A strong fight is being made to reduce are at work in the city hall and elsewhere scrutinizing the typewritten copies of the lists supplied by the county clerk. The statement is sonde that when minors and non-registered voters have been excised from the fists the 606 names secured will be cut one-half. The anti-consolidationists appear confident of this, and declare that the board of county commissioners, when they come to deal with the matter Friday, will not find the petition supported by the requisite derat number of voters. Under the law the petition must contain the names of 10 per cent of those who registered or voted at the last election. The number was 4,500. Whatever way things go it looks as if the courts may yet be a in determining the lasues involved. The Commercial club has placed itself on record against annexation at the present time. The meeting at which this decision was arrived at was held yesterday afternoon. It was largely attended and the thirty odd members who met to discuss the question were unanimous. The feeling of the club is that merger upon the terms of the existing charter of Omaha would be unfair to the sister city and to educate the electorate upon the situation, as the club views it, a committee will be appointed today to conduct literature campaign should it be decided by the county commissioners that the special election will be held. The club intends to draft a bill for submission to the next legislature to bring about anaxation on conditions that will be equitable to South Omaha.
