr—a yarn particularly suited to this class of work—light, dainty, strong. Full directions for making this and many other new and staple articles may be found in the new (eighth) edition of Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual, an invaluable handbook for beginner and expert. Contains a complete course of instruction in the various stitches and is the only authoritative guide to fashion in articles made of yarns. Little Bobbie 5c Cigar and Friends Leaks Out.
